CONGRESS IN FINAL SESSION

Confronted With Two Outstanding Annual Supply Bills—Clark in Chair Twenty Hours

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Congress, upon reassembling for its last day was confronted with only two outstanding annual supply bills, general deficiency and Indian appropriation. All the other appropriation measures, whose delay had aroused the leaders in both houses had been agreed upon in conference and put through both houses. The deficiency bill was hung up in conference. The Indian bill was marking time in the senate when the two houses, still in the fiction of the legislative day of Saturday, recessed from shortly after four this morning until 9.30 o'clock, following a continuous all day session.

The night session lacked the spectacular features of some of its predecessors in the dying hours of a congress but verbal bouquets thrown generously from the democratic and republican sides and personalities served to enliven the proceedings. Rep. Heflin of Alabama had been counted upon to drone a camp meeting song. Tilson of Connecticut had been expected to spring an original poem on the "quack, quack of the lame ducks," but the festival of song and humor was side-tracked.

Speaker Clark had sat on the rostrum almost 20 hours continuously. Republican Leader Mann and Democratic Leader Underwood remained at their posts; Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee was continuously in conference over the supply bills or piloting them through the house. Up in the gallery there was a remnant of the crowd that had surged in during most of the night.

Requests to extend remarks in the congressional record, a time-honored privilege became so frequent that at 3 a. m. Rep. Akin of New York asked unanimous consent of the house to extend his remarks on all subjects.

There were several personal issues raised during the early hours today. Rep. Austin made an urgent plea for a $200,000 appropriation for the Knoxville exposition and exclaimed that he had to get the appropriation or his constituents would "crucify" him. Former Speaker Cannon denounced the sundry civil bill and declared the president should not approve it because of the conference acceptance of the provision exempting labor unions from the applicability of the $300,000 of funds appropriated to enforce the anti-trust laws.

Mr. Cannon contended that was class legislation.

The senate finally agreed to the conference report on the general deficiency bill, thus disposing of that measure.

The Indian appropriation bill remained the only measure to be disposed of but Senator Fall declined to allow the senate to accept the conference report.

Speaker Clark appointed a committee consisting of Reps. Underwood of Alabama, Sparkman of Florida and McCall of Massachusetts to notify the president that the house was ready to adjourn.

The house also later agreed to take up the report on the general deficiency bill, leaving the Indian bill the only measure not finally disposed of by the house.

SWORN IN AS PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES AT WASHINGTON TODAY

President WILSON (C) BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION — Vice-President MARSHALL

Exercises Attended by Largest Crowd in History of Capital---Imposing Ceremonies

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Woodrow Wilson became president of the United States today amid imposing ceremonies and tumultuous scenes of popular greeting. Standing at the historic east front of the capitol he took the constitutional oath of office and in his brief inaugural address made a fervid appeal to all patriotic men for counsel and said:

"This is not a day of triumph," he declared. "It is a day of dedication. Here muster, not the forces of party but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward looking men to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me."

Vice-President Marshall had been inaugurated in the senate chamber only shortly before and at the conclusion of President Wilson's inaugural address the party hurried back to the White House ahead of the inaugural procession, where Mr. Taft said good-bye to President Wilson and prepared to leave at once for Augusta, Ga. President Wilson shortly afterward took his place to review the procession.

ELABORATE EXERCISES ATTENDED THE INAUGURATION OF PRES. WILSON

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Inauguration day at the National Capital brought one of the largest throngs ever seen there and there was the usual curiosity at all points whenever a prominent official passed along the streets. The weather while not ideal, was mild and while the morning was threatening, the sun came out later and in the afternoon a gale blew over the city. The newspaper men were at all points watching the incoming officials but the greatest interest centered in the movements of the new president and his family.

President Wilson instructed his secretary to learn what would be the proper time to send the cabinet nominations to the senate as the president intended to send them today.

Shortly after nine o'clock William Jennings Bryan called with William F. Coombs to see Mr. Wilson. Both were greeted most cordially and went into conference with the president in the latter's room.

After this conference President Wilson met the newspaper correspondents and told them that he had been informed by the leaders of congress that the business of the extra session will be ready April first, adding that the date was subject to change.

About this time the committee in charge of the ceremonies of the day arrived to take Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall to the White House. At 9.45 Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall accompanied by the congressional committee left their hotel and began the short drive to the White House. The Essex and Culver troops cantered along as their escort, while the stu-

A GREAT BOOM FOR LOWELL

New Union Depot at Washington Park—Eight Story Factory on B. & M. Property

The most extensive railroad changes in the history of Lowell are being contemplated at the present time and Lowell is due for an unexcelled era of prosperity. The changes contemplated include the building of a magnificent union depot at the old ball grounds known as Washington park and a four track railroad system through Lowell. This will mean the elimination of the present depot, the widening of the cut near the depot, and the acquisition of a vast amount of property. It was stated today, and on the best of authority, that plans for these extensive improvements and alterations are now almost completed and will probably be passed upon by the Boston & Maine and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads within a short time.

With this report of magnificent and extensive improvements under the leadership of progressive management comes another well authenticated report of the erection, by outside interests, of an immense manufacturing establishment, eight stories in height, on territory adjacent to the old Boston & Maine train shed. It is understood that the new plant will be devoted either to the manufacture of passenger automobile, or business trucks or perhaps both. The two propositions would involve expenditures well into the millions and would be a great boom to Lowell. It remains for outsiders, it would seem, to appreciate Lowell's advantage as a place for investment and it has been confidently predicted that Lowell, within the next decade, will have a population of more than 150,000. Prospects never looked brighter for Lowell than at the present time.

Four Tracks and New Depot

Surveys and soundings for the installation of the four track system have been made by railroad engineers and unless all signs fail the work will be under way before many months have passed. After widening the cut in the vicinity of the French estate the four tracks will swing with a broad curve across and under Middlesex street and continue along through land now occupied by the St. James hotel, the Davis & Sargent lumber yard and buildings and other property in that vicinity, terminating in a great main station at Washington park. Under the new plans it would not be necessary to put the tracks across the canal and it will be quite possible to depress the tracks by a waterproof retaining wall. Beyond the old ball grounds, according to the present plans, the road would take in the Doherty foundry and other property in that vicinity.

The scheme to erect a magnificent depot at Washington park will appeal to the people of Lowell when they realize how accessible it can be made by a slight change in street railway lines and to the proposal to eliminate the old depot everybody in Lowell will say "Amen." It might appear on the surface that in order to reach the depot were it located at Washington park, it would be necessary to use the Middlesex street line, but as a matter of fact by the making of very slight changes the depot could be reached by quadruple service from the centre of the city. These changes would include the Fletcher and Dutton street lines.

Grade Crossing Bugbear

The plans as outlined by the engineers does away with the grade crossing bugbear that has been with us for years. Heretofore many have thought it impossible to depress the tracks at the Middlesex street crossing because of having to cross the canal. The new plan, as already stated, does not contemplate crossing the canal and this very fact simplifies the engineering problem.

The job of widening the cut at Thorndike street, or, to be more exact, where the overhead bridge connects Appleton and Cushman streets, has also been considered quite an engineering problem but the new plans, it is said, wipe out practically all the little difficulties that were forever bobbing up when the grade crossing at Middlesex street was being considered.

Reaching the Mills

The mills would probably be reached by depressed tracks for freight and the scheme as contemplated would greatly enhance the value of property in Dutton street. It is a well known fact that the putting into the market of Dutton street property for stores and other purposes has been under contemplation for a number of years. With the new turn of affairs the land in Dutton street would be made very valuable and it would be but a short time when Dutton street would be superior to Middlesex street.

The proposition for a grand mill yard or terminal was made several years ago and has since been seriously considered. The scheme was to run tracks through the Gage land in School street and establish the yard back of the Ayer estate. The proposition for a general mill yard where the different mills could get their supplies, doing their own shifting with dummy engines, is said to be looked upon with favor by a majority of the mill men in Lowell and with the coming of the changes in railroads here, changes that will be due to the progressive management of which President Mellen, a Lowell boy, stands at the head, it will be possible for the mills and other industries to improve their facilities and and get greater accommodation. When the new bridge was built in connection with the grade crossing work in School street one arch was left open for a single track and at that time one of the engineers was heard to remark that it would be but a short time before the bridge would have to be made all over. Asked why he thought so, he replied that it was but a question of time when the railroad would put a four track system through Lowell. "The railroads will do something other than build a grade crossing in Middlesex street," he said.

New Manufacturing Industry

It is a New York concern that is after the old Boston & Maine station at Tower's corner and it is said that the deal will be closed in a very few days. The company already has option on private property in the vicinity of the depot and extending between Hurd and Green streets to the Middlesex mills. The new company will build an eight story factory for the manufacture of automobiles and will give employment to a great many hands. They will require a lot of skilled help and though it may not be generally known, Lowell has her quota of first class mechanics.

The new company, it is understood, will use the front of the old depot building for offices and the rear for storage and shipping. It would be a most convenient point for a manufactory of this kind and it would be a very welcome addition to the city's list of industries.

Department of Labor Created

WASHINGTON, March 4—President Taft signed the bill creating the department of labor, with a cabinet portfolio. President Wilson's nomination for this position will be William B. Wilson, now a retiring representative in congress from Pennsylvania.

Among the first bills President Taft signed were the rivers and harbors, public buildings, agriculture and general deficiency.

REPAIRING MEXICO RAILROADS

Government Troops Will Then Engage in Campaign Against the Rebels

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—A force of rebels has occupied the town of Yerabuitia, a place of considerable importance near Cuautla in the state of Morelos. In consequence of this the war department announces its intention of despatching a punitive expedition into the southern rebel zone. The number of federal soldiers at present in the state of Morelos amounts to only a few more more than 1000.

A construction train under a strong guard of government troops is engaged in repairing the railroad between the federal capital and Cuernavaca and it is probable that when this is completed the campaign against the rebels in the south will be pushed with much more vigor.

The capital of Alberto Fuentes D, the alleged rebellious governor of the state of Aguascalientes is regarded by the government as a big step toward ending the revolution which broke out in the north at the inauguration of Provisional President Huerta's administration.

New significance has been added to the general insurrectionary movement in the northern states lead by Venustiano Carranza, the rebel governor of the state of Coahuila, by the discovery of the presence of some adherents of Carranza far to the west in Zacatecas, where they have burned a number of railroad bridges.

Gen. Benjamin Argumendo, one of the rebel commanders, has telegraphed to the government that he has 500 men and 1200 horses which he will place at the disposal of the new administration and he declared that he would pitch his headquarters at Lerdo, a suburb of Torreon last night.

Gen. Argumendo informed the government that one of his lieutenants, Robles, on Sunday with 300 men attacked and defeated the rebel chief, Juarakey in northern Aguascalientes. Argumendo expects Robles and his men to join him at Lerdo some time this week. Gen. Reche-Campos, another rebel leader with a considerable force of his men is encamped at Gomez Palacio another suburb of Torreon. Both of these generals were prominent leaders in Pascual Orozco's rebel army.

As the government has not received satisfactory advices from Gov. Maytorena of the state of Sonora plans have been drawn up at the war office to call on Pascual Orozco with 3000 men to start a campaign against him.

Two Small Disturbances

BOSTON, March 4.—Two small disturbances in the garment and shirtwaist manufacturing districts engaged the attention of the police today. Two arrests were made in front of an establishment on Bedford street.

Indictments Returned

BOSTON, March 4.—New indictments were returned in the United States district court today against W. B. Wheeler, Stillman Shaw and G. Alden Whitmore, officers of the North American Rubber Co. of Boston, all charged with using the mails fraudulently in selling stock in the company.

Charges Against Police

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Charges that the police of Washington did not properly protect yesterday's suffrage parade were made in the house early today by Rep. Hobson of Alabama, who later declared that he proposed to ask for an investigation of the police department during the extra session of congress.

Poorly cooked oatmeal never made anyone strong.

Many people who eat oatmeal with the idea that it is doing them good are deceiving themselves, because they are eating it only partly cooked.

The principal element in oatmeal is starch, a great producer of bodily heat. The starch cells in the oats must be cooked at least two and a half hours before their walls are broken down so that the digestive juices can assimilate the starch.

H-O is the only oatmeal ready for assimilation after 20 minutes' cooking in your kitchen.

Reason: We cook it more than 2 hours at the mills.

LARGE VOTE AT DRACUT TOWN MEETING YESTERDAY— $2000 WAS APPROPRIATED FOR BETTER ROADS

FRED E. POLLARD

PERCY SMITH
Re-elected Selectman

WALTER GARLAND,
Re-elected Selectman

The good weather of yesterday brought out a large vote at the annual town meeting in Dracut and the result was a sweeping victory for the republican voters as only two democrats secured office. John W. Brennan, D., was elected town clerk while Thomas F. Carrick, D., was chosen tree warden by a good majority. The town also voted no license, this being the fourth consecutive year it has gone dry.

In spite of the tax rate of $28.30 per $1000 last year the appropriations were only about $6000 less the amount voted this year being $63,251.83.

That Dracut will have better roads was assured yesterday afternoon when $2000 was appropriated to macadamize Pleasant street; an article calling for the sum of $6000 to repair Mammoth road was adopted; and $6300 was voted to expend on Bridge street. A sum of $398.13 was also appropriated to build a sidewalk in front of the Hildreth cemetery. The town also voted to free itself from probable future liability by discontinuing a portion of the "Old Road." Some of the articles caused considerable discussion although the meeting was "tamer" than some in the past.

The vote cast was as follows:

Town treasurer: One elected: George H. Stevens, R., 268; Nicholas Gallagher, D., 238.

Assessor (three years) one elected: George R. Fox, R., 258; Michael Whelton, D., 241.

Tree warden, one elected: Thomas F. Carrick, D., 288; William E. Finacom, R., 199.

School committee, three years, three elected: Arthur H. Haywood, R., 373; Paul L. Scott, R., 367; Hiram E. Linscott, R., 366; John H. Gillick, D., 237; Bernard Maguire, D., 224; Charles H. Jones, D., 212.

Trustees of public library, three years, two elected: Harry Mozley, R., 256; Thomas H. Varnum, R., 255; Patrick Cassidy, D., 195; Dennis J. Morrow, D., 184.

Cemetery commissioner, three years, one elected: John W. Peabody, R., 279; Frank Farrell, D., 205.

No license, 283; for license, 188.

JOS. ETTOR DEPORTED

Strike Leader is Barred From Dominion

BLAINE, Wash., March 4.—Joseph J. Ettor, a leader of the strike of members of the Industrial Workers of the World at Lawrence, Mass., returned to the United States yesterday, having been taken from a train at White Rock, B. C., Friday and deported on an order from Ottawa.

Ettor was kept under guard between trains by immigration officers, who reported that he refused to answer questions. He declared that he was a citizen of the United States on his way to Victoria to lecture and that he could not be detained. He refused to permit his baggage to be searched.

The order from Ottawa gave no reason for deportation except that Ettor was regarded as an agitator and as such he was not wished in the country.

Ettor, since his acquittal at Salem, Mass., on a charge of murder, has refused to desert the Industrial Workers of the World, although his family threatened to disown him.

Mysterious Case Dropped

CHICAGO, March 4.—The Evanston police today dropped the mysterious case of Mrs. Mabel Mills of San Antonio, Texas, and her "lost or stolen" $41,000.

According to Chief Shaffer of Evanston, the case never was brought to his attention officially, nor were any arrangements made with him to prosecute a search for the money.

Mrs Mills is supposed to have departed the city. Chief Shaffer says that she was very reticent about the whole business and declined to answer leading questions.

HAPPY, LAUGHING CHILD SHORTLY.

If Cross, Feverish, Bilious and Sick Let "Syrup of Figs" Clean Its Little Waste-Clogged Bowels

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative physic should always be the first treatment given.

If your child isn't feeling well; resting nicely; eating regularly and acting naturally it is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or your little one has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, tongue coated; give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious fig taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggists for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

THE USE OF FLAVORING

How it is Abused by Some Cooks

The French say that as a nation American cooks spoil their handiwork because they don't know how to flavor their dishes properly, and this criticism is in many cases only too true.

Lemon and vanilla flavorings are both often handled very badly. Many cooks either leave them out altogether or put in a great deal too much. It is a good thing to remember that vanilla should not be used with any very sweet dish, as it is apt to make the flavor rather cloying, but in a cake or pudding which contains only a little sugar it is often a wonderful improvement.

Unless your hand is exceptionally steady you had better not pour out vanilla from the bottle, for instead of a drop or two you will get a steady stream. It is safer to pour the vanilla on a lump of sugar; then if too much comes out you can break off part of the lump and so get only the exact quantity that you want.

Use fresh lemons rather than lemon essence whenever you can get them. You can put a squeeze of lemon juice into pastry or a cake or pudding of the solid kind, but it must never be put into a milk pudding or sauce, for it would curdle the milk and make the whole thing lumpy.

Instead, you should cut a bit of thin lemon rind and simmer it gently in the milk for a few minutes, then take out the rind and go on making your pudding, or you may rub a couple of lumps of sugar on the outside of your lemon till they turn yellow and then add them to the pudding.

If you want to make a soup or stew taste of onion without actually having a piece of onion in it, cut open your vegetable and rub it on each little bit of meat, or you may fry a few slices of onions with a little dripping at the bottom of the pan which is to contain the stew and then take out the slices before putting in the other ingredients.

A little chopped onion added to greens improves their flavor in a wonderful way. It is also very nice in dried peas, lentils or beans.

A couple of cloves put into an apple tart bring out the flavor of the fruit. Many people, too, who do not care for spice in a pudding will welcome a stick of cinnamon which has been simmered in the milk with which the pudding is made.

A very delicious meat flavoring may be made by putting a few peppercorns and some chopped parsley into a small bottle of vinegar. Stand this in a gentle oven until it is thoroughly warmed through. Set it aside and leave it for a week. Then pour off the vinegar and use it as a flavoring for stews.

A mustard sauce is very nice with any kind of fish that tends to be a bit greasy, such as fried herring or mackerel. Mix a small pinch of mustard into the flour with which the sauce is made. Add a squeeze of lemon juice, smooth the flour with a little water and mix it as for a plain white sauce.

Perhaps you do not know how delicious fried apples are with sausages. Peel and core them in the usual way, cutting them into very thin slices. Then after the sausages are cooked fry up the apples quickly in the dripping which is left in the pan. When they are quite brown arrange them around the sausages and serve very hot.

There is one thing to remember in using flavorings—don't overdo them. If you are doubtful it is better to put in too little than too much.

Crepe De Chine Nighties

The crepe de chine nightgowns are so alluring that it is not surprising they have won many converts from the muslin slumber robes. A particularly pretty one in pink crepe de chine displays a touch of hand embroidery at the neck on the center front and on the short cap sleeves. A good finish is lent by the narrow Irish picot lace which edges the neck and sleeves.

PAINS, ACHES, SPRAINS, BRUISES

Fixed Quick! By a Trained Nurse's Discovery!

Of Lynn

"My mother, an experienced trained nurse discovered a mixture of oil and anodynes which applied by a special method as used by her relieves pain in a manner that is almost wonderful. There are many other liniments but there is no other liniment just like her liniment, and there is no other that can be used in just the same way that hers is used for the relief of pain. I have named it after her, Page's Oil Liniment.

Pain is in most cases a matter of congestion or in other words a stopping of the blood flow through the affected part. In nine cases out of ten the relief of this congestion will stop the pain.

By a peculiar method of applying the liniment as described on each bottle, the goodness of the liniment is forced right into the muscles and flesh in such a way that the circulation is usually restored at once and the pain disappears. There is no unpleasant after-effect, no burning or blistering of the skin.

Below I publish a few testimonials and I want you to notice that they are nearly all from people right in my own town, where I live, the city of Lynn, Mass., where Page's Oil Liniment is well-known as the great pain reliever.

SCIATICA

I have much praise for Page's Oil Liniment. I suffered a great deal with sciatica in my arms and legs. I used this magic liniment and received great results. I haven't been troubled since. H. A. Southwick, 104 Newhall st., Lynn, Mass.

NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATISM

I was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism. This liniment was very highly recommended to me. It relieved me very quickly. It should be used in every home. Mrs. M. Day, Saugus, Mass.

SPRAINED ANKLE

After using Page's Oil Liniment for bad sprained ankle I got great relief. I will recommend same to all sufferers. Thomas Quigley, 16 Bromblecam st., Lynn, Mass.

"LAID AWAY MY CRUTCHES"

I can most heartily recommend Page's Oil Liniment as a wonderful cure. I have been laid up with inflammatory rheumatism in the Lynn hospital since September. Have tried all kinds of treatment without any relief. After using Page's Oil Liniment for one week I laid away my crutches and now I can walk without any cane. William Hallissey, 217 Summer st., Lynn, Mass.

I urge you to start at once using Page's Oil Liniment following the simple directions on the bottle. The price is 25c and 50c per bottle. These up-to-date stores are the only ones in Lowell where you can at present buy this new remedy:

PRESIDENT WILSON'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS A TERSE ENUNCIATION OF HIS FUTURE POLICY

President's ROOM in the CAPITOL

President Wilson in his inaugural address sets forth the significance of the present complete change in government—

Protests against the old order because of unfulfilled promises.

Outlines the policies of the democratic party and groups things most in need of reform under five main heads:—The tariff, banking and currency, trust regulation, agricultural possibilities and conservation of natural resources.

Says government should be put to the service of humanity, the betterment of the masses rather than the serving of the privileged few.

Advises reorganization rather than revolution.

Calls for the co-operation of all the people and promises if supported to fulfill all pledges.

The President's Inaugural

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The senate about to assemble will also be democratic. The offices of president and vice-president have been put into the hands of democrats. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things with which we had grown familiar, and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things, as we look frankly upon them, willing to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

We see that in many things that life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in the diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men and the limitless enterprise of groups of men. It is great, also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking forms the beauty and the energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering, and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing, and contains it in rich abundance.

But the evil has come with the good, and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come inexcusable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used, and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature, without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and impotent, scorning to be careful, shamefully prodigal as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been "Let every man look out for himself, let every generation look out for itself," while we reared giant machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves. We had not forgotten our morals. We remembered well enough that we had set up a policy which was meant to serve the humblest as well as the most powerful, with an eye single to the standards of justice and fair play, and remembered it with pride. But we were very heedless and in a hurry to be great.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation, and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all its sides, financial as well as administrative, holds capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor, and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentality of science taken directly to the farm, or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; watercourses undeveloped, waste places unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mine. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy as we should either as organizers of industry, as statesmen, or as individuals.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government may be put at the service of humanity, in safeguarding the health of the nation, the health of its men and its women and its children, as well as their rights in the struggle for existence. This is no sentimental duty. The firm basis of government is justice, not pity. These are matters of justice. There can be no equality or opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control, or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not itself crush or weaken or damage its own constituent parts. The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves. Sanitary laws, pure food laws, and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency.

These are some of the things we ought to do, and not leave the others undone, the old-fashioned, never-to-be-neglected, fundamental safeguarding of property and of individual right. This is the high enterprise of the new day: to lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearthfire of every man's conscience and vision of the right. It is inconceivable that we should do this as partisans; it is inconceivable we should do it in ignorance of the facts as they are or in blind haste. We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon; and step by step we shall make it what it should be, in the spirit of those who question their own wisdom and seek counsel and knowledge, not shallow self-satisfaction or the excitement of excursions whither they cannot tell. Justice, and only justice, shall always be our motto.

And yet it will be no cool process of mere science. The nation has been deeply stirred, stirred by a solemn passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil. The feelings with which we face this new age of right and opportunity sweep across our heart-strings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. We know our task to be no mere task of politics but a task which shall search us through and through, whether we be able to understand our time and the need of our people, whether we be indeed their spokesmen and interpreters, whether we have the pure heart to comprehend and the rectified will to choose our high course of action.

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here muster, not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me!

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The Local Societies Are Very Active

Wamesit lodge still continues the activity begun at the first of the year in making new members. At every meeting applications are being received. The entertainment committee is furnishing the best that can be provided for every meeting, and only the stay-at-homes miss the good things and genial companionship of the splendid type of men who regularly attend the meetings. Chief of Staff John H. Mills is giving a fine exhibition of his work as drill master of the initiatory team. The snappy work that has made this team famous was in evidence last night when some ten young men were received into full fellowship in a manner that must have impressed them with the dignity and importance of the Manchester Unity. At the regular meeting held in Odd Fellows building last night over one hundred members were in attendance. Five applications were received and favorable action taken. A letter, from Victor Bartlett in Rhode Island was read presenting the lodge with three valuable prizes to be given to the members at the next meeting. Past Provincial Grand Master Jas. Smith of this city was present and advocated the formation of a past grand's lodge and it was suggested that a meeting of all the past grand's of the Manchester Unity in this city and North Billerica be called in the near future for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming such an organization. After the business session the members adjourned to the banquet hall and enjoyed a collation prepared by the entertainment committee and in speech, song and story the members enjoyed themselves till a late hour. At the next meeting a whist party will furnish entertainment for members and their friends.

Echo Lodge, N. E. O. P.

Recently Echo Lodge, N. E. O. P., held a supper and open meeting and the affair proved highly enjoyable to the large number who attended. There was an entertainment and a peanut hunt for prizes. The winners were as follows:

First prize, Everett Mountain; second, Miss E. Morrison; third, Miss Ella McNabb.

Those who took part in the entertainment were the following: Piano solos by C. Mountain, Miss Ella McNabb, Miss Jessie Regan, and recitations by Miss Ruth Mountain, and songs by C. Mountain and Miss Ruth Anderson. Miss Jessie Regan was the accompanist. Games were also enjoyed. In bowling, the Brothers defeated the Sisters.

Evening Star Lodge

FELL THROUGH BULKHEAD

Horse Dropped 15 Feet and Was Uninjured

An accident which might have caused the death of a valuable horse occurred yesterday afternoon at Undertaker Bilodeau's stable in Moody street, when the animal fell through a bulkhead. Fortunately it was uninjured, but it was some task to get it out of the cellar.

The horse is owned by Harris Deene of the Navy Yard, and the latter had just finished unhitching it when it started out and walked right into to an open bulkhead, about 15 feet deep, leading into the cellar of the stable. At the outstart it was seen that it was almost impossible to extricate the horse without a chain fall, and, McGovern, the furniture mover was sent for. With the assistance of five other men and pulleys, Mr. McGovern succeeded in pulling the horse to the ground.

THE THEFT OF $1400 REPORTED

A polite burglar gained entrance to the office of Paul Vigeant, hay and grain dealer, at the corner of Moody and Hanover streets, some time last night or early this morning, took a sum of money amounting to $1400 from the safe and left a note thanking Mr. Vigeant. The note read as follows:

"Vigeant; you are a good Boy—thank you dear, good bye,

According to the story of the break as the police have it, the burglar got away with $1,400. Of this amount, $1,000 was part of the insurance money which Mr. Vigeant received upon the death of his brother, Timothee Vigeant, a short time ago. The total insurance amounted to $2,000 and Mr. Paul Vigeant was the beneficiary. He decided to leave $1,000 of the money in his safe.

Edmond Corrier, who is employed by Mr. Vigeant, arrived at the place at about six o'clock this morning to begin his daily work. On entering the office he found the safe open and he immediately notified passersby and telephoned to Mr. Vigeant, who notified the police. He found the above note on a desk in the office. One of the rear windows was found to be open and it may have been that the burglar gained entrance through this. Mr. Vigeant said that he was of the opinion that he locked the safe on leaving the office last night but could not state positively whether he did so or not. The money was kept in an inner compartment and this was found to be open this morning. It is quite possible that the thief may have used a key. The police are now at work on the case.

This is the most serious of several breaks which have been reported having taken place in the heart of the city during the past week or thereabouts. In several of the others, the burglar was supposed to have hidden himself within the building and remained there through closing time, afterwards leaving by a door or window.

TOOK WATCH FROM NURSE

John Gately Then Skipped to Boston

WAS AN INMATE OF CHELMSFORD STREET HOSPITAL

Man Fined $10 for Keeping an Unlicensed Dog—Several Other Offenders in Police Court

On a charge of stealing a watch from Joseph Carroll, John Gately, whom Inspector Walsh brought here from Boston yesterday, was arraigned in police court today and he entered a plea of guilty. Defendant, it is said, was an inmate of the Chelmsford Street hospital and Mr. Carroll is head nurse there. After the theft of the watch Gately skipped to Boston and was captured there while trying to dispose of the article. He was sent to jail for a term of four months.

Kept Unlicensed Dog

Charged with illegally keeping a dog without a license, Charles Faulcon was arraigned today and pleaded not guilty. Later he said that he did not own the animal, but kept him and fed him at his home in the absence of the owner. He was fined $10 and given one week in which to pay it.

For Drunkenness

Joseph Lamoureux was fined $6. The case of Thomas F. Dolan was continued until Saturday.

Etienne Dubois and John White were others to contribute $6 to the court. Thomas F. Farrell was in for the third occasion. He was already in the care of the probation officer and suspension of sentence being revoked, the sentence was affirmed.

Thos. Noon pleaded guilty of drunkenness and Officer Maloney said that the man had smashed four blinds and three windows yesterday in a Fayette street building. He afterward "settled up" the damage and paid a $2 fine.

Antonio Ozarowski appeared and changed a plea of not guilty to guilty. He was fined $5. A few others got by on $2 fines.

FUNERALS

ANDREWS—The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews took place yesterday afternoon from her home, 113 Walker street. The burial was in the family lot in the Lowell cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. Guy W. Bean and under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

ESSIENDRE—The funeral of Martha E. Essiendre took place this morning from her home, Middlesex street, North Chelmsford. High mass of requiem was celebrated at 8 o'clock at St. John's church, Rev. Edmund Schofield officiating. The bearers were Pierre Gosselin, W. Messier, Alexandre Beaudette and Joseph Dufault. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Amedee Archambault.

PETTIS—The funeral services of Mrs. Cora May Pettis were held yesterday afternoon at her home, 262 Chelmsford street, Rev. Mr. Bigelow officiating. Her body was taken to Elkins, N. H., this morning on the 3 o'clock train for burial. Young & Blake had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Among the flowers received were the following: A pillow inscribed "Wife," from her husband; harp with broken string, inscribed "Our Cora," from her family; pillow inscribed "Cora," from her grandfather, uncles and aunts; spray of white pinks inscribed "Auntie," from her nephew; spray of pinks and roses Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Sargent; spray of calla lilies and pinks, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Chase; spray of pinks, Miss Ida Somers; basket of mixed flowers from friends and neighbors; spray of white pinks, W. E. Murphy; spray of calla lilies, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Quigley and Frank Quigley; spray of pinks, M. J. Lambert; spray of roses, Horace Hurd; spray of pinks, Mrs. Hattie D. Todd; spray of pinks, Mrs. H. E. Bean.

Grip Germs Are Everywhere

The grip needs only a few days to wreck the health. In this short time it so thoroughly poisons the blood and every tissue of the body that the victim is prostrated. Every muscle and joint of the body aches, sleep is fitful and disturbed, and there is pain back of the eyes and in the head. The grip stays in the system for years unless the blood is cleansed and built up so that it can overcome the poisons of the disease. People who do not take a good blood-building medicine after an attack of the grip are the ones who suffer for years.

Drive every trace of the grip from your system by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. W. H. Parker, of No. 96 West Union street, Newark, N. Y., who did this, says: "I was sick for two years following the grip and every one thought I was going into consumption. I trembled so that I could not sit still in a chair. My heart palpitated and I had to lie down most of the time during the entire year while I had the trembling spells. I had headaches occasionally and lost a great deal in weight. I was not able to do much work and had no ambition. I had no appetite and my stomach was out of order. After two years I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I felt that they were helping me before I had finished the first box. The trembling spells left and I was soon cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills taken in time will save you much suffering and will so tone up your system that you will enjoy the best of health.

Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for their free booklet on "Building Up the Blood." Then go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for 50 cents or better still six boxes for $2.50 or order them direct by mail.

THE LATEST ENTRY

List for Big Auto Race is Growing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 4.—The latest entry for the third annual 500-mile International sweepstakes race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, comes somewhat in the nature of a birthday surprise party, for this is the manner in which the first anniversary of the Henderson car will be celebrated. The Hendersons of Indianapolis introduced the car that bears their name to the American public with a big parade and reception in the Hoosier capital during the second 500-mile event. After a period of 12 months a Henderson is going to make its debut with thirty of the fastest speed creations ever constructed, on the world's greatest race course. It will be driven by Billy Knipper.

This driver began his speed career when he raced on the Harlem course at Chicago in 1904. Knipper also raced in Europe in 1905, when he competed in the Gordon-Bennett trophy event. In 1911 Knipper was known to racing fans all over the United States as "Prince Billy," team mate of "King Bob" Burman. While teaming with Burman he drove the 200-horsepower Janetzy-Mercedes, and a 120-horsepower Benz. Knipper had the distinction of being one of the few men who could handle at that time the old Darracq, which Hemery originally built, and which, until it was scrapped, was acknowledged to be one of the fastest cars ever put on a race track. Few men could manipulate the car, as by that time the gear box was so dilapidated that to control it was difficult.

The Trophies

There has been a rearrangement of the regular Speedway trophies, and according to present plans the Remy Brassard and trophy, the Prest-O-Lite Trophy and the Wheeler Schebler cup, instead of being raced for at the one, two and three hundred mile posts of the first two, three and four hundred mile posts of the 500-mile race, will be given to the winners of the first two, three and four hundred miles.

The details of the manner in which the trophies above will be handed over to their winners are as follows: The Remy brassard goes to the winner at two hundred miles, and the Remy trophy, valued at $2500, goes to the owner of the car. If the driver uses Remy ignition, he receives in addition to the brassard a salary of $50 a week for twenty consecutive weeks after the race. The Prest-O-Lite trophy goes to the man who is ahead at three hundred miles, regardless of any equipment he may carry. No cash accompanies this award, however. The Wheeler & Schebler $10,000 cup will be given to the victor at the four-hundred mile post. If he uses a Schebler carbureter an additional cash award of $1000 is his. Otherwise he gets only the glory. All of these trophies, with the exception of the cash awards, are returnable to their donors on demand. The plan is to offer them on the speedway every year. Between races they will naturally be allowed to remain in the custody of the driver who captures them, so that he may use them for exhibition and display purposes.

FOR THE MOTORCYCLISTS

Two Wheeled Vehicle Becoming Popular

In the future, as for the past two weeks, The Sun will devote a portion of its automobile page to the news of interest to motorcyclists. Of recent years, and especially this past year, motor cycle business has grown beyond all expectations and bids fair to continue to grow until it establishes a new record mark for the season of 1913. The best makes of motor cycle are sold in Lowell and many Lowell people are buying these vehicles. They will in all probability be used more this year than ever before.

Excelsior and Dayton

Prominent in the motor cycle business of this city is Mr. Mark McCann, who has the agency of those two popular machines, the Excelsior and the Dayton at his store in Gorham street. In the brief time in which Mr. McCann has been carrying on his business he has done wonderfully well and has taken many orders for both the above makes which are growing daily more the favorites. Mr. McCann recently returned from a business trip to Worcester where he visited the J. W. Grady Supply company, with a view to increasing the stock of his establishment anticipating a large business which is sure to accrue to him. He will attend the Automobile show in Boston during next week and will meet some of the prominent New England dealers there.

Indian and Pope Machines

Mr. Bachelder in Post Office avenue has the agency of these two well known makes of the motor cycle and is doing exceedingly well with them. They need no word to "boost" them in motoring circles for they are already very well known to all enthusiasts and have established a reputation for themselves that cannot be overthrown. Mr. Bachelder too, will attend the Boston show next week. His business has been increasing daily and he is about to augment his stock to a considerable degree.

For a Motor Cycle Club

Not long ago an endeavor was made to set on foot an organization of the motorcyclists of this city and form a club. Many evidenced interest in the project and met once but they gradually drifted away and as a result of their lack of continued interest and failing to band together permanently, the club failed. Such a club would, without doubt, be a great thing for the enthusiasts had they the energy and perseverance to form one. The fact that there are petty jealousies between owners of different makes of cars should prove no obstacle though it is thought to have been material in the failure of the last atempt to form a motor cycle club here. There should be friendly rivalry, it is true, but because all do not own the same type of machine should be no reason for the absence of an organization. Some excellent tours and motor cycle trips could be made by a large number if they were sufficiently interested to band together and it is earnestly hoped that such an organization will be successfully formed this year.

We could give you the entire list of Alco owners but refer to cite some in this State.

Sixty-five per cent of all Alco owners are rated by Bradstreet and Dun at $1,000,000 or over. Big business houses are shrewd buyers. They seldom purchase mistakes. Nearly every one of these big business houses has bought more Alco trucks. This is a good guide for the smaller business house, for it can avoid the danger of an unwise purchase if it, too, selects the Alco.

Dealers Preparing for a Large Spring Business—Many Will Go to Boston Auto Show

With the rapid approach of the warm weather, the interest in automobiling and motor cycling is increasing rapidly; those who already are fortunate enough to be the possessors of machines are using them constantly, for to them the spring means but the continuance in the enjoyment of what is already theirs, with perhaps the added pleasure which accompanies the first signs of the budding of trees, the flowers and other effects of nature that tend to make an out of door trip all the more pleasant. But there are many prospective owners of automobiles and motorcycles who have sent in their orders for machines to be delivered in the spring, fearing that at any moment there might be an unforeseen change in the weather that would necessitate them storing the machines for a time. All in all the spring business bids fair to be a record one and the motor vehicle will be more prominent than ever in the city of Lowell and elsewhere.

With the Local Dealers

Mr. E. E. Smith, of Market street, agent of the International motor trucks, has taken the agency for the Alco truck which is a very heavy vehicle with great capacity. The two trucks which Mr. Smith now sells are the two extremes of motor delivery machines. Both are greatly in demand and Mr. Smith reports business as being exceedingly good.

Last week Harry Pitts of the Pitts Auto Supply company sent in an order for 100 Ajax shoes. Today he received a bill of lading for 78, a little over ¾ of his order and a letter explaining that owing to the great demand for these tires, the company could not at that time send the full number required. They stated, however, that they would fill the balance of his order at an early date. It is surely evident that business with this concern is rushing and we are informed that Mr. Pitts is holding up his end right here in Lowell. Mr. Pitts has a large supply business here and it is increasing rapidly.

In the Lowell Automobile company, the sale of cars is beginning to grow even more and the two well known demonstrators, Milo Hale and Danny O'Day are kept continually busy showing prospective purchasers the merits of their cars. This company has an especially attractive show window which attracts unlimited attention and admiration on the part of many. Their machine shop and general garage and work room are spacious and business with these dealers is brisk.

Mr. Rochette of the Lowell Motor Mart, agent of the Ford cars, has made many sales during the past week for spring delivery.

Mr. Marin is busy with his establishment which has the appearance of being new, after the disastrous fire of a few weeks ago. Mr. Marin is making many sales of the Krit car of which he recently took the agency of Lowell.

The Reo car handled by Mr. George White, whose establishment is in Middlesex street is proving popular and Mr. White is confident that this coming season will be a record one for his business.

The Chauffeurs' Federation

It would be grossly neglectful not to make some mention of the Chauffeurs' federation and its activity in this city. The meeting and smoke talk of this organization held recently shows an earnestness and a progress that is a good thing for the city as well as for automobilists. The addresses which were attentively listened to by the officers and city officials were most instructive and beneficial and were of interest to the gathering. There is no doubt but that the Chauffeurs' federation in this city is destined to thrive and rightly so. "Success to them."

The Boston Auto Show

The dealers in automobiles and motorcycles will attend the Boston show on next Saturday and during the next week as will many others who are not dealers or agents, but merely enthusiasts. All in all the delegation of people from Lowell to this exhibit will be an unusually large one and the event will be a great factor in aiding some prospective purchasers to select the car which they will afterwards make their own.

Dayton Airless Tire Co.

The phenomenal growth of the business of the Dayton Airless Tire company, has made imperative their seeking larger quarters, and they have just signed a lease for the store and basement at 559 Boylston street. The ground floor, formerly occupied by the J. S. Harrington Co. will be used as a show-room and salesroom and the basement will be used for stock and torage.

Manager E. C. Newcomb says, "We have the only logical successor to the pneumatic tire. If you doubt it, ask a pneumatic man and hear him knock. The Dayton airless tire cannot blow out, a puncture will not hurt it, and our guarantee is 5000 to 5000 miles, according to weight of car. It rides as easy and looks the same as a pneumatic. Investigation of its merits will convince you. We invite the public to investigate the merits of the Dayton airless tire and to test the resiliency of the same by riding in our demonstrating car."

Auto Cars In Boston

That Boston will retain its premiership in auto shows is evidenced from the fact that even at this early date more makes of cars have been entered than in the combined shows in New York at the Madison Square Garden and Grand Central palaces.

The interest, too, seems to be on the increase. While many lines of business are affected by the moderate weather during the past winter, it has had an opposite effect on the Automobile industry. People who in the past—have put their cars in storage have, owing to the mild weather, run their autos practically all winter, which has benefited the traffic materially.

Upwards of 100 makes of cars will be shown in the pleasure car section which opens on Saturday evening, March 8th. Never before has such a comprehensive and varied line been shown in Boston, both from a standpoint and finish as well.

As regards the decorative standpoint it may safely be promised that no trade show in the country will have ever had such a beautiful setting as is promised for the coming one. A precedent has been established, Boston is recognized as the leading show in the country in this respect as well as in others, and Manager Campbell has been obliged to extend himself this year to live up to his slogan of "Bigger and Better." That he has succeeded will be shown when the doors are opened on Saturday evening, March 8th.

Geo. R. Dana & Son recently had orders for the "54" roadster declined by the Hudson Motor Car Co., as the product was entirely sold. This company has oversold their production every year since their organization and while this year their capacity is thousands of cars greater than in past years, a shortage is almost sure on all makes. This surely speaks well for the popularity of the car.

Mr. M. S. Feindel, who has the agency for the Oakland at his attractive salesroom in Davis square, finds the demand for that particular make of car is greatly increasing and it is certain that the coming spring will find a large number added to the list of those already owned and driven by Lowell people. In the past week or two, Mr. Feindel has made several sales and has on his list, several prospective buyers.

Recently an owner of a Stevens-Duryea "C-Six" when told by a friend of a compliment he had heard on the appearance of his car, remarked that he liked compliments, but that his ideas of his car's appearance were well established and that the action of the car, too, had won the greatest admiration of both himself and family.

AUCTION BIG PLANT

Public Sale of E. R. Thomas Motor Car Company Opens at Buffalo, N. Y., on March 17—Continues Five Days

From the local office of J. E. Conant & Co., auctioneers, comes the news of the unrestricted sale at public auction of the plant of the E. R. Thomas Motor Car Co., minus the real estate, at Buffalo, N. Y., beginning on Monday, March 17, and continuing for a period of five or six days. The property will be sold in lots to suit the purchasers and there are approximately 6000 of these lots. The sale is perhaps one of the greatest of its kind ever held and will include all manner of tools, machinery and miscellaneous mechanical equipment. Thus far the amount of money expended in newspaper and other forms of advertising of this sale reached about $7000.

CHEVELOT

IT'S the perfect blending and roasting of good coffees that creates the exquisite flavor of New York's popular brand.

Each variety used has some individual characteristic. Each one brewed alone might make good coffee. But when they are blended skillfully, so that each brings out the latent goodness of the other, the result is a delicious beverage.

HOTEL ASTOR COFFEE

is the choice of the best plantations, expertly blended and roasted a rich brown from cover to heart—a healthful perfect roasting through and through.

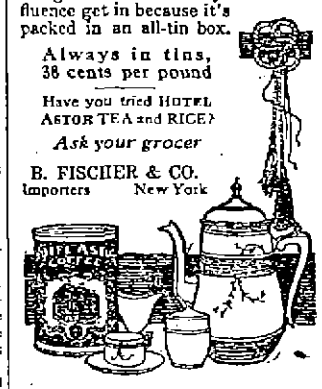

Hotel Astor Coffee makes a better drink and goes further than bulk coffee. None of its flavor or strength can get out nor can any outside influence get in because it's packed in an all-tin box.

Always in tins, 38 cents per pound

MOTORCYCLES

The year 1913 will be a "large" year for motor cycles. Just as popular as was the "bike" five or six years ago, will the motorcycle become in 1913.

And why? Mainly because the EXCELSIOR GRIP CONTROL CLUTCH has eliminated from the motor-cycle that one last objectionable feature—uncertainty of control. With the Excelsior you can control your machine through TRAFFIC or SLIPPERY PAVEMENT with both hands on the bars, instead of slipping the clutch with one hand and steering with the other.

This is but one feature of the EXCELSIOR that makes it the BEST MOTOR CYCLE BUILT. Our beautiful ART CATALOGUE describes them all. It is free for the asking.

THREE-POINT SUPPORT—UNIT POWER PLANT

THREE-POINT SUPPORT

For years we didn't realize all that the Three-Point Support accomplishes. What we knew, however, amply justified its adoption: keeps the mechanism in alignment, saves power, avoids wear and repairs, keeps the car young.

Then a man came along who saw something even more important. He said: "It dampens the lurch of your engine, and keeps it away from the passengers. Greater comfort."

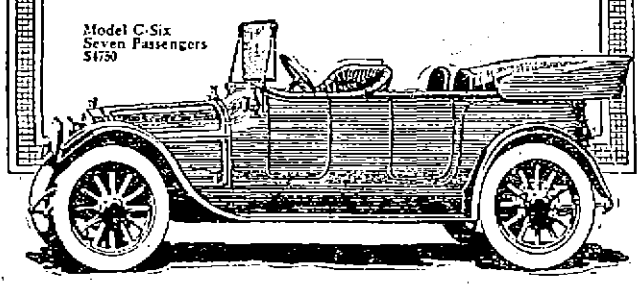

That's true, and largely accounts for the extraordinary ease of riding in a Stevens-Duryea.

THE RECKLESS DRIVER

Enormous List of Accidents Which Result

In an article in the current issue of Motor Print, Charles Johnson declares that most motorists lost sight of the real mission of the automobile warning signal. Describing conditions in Los Angeles and lower California—a locality selected as typical because of the large number of automobiles in use—Mr. Johnson says:

"I doubt if in ten per cent of the signaling by motorists that came under my observation there was evidence of the proper understanding of what the auto horn is for.

"Instead of giving a proper note at a crossing, I have frequently observed that the Los Angeles motorist does not sound his signal at all, but often immediately begins to sound it as soon as he passes one crossing on his way to the crossing a block beyond. Theoretically he does this to give ample warning to the individual at the farther crossing. Practically, what he should do is to sound the note a quarter of a block from the crossing, which has a dual effect; it causes the pedestrian who is about to step into the street to halt and gives the pedestrian in the roadway ample time to get out of the way. If the horn is blown at the farther end of the block and remains silent when near the crossing, the pedestrian has no means of knowing of the immediate proximity of the machine.

"For the six months ending July 1st, 1912, there were 1135 automobile accidents in Los Angeles in which 559 persons were injured. Of these 590 were struck or run over by machines. There were 429 accidents at crossings and 121 between crossings. The city council has now passed an ordinance defining a proper warning signal as an 'abrupt note, sufficiently loud to be heard above the noise of traffic and restricting the use of this to its true function: as a warning of danger. Another ordinance is being urged which will prohibit pedestrians from crossing the street at the intersection of streets where traffic officers are stationed except under the direction of the latter.

"My own careful study of the warning signal problem leads me to the conclusion that there is only one proper method of procedure. The first step in this direction is the framing of a law which defines within limits of reasonable elasticity the sound that constitutes an adequate warning signal, the prohibition of the use of such signal other than as a warning of danger, and the prompt punishment of the noise maker who uses a danger signal as a play-toy. Such a law must not prohibit, but must regulate. The police power of no city is sufficient to enable the municipality to prohibit the use of any public safety device within reason. The city does possess the power of regulation, which enables it to prevent any article or product being transformed into a nuisance, but regulation does not carry with it the power of prohibition in such instances. Then, when a city has the proper law, the duty devolves upon the law-abiding, far-minded motorist to unite in the matter of educating themselves and others as to the proper use of the automobile warning signal. Once a right law is created, once motorists and non-motorists understand aright the significance of the warning signal, once punishment is known to follow, sure and swift, upon the misuse of the warning signal, then the accident roll will be reduced to a minimum. The same situation as that described above exists in almost every city in the United States, although in less degree than in Los Angeles where all classes use the motor car."

TWINS BORN ON TRAIN

Mother on Way to N. Y. From Northern Maine

NEW HAVEN, March 4.—While returning on a Boston express to her home in Flatbush, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, from a trip to Aroostook, Me., Mrs. Arthur B. O'Reilly gave birth to twins just as the train was rolling into this city a few minutes before noon. Mrs. O'Reilly notified her maid, who, through the porter, summoned two physicians who were traveling on the train, Dr. James B. Mansfield of Passaic, N. J., and Henry Blossom of Boston.

The car was virtually unoccupied at the time and the three other passengers went into the forward car at the physicians' request.

While the train was waiting in this city Dr. Mansfield stepped off and wired to the Roosevelt hospital in New York city for an ambulance to be ready at the Grand Central terminal, but he said he didn't believe it would be necessary.

A telegram was also sent to the twins' father, Arthur B. O'Reilly, who is a stock broker, with offices in the St. James building, 25th street and Broadway, New York, notifying him of the occurrence.

To Lead Donkey 4500 Miles

PORTLAND, Me., March 4.—Leading a donkey and intending to walk from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., B. H. Anderson, former general secretary of the Butler, Pa., chamber of commerce, will leave this city this noon on a hike across the country in fulfillment of the terms of a bet made on the presidential election.

Anderson was an admirer of Colonel Roosevelt, having been a page in the national house of representatives in 1901, and laid a wager on his election as the progressive candidate for president.

The distance he will lead the donkey is estimated at 4500 miles and he expects to complete the journey in eight months. He must call at the White House and greet the new president, also call on the governor of every state through which he passes.

THE INAUGURAL

No political speech of recent years has been of greater interest than the inaugural address of President Wilson. The complete change in national politics leading up to his election, and the momentous issues involved, give what he says at his inauguration a peculiar significance. To those who have followed him in his recent campaign speeches there is little that is new, but in the grand simplicity of this address he condenses in small compass all his theories and philosophies, and states the problems and the cure as he sees them.

In the opening of his address the president dwells on the great change that has swept over the nation, by which the entire government has become democratic. As the reason for this he points out that a spiritual reawakening has taken place in the people, and the veils of political custom having been removed, all the old idealism of the nation shines out in its former splendor. "Some old things," says President Wilson, "with which we had grown familiar, and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister."

In this awakened idealism the people now see that great evils have grown up with the good, as tares among the wheat, and that "though our life contains every great thing and contains it in rich abundance," in the passing of time, "much fine gold has been corroded." He then dwells on the terrible waste by which we have squandered the bounties of nature, and gone on vaunting of our industrial prosperity, heedless of the great cost. Not only have we wasted the bounties of nature but we have also squandered the lives and energies of millions of our people in the mad rush for wealth. Well may the president say:

"The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat."

But now we have come to the sober second thought. The people now no longer heedless but, aware of the cost of soulless prosperity, have determined to start a great revolution—a bloodless revolution, not of innovation but of restoration. The president is very insistent on this fact that there is to be nothing radical in his policies, but a reorganization, and a gradual but general getting back to the early constitution with its principles of justice and patriotism as shown, when the good of the nation was everywhere held above the selfish gain of the individual. These words, though brief, have prophetic significance:

"We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon; and step by step we shall make it what it should be."

Among the specific reforms advocated by President Wilson are: The tariff, which now makes the government an instrument of the private interests, a banking and currency system adequate to the needs of the times, an industrial system which will not limit the opportunities of labor or individual effort, a better development of our agricultural possibilities, and finally, conservation of our natural resources.

In summing up the tone of the president is lofty, and tinged with a great and rare reverence and sincerity. He calls not only on his party but on all the people to support him in the great problems with which he is confronted. He declares that his election is not merely a triumph of party but a triumph of humanity. In one grand sweep he outlines the needs of the times and pleads for co-operation in these inspiring words:

"The feelings with which we face this new age of right and opportunity sweep across our heart-strings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. I summon all honest men, all patriots, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me."

SWEATSHOPS

During the great garment workers' strike which is still in part unsettled, the fact was brought out that a system of "team work" has been practiced for years by which, in New York city alone, sweaters to the amount of all the finished work done in the factories in the district is to be in the weekly pay-envelopes of the workers. What is true of New York is also true, though in a lesser degree, of all our principal cities. One of the strikers' demands was the abolition of this torment industry or speeding it up work.

Every little while the intolerable conditions that surround the workers in some of the New York sweatshops are brought out by a terrible conflagration or some such accident, that reveals their unsanitary, overcrowded, and dangerous condition, but though the picture is often revolting the terrible system of the home industry is still more pitiable and intolerable. Here, for the poor there is no relaxation. In the confines of stuffy tenements they are always surrounded by the litter of their labors. Being beyond the limits of legal supervision there are no regulations governing their long hours of toil or the still more terrible curse of child labor. There is nothing but monotonous work for a pittance that is often inadequate to supply their daily needs. Besides these very positive evils, the system also tends to keep down the scale of wages in the factories where, by arbitration and unity of effort they could better conditions were it not for the evils of the sweatshops.

This branch of the garment trade has also another aspect worth considering. For the welfare of the general public it is not right that the markets should be flooded with garments which, because of the conditions surrounding their manufacture may be a very great menace to health. Undoubtedly the germ laden atmosphere of the one or two foul rooms that comprise the homes of some of the workers is a hot bed of disease. It is, not at all a pleasant fact to contemplate but in this age when the spreading of infection is so generally preached and understood it is well not to overlook any of the avenues of possible contagion, and here surely is a prolific source of danger.

For the mutual benefit then of the wretched toiler and the general public this pernicious system of home work should be abolished. At the machines and benches of factories and shops the law can superintend garment manufacture, and in time regulate to its advantage, but in the congested tenements the most dreadful evils may prevail, sapping the vitality of the unfortunate workers and endangering the public health. If the contractors cannot agree on means by which this branch of the industry may be eliminated, the matter should be settled by the higher authorities in such a way as to make its continuance impossible.

DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATIONS

The business of making the municipal appropriations was conducted at the recent municipal council meeting in an energetic and sensible manner that points to the advantage of the new charter in this respect. With one exception there seemed to be general harmony and satisfaction among the commissioners, and each one not only expressed satisfaction at his particular appropriation, but also showed that co-operation rather than jealous rivalry exists in that body. The commissioners seemed rather to consider how much was really needed than how much they would get.

It is evident that in such an undertaking as the complicated business of conducting the affairs of a great city, efficiency and scientific management are not the growth of a day. In the old order of things we had been so long subjected to petty politics and a disregard for economy that until the temper of the public changes it is inevitable that some influences of the former mismanagement will be felt. At the same time there is evidenced at present a feeling of confidence in the new form of government such as has not been manifested since its adoption, and everything augurs well for an improved condition of municipal affairs.

Though a desire for economy might in some cases result in measures that would bring to a commissioner some temporary criticism and personal dislike, the general fair-mindedness of the great mass of the people may ultimately be depended upon to support all progressive measures. We may at least be grateful that the appropriations do not seem excessive when compared with the record of last year. It is now incumbent upon the commissioners to live within the amounts given them as the charter provides a penalty and even imprisonment for spending more than the amount appropriated.

If the aim of the commissioners is a desire to run the affairs of the city with the same conscientiousness with which they would manage their own private concerns, they will see many ways in which they can save money during the coming year; they will profit by former experiments and mistakes; they will demonstrate still more strongly that we have at last a form of government which has for its primary object the faithful service of all the people.

WILLIAM H. TAFT

Now when the eyes of the entire country are on the incoming president it may be well not to forget entirely some of the qualities that endeared his predecessor to the people. That President Taft is respected by the public as a whole is undoubted. Even those who differed from him in political belief and disagree with his policies have a great personal regard for him. He was recently described and with a great degree of accuracy as "the best liked and worst licked president we have ever had." It was very unfortunate for President Taft that his election savored so much of patronage and dictation from his former friend, Theodore Roosevelt. He took the reins of government at a time of great national unrest when the people were stirred up by the wild threats and promises of his predecessor, many of which were not made sincerely and which were left to President Taft for fulfillment. Roosevelt sowed the wind, and Taft reaped the whirlwind.

It cannot be denied that President Taft was animated at all times by sincerity of purpose and moderation. Neither was he lacking in courage, but by tactful conservatism he kept his head in all critical situations and so preserved the peace of the country. His judicial appointments are of a high order, and all of his administration has been very business-like. He turns over the affairs of government to his successor in far better condition than when he received them. It is probable that history will give a much higher place to President Taft as lawmaker and administrator than his recent overwhelming defeat portends. He was in a great measure the victim of circumstances.

ALICE AND MAY

Have you noticed the new styles in men's clothing, May?

Yes, Alice. Aren't they awful? I walked to work this morning, down Merrimack street, behind a young fellow, who had on the dearest little bobbed overcoat you ever saw, while his trousers—talk about bobble skirts,—there never was one as tight as they were. I don't see how he got into them.

I don't understand why men should ridicule women for wearing bobble skirts when they are going in for these new bean-pole effects. A bobble skirt on a thin woman is all right, but bobble trousers on thin men are perfectly,—well, there isn't any word that quite describes it.

If men's coats aren't to have any stiffening or padding, Alice, there will be some startling revelations when the men appear in their new spring suits on Easter Sunday.

Do you suppose that men are such slaves to fashion, May, that they will sacrifice their reputations for having manly shoulders and athletic builds, and come out as attenuated creatures, in clingy raiment that displays their pretty sloping shoulders and cute little waists. And while the men are planning this kind of clothes, the women are having their new dresses draped, gathered and puffed, to make themselves look as clumsy and stout as possible.

It must be that the men follow the women's fashion, but are always one season behind. It's queer, too, that men should want to be bobbled, after the rumpus they made because women adopted that style. They seemed to think that bobbles weren't at all nice, and they even said that tight skirts hurt trade, on account of the small amount of cloth it took to make them. And now the fickle creatures are going to do the same thing themselves.

It will be the women's turn to laugh now, May. Won't the skinny men look funny? When you see one of them ahead of you, you won't know whether he is the shadow of the nearest lamp-post, or not. I suppose the taller they are, the lighter their clothes will be; at least that's what the women did.

But how about the fat ones, Alice? I think they will look even worse. I thought being a tailor meant making all men look alike—square and straight up and down,—stuffing out the bony places, filling in the thin spots and toning down the excessive avoirdupois. But if men are to appear in public with their true lines and curves, as the case may be, I don't see why their wives can't make their clothes, and save the tailor's bill. Almost any woman that sews, can fit herself to perfection, and she would probably be able to make her husband look thoroughly chic and charming.

I imagine, May, that the members of the Fat Men's club, will recollect how their stout sisters looked when bobbled, and will stick to the good old reliable styles, that permit a man to take a deep breath, without danger of bursting more than a button off his vest.

The overcoats worn this winter were advance bobble styles, I suppose, Alice. I don't understand why a man should want to be belted in,—surely a small waist isn't a masculine social asset.

I wonder if the men will ever be interested enough in their figures, to start a contest like that Venus De Milo one, that was held in Boston.

They might do that, May. You never can tell. They would probably make it an Apollo contest, though I can't remember ever seeing any statues of those old Greek gods, that could be called skinny.

Venus was too much inclined to embonpoint, May, or in other words, she was rather stout. Won't it seem queer though, to be describing men as tall and willowy, or short and plump? The manly hero in fiction will no longer press the trembling heroine to his manly bosom, and embrace her with his manly arms. Instead, the graceful and willowy Leander will blushingly permit his Mary Ann to tenderly take his shrinking form in her strong arms, and murmur sweet nothings in his dainty ears.

That is provided, Alice, he is not a member of the new Fat Men's club.

That advertisement which says, "Nobody loves a fat man" had better be changed to "Nobody loves a thin man in a clingy suit." But look at that man—the one directly in front of us, May. Doesn't he look a sight in that new suit?

Seen and Heard

It is very strange, but very true, that the daily all-over bath is often omitted during cold weather under the impression that it is not needed except when the temperature is high. The contrary is the truth: in winter one wears thicker underclothing, as well as heavy wraps; the skin is consequently in a state of constant action and the deposit from the pores greater than in summer when perspiration and cooler clothing permits of its dissipation.

A cold bath is not an absolute necessity; on the contrary, there are many who cannot take it without injury, and the best way to find out is to make the experiment. If, after a bath, there is a feeling of chilliness, the bath has been the wrong temperature; there should be a glow all over the body and a feeling of refreshment. To make a "plunge" on a cold morning into icy water is a great strain on the heart, and that organ may resent it immediately.

Best Known Cough Remedy

For forty-three years Dr. King's New Discovery has been known throughout the world as the most reliable cough remedy. Over three million bottles were used last year. Isn't this proof? It will get rid of your cough, or we will refund your money. J. J. Owens, of Allendale, S. C., writes the way hundreds of others have done: "After twenty years, I find that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds that I have ever used." For coughs or colds and all throat and lung troubles, it has no equal. 50c and $1.00 at A. W. Down & Co.

An Indian guide whose services were retained by some wealthy young easterners desirous of hunting in the northwest evidently took them to be the greenest of tenderfoots, since he undertook to chaff them with a recital something as follows:

"It was my first grizzly, so I was mighty proud to kill him in a hand-to-hand struggle. We started to fight about sunrise. When he finally gave up the ghost, the sun was going down."

At this point the guide paused to note the effect of his story. Not a word was said by the easterners, so the guide added very slowly, "for the second time."

"I gather, then," said one young gentleman, a dapper little Bostonian, "that it required a period of two days to enable you to dispose of that grizzly."

"Two days and a night," said the guide, with a grin. "That grizzly died mighty hard."

"Choked to death?" asked the Bostonian.

"Yes, sir," said the guide.

"Pardon me," continued the Bubble, "but what did you try to get him to swallow?"

Provost Hawkins of Oriel college, Oxford, declares the Rt. Hon. W. G. F. Russell in "Edward King, 60th Bishop of Lincoln," was never happy unless he could find some fault in the undergraduates who came before him.

Among other things, the record of chapel attendance was always on his table, and referred to for praise or blame. One day when King, who was an Oriel man, and who seemed to have a happy combination of George Herbert and Saint Francis de Sales, was before him, the provost consulted the record.

"I observe, Mr. King," said he, "that you have never missed a single chapel, morning or evening, during the whole term."

He paused, but instead of a word of praise, which might reasonably have been expected, he continued severely.

"I must warn you, Mr. King, that even too regular attendance at chapel may degenerate into formalism."

CURFEW MUST NOT RING TONIGHT

(Published by Request)

England's sun was slowly setting o'er the hills so far away,
Filling all the land with beauty at the close of one sad day,
And the last rays kissed the foreheads
of a man and maiden fair,
He with footsteps slow and weary, she with sunny floating hair,
He with bowed head, sad and thoughtful; she with lips so cold and white,
Struggling to keep back the murmur—
"Curfew must not ring tonight!"

"Sexton," Bessie's white lips faltered, pointing to the prison old,
With its walls so tall and gloomy, walls
so dark and damp and cold,
"I've a lover in this prison doomed this very night to die
At the ringing of the curfew, and no earthly help is nigh!
Cromwell will not come till sunset," and her face grew strangely white
As she spoke in husky whispers—"Curfew must not ring tonight."

"Bessie," calmly spoke the sexton—every word pierced her young heart
Like the piercing of an arrow, like a deadly poisoned dart—
"Long, long years I've rung the curfew from that gloomy shadowed tower;
Every evening just at sunset, it has told the twilight hour.
I have done my duty ever, tried to do it just and right,
Now I'm old, I still must do it; curfew,
it must ring tonight!"

Wild her eyes and pale her features, stern and white her thoughtful
brow,
And within her secret bosom Bessie made a solemn vow.
She had listened while the judges read,
without a tear or sigh,
"At the ringing of the curfew Basil Underwood must die."
And her breath came fast and faster, and her eyes grew large and bright;
In an undertone she murmured: "Curfew must not ring tonight."

She with quick steps bounded forward, sprang within the old church door,
so oft he'd trod before.
Not a moment paused the maiden, but with eye and cheek aglow Mounted up the gloomy tower, where the bell swung to and fro,
As she climbed the dusty ladder, on which fell no ray of light—
Up and up, her white lips saying, "Curfew must not ring tonight!"

She has reached the topmost ladder;
o'er her hangs the great dark bell;
Awful is the gloom beneath her, like the pathway down to hell!
Lo! the pondrous tongue is swinging,
'tis the hour of curfew now,
And the sight has chilled her bosom, stopped her breath and paled her
brow.
Shall she let it ring? No, never! Her eyes flash with sudden light,
And she springs and grasps it firmly—
"Curfew shall not ring tonight."

Out she swung—far out: the city seemed a speck of light below;
There 'twixt heaven and earth suspended, as the bell swung to and fro,
And the sexton at the bell rope, old and deaf, heard not the bell!
But he thought it still was ringing fair young Basil's funeral knell.
Still the maiden clung more firmly, and with trembling lips and white,
Said, to hush her heart's wild beating:
"Curfew shall not ring tonight!"

It was o'er: the bell ceased swaying, and the maiden stepped once more Firmly on the damp old ladder, where for hundred years before Human foot had not been planted. The brave dead that she had done
Should be told long ages after, as the rays of setting sun Light the sky with golden beauty, aged sires with heads of white,
Tell the children why the curfew did not ring that one sad night.

O'er the distant hills comes Cromwell.
Bessie sees him and her brow,
Full of hope and full of gladness, has no anxious traces now.
At his feet she tells her story, shows her hands all bruised and torn,
And her face, so sweet and pleading, yet with sorrow, pale and worn,
Touched his heart with sudden pity, lit his eye with misty light.
"Go! Your lover lives," said Cromwell;
"Curfew shall not ring tonight."

Wide they flung the massive portals, led the prisoner forth to die.
All his bright young life before him.
'neath the darkening English sky.
Bessie came with flying footsteps, eyes aglow with love light sweet;
Kneeling on the turf beside him, laid his pardon at his feet.
In his brave, strong arms he clasped her, kissed her face upturned and white,
Whispered: "Darling, you have saved me.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

"Pardon Trust"

Governor Sulzer of New York can not push that alleged "pardon trust" too vigorously, no matter who may be involved. The offence is rank, and penitentiary sentences ought to be the fate of every grafter, professional or layman, upon whom guilt can be fastened.

Taft and the Trusts

It will be one of the satisfactions of President Taft that it was under his administration that the first successful efforts to condemn breakers of the anti-trust law to jail was accomplished. Twenty-nine officials of the National Cash Register company get a sentence of a year each in jail. The president of the company and another officer will not only spend the year behind the bars, but each will pay a fine of five thousand dollars. The defendants were found guilty for suppressing competition by unfair methods, bribing employes of their competitors and also for bribing agents of transportation companies.

It is to the credit of the Taft administration that, without any fuss or feathers, surely and steadily, the laws of the country have been vigorously prosecuted against violators, and results have been obtained. If during the next four years it is increasingly easy for convictions of violation of the anti-trust laws the country will have Taft and his advisers to thank for laying such splendid foundation for the larger results that ought and doubtless will be secured.

How Stamps Are Made

Providence Tribune: An interesting example of what this sort of modern efficiency means is a machine which prints, gums and perforates twelve thousand postage stamps a minute. Figuring on an eight-hour day this is a production of five million, seven hundred and sixty thousand two-cent stamps, worth $115,200, as a day's work for the two operators required on the machine. The stamps are shot out—there is no other way to express it—at the rate of seventy feet a minute. This means over six miles of postage stamps a day.

Change in Japan

Portland Express: Japan is burdened with debt incurred during the last war with Russia. The taxes under which the people groan are a terrible problem before the country. The land is in revolt against them. On the day of Kalsura's fall there was rioting and bloodshed in the streets of Tokio. The quarrel is much more than a party brawl; it is a vital difference between the people and their governors. Japan has not been westernized in vain. Her people are beginning to assert themselves. And they are asserting themselves unmistakably for peace.

Mexico's Lesson

Woonsocket Call: The Mexican is forging ahead, but he has yet only a dim comprehension of the solemnity of quality of the ballot. He accepts its dictates with reservation. Usually he sanctions a ruler with the franchise after that individual has rendered himself impregnable by his control of the army.

The army and real republican political economy never, never, never mix. Mexico hasn't found that fact out yet. She is young in liberty. But in time she will learn.

Harmony in Color

Brockton Times: A negro woman's suffrage organization has been refused a place in the Washington parade. Evidently the colored woman, like the United States flag, didn't seem to fit well in the decorative scheme of the pageant.

City Trees

Lynn News: The improvement of a city through the medium of trees is commendable. The city without trees is sadly lacking in beauty. Every city which has a desire to add to its attractions will not disregard the importance of parks and tree growth. The city of Lynn is fortunate in having an association which has for its aim a systematic encouragement of this development. The forestry association should receive the endorsement of all the people, and this endorsement should not be perfunctory but practical.

Silence Strikes

Chicago Record-Herald: The newest weapon of labor in its contest with capital is the "silence" strike. It is amiable, inoffensive and invites, as it practices, no violence. Such a strike has been tried by 15,000 garment workers in Philadelphia who baffled the police entirely by parading mutely about the plant of the manufacturers.

Three leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World offered their services, but the strikers quietly but firmly rejected the offer. The English suffragists were urged by some of their leaders to substitute thought waves for the firebrand and much oratory. The advice was not heeded, and so it remains for the Philadelphia strikers to test the efficiency of this new method.

BEDFORD TOWN MEETING

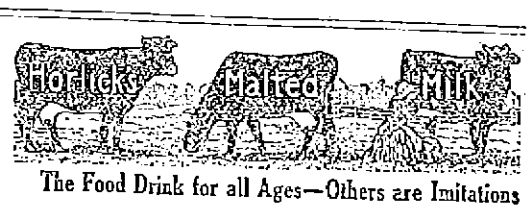

Chief of Police Kelley's Party Wins Over Faction Headed by Rev. David C. Torrey

The voters of the town of Bedford turned out yesterday in large numbers and the result was some very close contests. Selectman Immanual Pfeiffer was reelected, defeating his opponent, David C. Cutler, by one vote, the final being 116 to 115. Pfeiffer was believed to represent Chief E. P. Kelly's party in that town, while Cutler was for the party led by Rev. David C. Torrey.

The town was thrown into the license column for the first time in 27 years, the vote being 125 yes, to 95 no. Mr. Kelly was also elected town constable by the vote of 153 to 83. There were no other contests.

The business of the town warrant will be taken up on Wednesday evening.

LOWELL CEMETERY PROPRIETORS

Held Annual Meeting and Elected Trustees for 3 Years—Tribute to Late Major Stott

At the annual meeting of the proprietors of the Lowell cemetery held last night in the banking rooms of the Middlesex Safe Deposit and Trust Co., the following were elected to serve as trustees for a term of three years, ending March, 1916: Larkin T. Trull, Albert Pindar, Harry K. Boardman and Frederic A. Fisher. The vote represented 88 lots in person or by proxy.

Hon. Charles L. Lilley, the president of the association, called the meeting to order and the first business was the reading of the records of the last meeting and the reports of the trustees and treasurer.

After the election of the trustees it was voted that they be authorized and requested to apply to the legislature as much time as might be found convenient, for an act enabling the board of trustees to make such alterations in and amendments to the corporation from time to time as the exigencies and interests of the corporation might require.

It was also voted that the proprietors should authorize the trustees to direct the treasurer to withdraw the sum of $1500 from the reservefund and apply the same to payment of the corporation note of same amount, said obligation being incurred in 1913 for the purpose of rebuilding and strengthening retaining walls and other stone work at the cemetery, and that they should authorize the trustees to direct the treasurer to withdraw from the reserve fund a sum of money annually, to be expended under direction of the trustees for the purpose of relaying, renewing, extending and improving the water service at the cemetery.

The report of the board of trustees was read by Charles L. Knapp and was, in part, as follows:

During the year past two existing vacancies on the board of trustees have been filled by the election of C. Arthur Abbott and Frank Hanchett, the terms of both extending to March, 1914.

Heretofore the exact period of the cemetery fiscal year has not been defined. As a matter of fact it has in recent years been closed about February 20th. Under the by-laws as adopted in annual meeting in 1912, the fiscal year "shall begin on the twentieth day of February." Our previous year terminated at close of February 20th, 1912, hence the period covered by this, the seventy-first annual report, is from February 21st, 1912, to February 19th, inclusive.

Large Sale of Lots

The year has been quite successful as measured by business. The total received from sale of lots is larger than for several years. The total number of new care funds for future maintenance of lots, always an indication of cooperation and interest, is 36, as against a total of 20 the year previous; the total number rather than the amount received being the real test of progress. Never in a single year has so much new monumental work been erected as during 1912. Several pieces of work underway are waiting erection the coming spring. It would seem invidious for us to specialize, hence we but state the fact that as a whole work complete and work actually under way represent an expenditure of many thousands of dollars. This we speak of more especially because it indicates no lessening of interest in the affairs of our corporation. Incidental with some of this monumental work and reconstruction of surroundings was the call upon us for labor requiring an increased working force, shown conclusively in total 1912 expenditure for labor, $9236.20, as against $8,543.14 in 1911. We will not, however, enter upon financial figures of the year, inasmuch as they are most fully set forth in our treasurer's report to the trustees and which you report to the trustees and which you are to consider part of our report. The treasurer's accounts and deductions therefrom and set forth in his report have been audited by qualified accountant as in our case is required by law. The one all-important result, you will discover from the treasurer's report, is the actual reduction of the permanent loan debt by $800, as well as a betterment in total notes and bills payable less available assets by $300, gratifying indeed to your trustees, as it should be to lot owners, accomplishing as we have an unusual amount of work without increasing our debt.

In the spring of 1912 our attention was brought to the need of repinning the retaining wall which overlooks the Concord river near the Lawrence street bridge. We entered upon the work with a view of it being perhaps a week of labor for two men, no more than that. As a matter of fact, we found the greater portion of this wall, built as it was before the Civil war, in a weakened and in places very dangerous condition. Following inspection by experts, it was made plain there was but one thing to do and that to rebuild the wall or a portion of it from its foundations. We did this. Portions not rebuilt were opened and thoroughly coated with cement. We spared no pains and believe we have made thorough work, sufficiently substantial for all time. The wonder is that a dry wall, well built though it was, with the tremendous push that was behind it and near as it was to the railroad tracks and pounding of continual passing, that no accident has occurred. We believe it is very fortunate that the condition of the wall was discovered. This work of rebuilding and strengthening with some other repairs that the stone contractor did cost us $1800. In our opinion this expense should be met by an appropriation from the reserved fund. We recommend that you vote the necessary authority at this meeting.

Cemetery Water Supply.

The condition o fthe water supply at the cemetery is well known to many to all who are frequent visitors. The city water supply was introduced at the Lowell cemetery in 1876 at a cost of $5226.59. This has been added to from year to year, but the original pipes, the most of the present system, have been in the ground 37 years. This pipe should have been renewed years ago. Like all iron pipe of its kind latin at that early period of water works, it has become filled up and is useless and hence the inefficient service. We feel that we should delay its remedy no longer. Our plan is to do a portion of the renewing and extending each year until the supply to all parts of the cemetery is adequate. The reserved fund was created for exactly such special needs. We therefore recommend that at this meeting you vote the required authority to so use money now in reserved fund, naming a reasonable amount that shall be withdrawn and applied each year until the work is complete. We recommend that the sum of $1500 be the amount named for annual appropriation, the treasurer to withdraw such part of the amount named as the board of trustees shall direct.

One other vote we ask of you to pass at this meeting. The purpose of the same is quite clearly set forth in the official call of meeting. We would like to obtain legislation that will enable the board of trustees to change, amend or add to the by-laws of the corporation at any time. It would seem to be reasonably safe for you to take this step. As you are aware the by-laws have been revised recently. We know of no need of changes in contemplation. We believe the desired authority resting with our board of trustees would be an aid in the conduct of the corporation's future business.

The Late Major Stott

It is our duty to refer to the passing of our beloved friend and fellow trustee, "Major Stott, speaking familiarly but reverentially in our designation. We have caused the following tribute, a tribute from lot owners as well as trustees, to become a part of the records of this corporation:

"Hon. Charles A. Stott passed from this life at his home in Lowell, Mass., on Thursday, October 31st, 1912. He was elected a trustee by the proprietors of the Lowell cemetery in March, 1886. In April, 1897, he was elected president of the corporation, succeeding the late Henry H. Wilder and serving in such capacity until March 17, 1911, when, owing to infirmity, he requested that he be permitted to lay down the burden of responsibility. His resignation was received with general regret and accepted only upon his assent to remain upon the board of trustees. Thus, with death, terminates his long and valued services for the good of the Lowell cemetery, a period of nearly twenty-seven years.

"It is almost useless to try successfully to chronicle what twenty-seven years of service in behalf of a corporation means in way of giving particularly our cemetery organization. It means continual sacrifice, a gratuitous giving of the time belonging to one's business. The benefit of one's ability given without reward of any sort save the self-satisfaction of doing good to others and for others less able to do for themselves. Our late associate during his term of service has seen great changes and developments in the cemetery and he is entitled to full share of credit for what has been accomplished. The lot-owners owe him a debt of gratitude, for no one was ever more alert in their interest, no one more willing to try and surmount their individual troubles, also, no one more frequently sought when aid was needed. In our meetings of trustees shall we ever forget the ringing cheer of his voice, the sunshine in his face the atmosphere of loyal friendship that always was about him? Memory will never fail. The dear old major will live with us always.

"Sleep the sleep that knows no breaking,

Barge Ride

Last Saturday afternoon, the members of the Alpha club held a barge ride to Hart pond, South Chelmsford. On the arrival at the pond, a supper was prepared by the members and an informal reception and entertainment held. The following program was rendered:

Songs, Samuel Burt, Arthur Judd, Miss Lilla Bell, Mrs. John Buchanan and Thomas England; duet, Mrs. Clifford Grant and Mrs. George Allen; readings, Mrs. John McCord, Miss Annie Hill and James Allan, Jr.

This was followed by games of various descriptions in which all took part with a vim. The committee in charge consisted of Clifford Grant, Geo. Allan, Allan Buchanan, Samuel Burt and Ben Prescott.

Annual Meeting

There was a large attendance at the annual business meeting of the Lawrence street P. M. church, last night, in the vestry of the church. During the session it was voted to give the new pastor, Rev. J. T. Barlow, elected last night, the sum of $600 and parsonage rent. The following other officers were elected at this meeting:

Moderator, C. W. Moore; clerk, Harry Blowen; treasurer, Thomas Vennard; trustees, Robert Catherwood, Alvah Perkins, David Manning, Jacob Wallace, Arthur Bourdon.

Resolutions expressing appreciation of the efforts of Clerk E. Frank Leith and the retiring pastor, Rev. J. T. Ulom, were unanimously passed.

BUCKLEY EXONERATED

McDevitt's Charges of Bribery Unfounded

BOSTON, March 4.—The committee on rules, after listening all day to further explanations by Senator John J. McDevitt of Quincy and many explanations about his conduct in this and other cases, exonerated Representative John H. Buckley of Dorchester, who was named by the Quincy senator as the man who had approached him with suggestions which led McDevitt to make charges of bribery.

Withdraws Charges

McDevitt withdrew his charges of bribery yesterday. He said that he did not believe Buckley tried to bribe him. He reiterated the statement that Buckley had talked about $300.

Buckley, who confronted McDevitt, declared that he had never suggested any sum of money and had never tried to bribe or to suggest bribery to McDevitt.

Feeling against the Quincy senator ran high yesterday because of his charges which were supplemented by vague and contradictory statements.

There was open talk in the rules committee, which made a statement of belief in the complete innocence of Buckley, that McDevitt ought to be expelled from the senate as being completely irresponsible.

The expulsion of McDevitt would, however, rest with the senate members. The suggestion of expulsion came from members of McDevitt's own party. It was stated last night that no action like this would be taken unless the democratic delegation in the senate were practically unanimous in favor of it.

COMMITTEES MET

Body in Charge of Parade March 29 Held Weekly Session—Mayor Fitz and Others to Take Part

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the parade of the Irish Catholic societies on March 29 held a largely attended meeting last evening in the reception room of Hibernian hall and discussed important matters relative to the parade. Chairman McMannon presided and Mr. Frank Kierce was chosen as secretary pro tem in the absence of Mr. Donoghue, who is attending the inauguration at Washington.

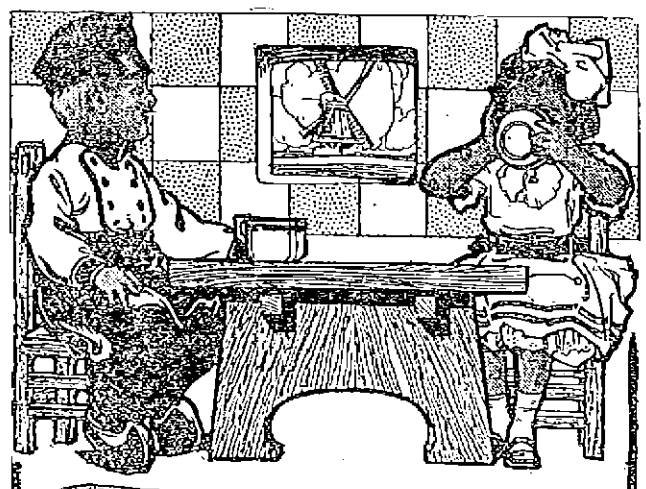

It was decided to send invitations to all the Catholic societies to take part, regardless of their nationality, in order that they might join with the others in paying their respects to the cardinal who will be present to review the procession. An invitation was also extended to the High school regiment to participate.

Mr. John H. Harrington, proprietor of the Lowell Sun, sent a donation of $100 to the committee to aid them in their work.

Letters were received and read from His Honor Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, Mayor Barry of Cambridge, and Mayor Duane of Waltham, stating that they will be present on the day of the parade.

Brother McCann reported that the A. O. H. of Manchester, N. H. will be present and the chairman reported that Andover societies and the Hibernians and the cadets of Lawrence will participate.

Remarks were made by Brothers Frank Kierce, Patrick Mahoney, Patrick McCann, Thomas J. Fitzgerald, James V. Cryan and James Burns.

"Goodness, gracious, mercy me!"
Cried "Hans, Our Friend, Across The Sea,"
"You're drinking all your Rona up,
But, Polly dear, don't drink the cup!"

She drained the cup to its last drop.

She cried, "I never liked cocoa before,
But this is so different, do give me some more!"

TEXTILE SCHOOL BILLS

Heard by Committee on Education

THREE SCHOOLS OF STATE WERE REPRESENTED

John Jacob Rogers Appeared in Support of His Bill Providing Free Instruction in Evening Classes

Yesterday was a sort of held day for textile schools at the state house. Representatives from the three textile schools of the state, the Lowell, Fall River and New Bedford schools, appeared before the legislative committee on education to speak in favor of bills asking for textile school appropriations.

The Lowell school had three bills and its annual report before the committee and the most important bill of all, perhaps, was the John Jacob Rogers bill. This bill provides for the free instruction of students in the evening classes of the Textile schools. It also provides that the city or town in which the person resides who has been admitted to the school shall pay such tuition fee as may be fixed by the board of education, and the commonwealth shall reimburse such city or town to the extent of one-half the sum expended. The full text of this act appeared in The Sun Saturday.

The other bills accompany the petition of A. G. Cumnock, president of the Lowell Textile school. One of the bills asks the commonwealth to appropriate the sum of $34,439.42 to be applied to the purposes of the school for the last half of the school year, beginning January 1, 1913, and ending June 30, 1913, and the further sum of $50,000 for the same purposes for the fiscal year of said school beginning July 1, 1913, and ending June 30, 1914.

The text of the three bills accompanying the petition of Mr. Cumnock also appeared in The Sun Saturday, in connection with the report of the visit of the committee on education to the Lowell Textile school, Friday night.

All of the bills including Mr. Rogers' bill were presented to the committee on education, today, by Rep. Victor Francis Jewett. Mr. Rogers was present and spoke in favor of his bill. President A. G. Cumnock, Clerk James T. Smith and Principal Eames of the Lowell school spoke in favor of the other three bills.

The Ellis Milk Bill

It was stated at the state house this afternoon that Rep. Ellis of Newton, the framer of the Ellis milk bill now before the legislature will come to Lowell Friday night to talk on his bill before the Pomona Grange.

CATHOLIC CHURCH NEWS

A two weeks' mission for men and women will be given at St. Patrick's church by Jesuits beginning the week of March 30. Masses will be celebrated on next Friday at 5, 5.30 and 8 o'clock in observance of the First Friday and confessions will be heard on Thursday afternoon and evening. On Friday evening the Holy Hour devotions will take place including recitation of the rosary, benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and a sermon.

The members of the Ladies' Aid society of the parish are very busy in preparing the carnival which will be held for the benefit of the parish some time in April. The affair will be held at the close of the mission and undoubtedly will be very interesting.

Another society of the parish which is very busy is the Holy Name society, Rev. Joseph Curtin, chaplain. The members are getting ready for the grand celebration of St. Patrick's day which will be held on March 29, and it is expected that over 400 members will turn out in the parade. They will hold their first drill Tuesday night in the school hall in Suffolk street if the weather is not favorable and if it is fair, the drill or exercises will be conducted out-doors. The men will meet at 7.30 o'clock. For the parade the members of the society will wear the regular society regalia.

Activity also reigns at the Y. M. C. L. as they, too, are preparing for the great event, and a large corps of young men are expected to take part in the parade under the banner of the Lyceum.

St. Peter's

There will be a mission at St. Peter's church during the two last weeks in April and the two first weeks in May. This will be the first time in the history of the parish that a four-week mission will be conducted. The Redemptorist Fathers will be in charge. The first two weeks will be taken up by the women of the parish, the first by the married and the second by the unmarried, while the two latter will be for men, the married first.

The Holy Hour devotions will be held Friday evening in connection with the First Friday of the month devotions. On Thursday afternoon and evening confessions will be heard.

Back From Savannah

Edward R. Morris, the Coburn street grocer; Joseph F. Burns, salesman for the F. M. Hill Co., and Frank J. Cummings, baggage master on the B. & M. have returned from a very pleasant visit in Savannah, Ga., where they were the guests of Mr. Morris' brother, Dr. M. A. Morris, and Col. William La Grayson, two of Savannah's most popular and enterprising citizens. Dr. Morris' popularity in the south has been well known to his Lowell friends for years and the genial doctor hasn't very much on his friend, Col. Grayson.

It was one continued round of pleasure for the Lowell men during their stay in Savannah, which extended over ten days. They met the elite of the city and were entertained right royally. The weather was simply perfect and the visitors enjoyed automobile trips that took them through the most beautiful and picturesque section of the good old state of Georgia. On the last night of their stay they were tendered a banquet which they declare eclipsed anything in the banquet line that they have ever seen in the north.

Likely Blaze in Mt. Vernon Street

Yesterday the fire dept. answered a telephone alarm for a blaze in the home of Peter Savage in Mount Vernon street. The window curtains were set ablaze by a heated gas jet and were soon a mass of flames. The fire was quickly extinguished by the men but not before it had burned the wall and window casing and caused considerable damage.

A $1,000,000 SHORTAGE

F.P.Forster's Affairs Are Badly Tangled

NEW YORK, March 4.—Investigation yesterday into the affairs of Frederick Prentiss Forster, lawyer and Harvard graduate, who is alleged to be ill of paresis in his country place at Milton, Mass., and who was charged on Saturday with converting over $275,000 of cash and securities belonging to Mrs. Caroline P. France while acting as her attorney, brought out, as her attorneys now representing estates formerly handled by Forster, claim, that there is a shortage of nearly $1,000,000 in the estate formerly under his care.

"And the most surprising thing of all," said one of the Attorneys, "is that we cannot account for the expenditure by him of over $100,000 during the period of the shortage. Forster was a man who always preached economy and lived in a somewhat frugal way for a man of his income. He ate in quick lunch places for the effect it had on his clients, and boasted that he never used an automobile."

It developed yesterday that Forster's brother, H. Waldo Forster, who is now in California, claims that the lawyer has converted $300,000 worth of property belonging to him, but attorneys who have been trying to straighten out Forster's affairs in behalf of former clients, thought that this claim might have been advanced for the effect it would have on property that has been assigned by Frederick Forster to his brother.

One claim about which the lawyers said there was no doubt is made by Mrs. Susannah H. Felz of 1295 Washington avenue, widow of Frederick Felz. An account submitted to Mrs. Felz by an expert who worked on books of Mr. Forster's firm of Forster & Forster reported that the amount due was $225,000.

The accountant found that the only stock owned by the Felz estate was 75 shares of Germania bank stock, and this had been hypothecated for a loan so large that there was not sufficient assets remaining in the Felz estate to redeem the stock. It was said that there are several estates which are short $10,000 or $15,000.

An attachment against Forster's property was obtained yesterday from Justice Davis in the Pirnie suit, on the ground that he is a non-resident, and the order was served on the Lawyer's Title Insurance company to tie up any funds that may be due out of the sale of 402 lots near Yonkers.

EX-MAYOR WINKLEY DEAD

Passed Away at Home Where He Was Born

NEWBURYPORT, March 4.—Job Otis Winkley died at his home, where he was born 69 years ago, on Parker street yesterday, following an illness of about four weeks of erysipelas. Mr. Winkley was a farmer. He never married, but lived with his sister on the old homestead.

He took a great deal of interest in city affairs, serving as mayor in 1877. Previously he served three years, 1874, 1875 and 1876 in the common council. He was a member of the board of aldermen in 1882 and 1883 and served six years on the board of assessors, being first elected in 1882.

He leaves a brother, Alderman Paul T. Winkley, who represents ward 5; three sisters, Miss Addie A. Fearing, Mrs. Geo. H. Plummer and Miss Viola F. Winkley. He was a member of Quasacunquen lodge of Odd Fellows, and Canton Harmony, Patriarchs Militant.

Killed Wife Who Hid Children

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 4.—William R. Webber of Rankin, Ill., is under arrest here charged with killing his wife. The Webbers had not lived together for several months. Sunday Webber came to Grand Rapids, where his wife had recorded him, and asked to see his children. The request was refused, it is alleged, and the murder followed.

Indict Three for Mill Thefts

NEWPORT, R. I., March 4.—Indictments for stealing cotton and cotton waste from the Shove mills at Tiverton were returned yesterday by the Newport county grand jury against James Holland, a manufacturer of cotton materials, John H. Richardson, an official of the Shove mills, now dead, and J. William Dacey, a teamster, all of Fall River.

Holden, Dacey and Felix Breault, the latter a boss carder in the mill, are now under bail on similar charges, to which they have pleaded not guilty.

Mill officials have said that $20,000 worth of material is involved.

Y. V. V. Class Met

The V. V. V. class of the Paige Street Baptist church held an interesting meeting recently with a large attendance. At the close of the business session a social and entertainment was enjoyed. The program was as follows: Reading, Ralph Smith; tableaux, members of the club; including "The Red Cross in the Balkan War," "Winter at Valley Forge," "Marching Through Georgia," and "Life at West Point." Afterwards refreshments were served. The meeting and social was a very pleasant affair throughout.

Semi-industrial Work

"The old-fashioned set course with cultural aims has caused many failures, produced hundreds of misfits, and driven innumerable boys and girls to leave school as soon as the law will permit," declares Edwin J. Canine, superintendent of schools in East Chicago, in a statement addressed to the United States commissioner of education.

East Chicago is a city of cosmopolitan character and strong democratic tendencies, according to Superintendent Canine. There is no wealthy nor especially cultured class, and extreme poverty is unknown. His problem, therefore, was probably somewhat different from that of other school men. In his efforts to solve it he emphasizes certain special features, among which "semi-industrial work," a "maximum-minimum" plan of assigning school lessons, and a method of reducing the number of daily recitations, are conspicuous.

Semi-industrial classes were formed when it was found that some children, especially in grades five, six and seven, appeared unable to carry the regular work, even after repeated trials. Special attention was given to these pupils. One-third or one-fourth of their time was spent in the manual training or domestic science department, where the work was made as practical as possible. Then the special teacher took them for about the same amount of time and coached them in the subjects of the grade in which they had failed. Under these conditions, Superintendent Canine reports, some of the boys passed not only the grade in which they had failed but the next grade as well. These semi-industrial classes are open also to children over fourteen years of age who have left school and are unemployed, and to those already at work who are permitted by foresighted employers to attend school part of the time.

The "maximum-minimum" plan of lesson assignment adopted in Superintendent Canine's system is an ingenious application of the principle "from each according to his abilities." The pupils do not all have the same amount to do. If the average pupils of the class are assigned fifteen problems in arithmetic, for instance, the slower pupils are assigned eight, ten, or twelve typical problems, while the brightest are asked to do twenty or more. The same principle is applied to geography and history, and to some extent to English.

Believing that the energies of the pupils are unnecessarily divided and dissipated by the constantly increasing number of school subjects, Superintendent Canine has devised a plan of reducing the number of studies. In the four lower grades literature, history, and nature study, instead of forming separate subjects in the curriculum, are combined in "language work." Other similar combinations are made throughout the course.

As in many American cities, the school work in East Chicago is by no means confined to the period of the conventional school term. The principals and industrial teachers are engaged for the full school year, so that they may carry on the summer work. In the summer session pupils may make up deficiencies; an exceptionally bright student may gain a grade; the industrial work is kept going (especially the home garden); and playground activities, under the supervision of trained directors, are at their height.

JAMES F. FIELDER, WHO SUCCEEDED WOODROW WILSON AS GOV. OF N. J.

TRENTON, N. J., March 4.—With the resignation of Woodrow Wilson as governor of New Jersey, which became effective Saturday, James F. Fielder, president of the state senate, was sworn in as chief executive of the state. The ceremony was simple and took place before the joint session of the legislature, the oath of office being administered by Chief Justice Gummere.

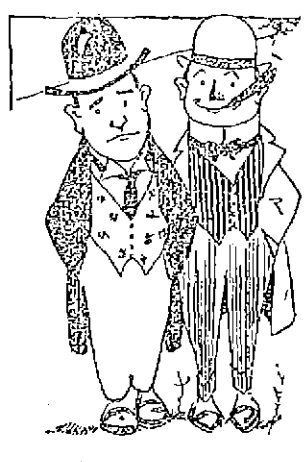

A LITTLE NONSENSE

UP AGAINST IT.

Mrs. Justwed—Tom, the cook wants another afternoon off.

Mr. Justwed—Well, if she can show you where there are eight afternoons in a week, give it to her.

SEVERE TREATMENT.

"I haven't seen Bangs for a long time. He used to be a dickens of a fellow among the girls."

"He's been cured of all that."

"What cured him?"

HER IDEA.

Mrs. Diversay—Yes; I finally got the decree and $30 a week alimony.

Mrs. Weeds—Are you happy?

Mrs. Diversay—Oh! It's just glorious to feel that you are not dependent upon a man for your income.

EASY MONEY.

"I am working my way through college."

"Brave girl! How do you earn money?"

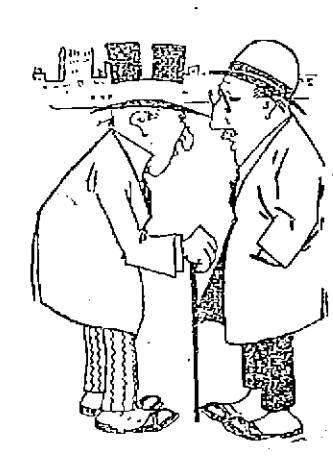

"Well, father gives me $10 for every dancing lesson I don't take."

IT MIGHT BE.

"Speaking of superstitions, I've heard that to stumble upstairs is a sign that you won't be married, and then I've heard that it's a sign of good luck."

"If it means that you won't be married, then it's both."

On next Saturday night the high school track team will meet English high of Boston in a dual meet at the annex. Howe, the husky colored sprinter is captain of the Hub outfit and is an athlete in the first division. It was Howe who defeated Teschener of Exeter, the favorite, in the 300 yard dash at Mechanics hall, Saturday. If the Lowell captain gets the first bank on the colored flier Howe will have all he can do to brush home a winner.

Jake Moakley is having tough luck with his Cornell track team. The faculty has declared that a half dozen of Jake's most promising athletes are ineligible to compete on account of rush of buns to the head. Fritz, the best pole vaulter in college, is suffering from this complaint, as well as Wallace, the quarter-miler. Moakley allows that he will coach and train a track team but balks at tutoring them in their flunked subjects.

The national championships will take place in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on Thursday night. This meet is the real blue ribbon meet of America on the board track. Athletes from all over the world have been sent invitations to the meet months ago, so that they would have ample time to prepare for the various championship events.

It looks as though Drew, the Springfield negro, would clean up the seventy-five yard dash although Meyers, Hice, Clark and Stephenson are good men.

The 600 yard race should prove the feature of the evening with Meredith, Halpin, Sheppard and Davenport entered. It looks to be anybody's race, but the peerless "Mel" is a foxy man on an indoor track.

The Salem A. A. opened under very auspicious conditions last night when Bay Wood and Tommy O'Keefe fought a draw before over fifteen hundred fans. The mayor and the chief of police were present and allowed that the show was all right and that there was no reason why the state police should interfere. With these men in favor of the glove game there is no doubt about the club being a success.

There was some time at the Whitman A. A. last night when Referee Quill of Brockton awarded the decision of a ten round bout to a fellow townsman by the name of Timmy Reardon over Sy Goodwin of Boston. There was a goodly gathering of Plymouth fans present and their sympathies were all with the Boston boy. When the decision was handed out the visitors considered it a steal and proceeded to make a strenuous demonstration to that effect. After tearing up the ring and breaking up what furniture they could lay their hands on they were finally appeased by having the decision reversed. If the club management intends to keep on running shows they had better run them right and provide officials who know their business and who will not be coerced by a crowd of rowdies.

JOHNNY M'GRAW HAS A FINE COLLECTION OF YOUNGSTERS AT THE TRAINING CAMP

MARLIN SPRINGS, Tex., March 4.—Johnny McGraw declares he has the most promising collection of young baseball players in the country at the training camp here. In talking about the new comers the other day the Giants' manager said: "The youngsters here who are trying for a berth on the team are the most likely lot I've had in years. Such being the case, it is a difficult matter for me to separate the chaff from the wheat. Cooper, who is trying for an outfield berth, will be one of the biggest stars in baseball in a year or two. All he needs is experience. He has everything else. Jacobson is another. Jim Thorpe, the Indian, is going to make a big league player. He has just one weak point—a failure to get ground balls—but he will overcome this. He will surely give the speed demons a run for their money this year on the paths. Milton Stock is another star who will make a name for himself. In the pitching line Hanley and Schupp have done fairly well, but need more experience." McGraw states that he is not sure whether he will make any changes in last year's lineup or not, but it is hinted that he is contemplating a change in the outfield positions. The older members of the team here are in good shape. Judging by the present state of affairs the Giants should be off to a good start. Rube Marquard and Fred Snodgrass will join their comrades here March 10.

COMPANY K WON OUT

BLUE AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Hamilton Tells How She Finally Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Warren, Ind.—"I was bothered terribly with female weakness. I had pains and was not regular, my head ached all the time, I had bearing down pains and my back hurt me the biggest part of the time, I was dizzy and had weak feelings when I would stoop over, it hurt me to walk any distance and I felt blue and discouraged.

"I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now in good health. If it had not been for that medicine I would have been in my grave a long time ago."—Mrs. ARTIE E. HAMILTON, R.F.D. No. 6, Warren, Ind.

Another Case.

Esmond, R. I.—"I write to tell you how much good your medicine has done me and to let other women know that there is help for them. I suffered with bearing down pains, headache, was irregular and felt blue and depressed all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commenced to gain in a short time and I am a well woman today. I am on my feet from early morning until late at night running a boarding house and do all my own work. I hope that many suffering women will try your medicine. It makes happier wives and mothers."—Mrs. ANNA HANSEN, Esmond, Rhode Island.

THE STATE'S SHARE

Lowell Textile School Got a Little More Than Half What Was Requested

The legislative committee on education has voted to recommend legislation authorizing the payment of a total of $60,000 to cover the state's portion of maintaining the Lowell Textile school until July 1, 1914, a period of 18 months. This is slightly more than half what the school asked for this year.

GOOD SCORES PUT UP

Bowlers in Good Form Last Night

There were more games bowled on the local alleys last night than have been played for some time and several good scores were the result. The Martins won from the Agawams in a very exciting finish in one of the fastest games that has been rolled here this year. Dickey was the high man in the matched game scores last night with a mark of 317. The scores of the various games and their summaries:

Talk Bill to Death

WASHINGTON, March 4.—To avoid a filibuster in the senate by the Nevada senators who early today gave notice of talking the legislative appropriation bill to death the senate and house conferees agreed to continue the assay offices for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914. Salaries at the offices were reduced. The conference report was adopted by the senate.

At 4.05 the senate took a recess until 5.30 to allow the senate chamber to be prepared for the inauguration ceremonies later in the day.

JOHNNY DOHAN POPULAR

New York Boxer Has Many Friends Here

The mere announcement that Johnny Dohan, the popular Brooklyn, N. Y., lightweight, would again appear before a Lowell audience was cause for vociferous applause. Dohan has promised to be on hand next Friday night well prepared for his 12-round contest with Young McDonough. The latter was selected mainly for the reason that he expressed much dissatisfaction in the result of his last meeting with the aggressive New Yorker.

Since appearing here Dohan has scored a knockout victory over Jack Lundy, one of New York's best 135-pound boxers at New York last Saturday night. The Dutch baker boy fighter in a letter to some friends in this city asserts that he will surely accomplish a similar result when he faces McDonough. The match is creating unusual attention and those members who were fortunate enough to witness the last encounter between this pair will hardly care to miss Friday night's match, which gives promise of resulting in a red letter contest. Kid Leo and Young Morgan will appear in the semi-final bout of eight rounds. Leo has not appeared in Lowell since he boxed Al. Delmont and he wants to redeem himself in the eyes of the Lowell fans and feels confident that he will by removing Morgan from his victorious path. Young Calnan and Kid Hamilton will meet in one of the preliminaries and Young Cooney and Kid George will furnish the opener.

DIAMOND NOTES

Joe Jackson declares that he will give up playing baseball as soon as he pays for his farm in South Carolina. Cleveland fans don't wish Joe any harm, but they will be satisfied if he doesn't get the mortgages on the homestead lifted for about 10 years.

Connie Mack, when asked if he had made a reported offer of Catcher Schang for Pitcher Green of the Highlanders, answered: "I might trade Schang for Ford. Fifteen out of sixteen big league clubs were after Schang last year and it isn't likely that I'd want to trade off a man for whom there was a big demand as that without giving him a trial."

Manager Callahan of the White Sox has emolated Clark Griffith by signing Kid Gleason and Jack Doyle as coaches. Neither Gleason nor Doyle will do any comedy stunts, as do Schaefer and Altrock. They will be used for the purpose of disconcerting rival players by means of a lot of select language, of which they make a specialty.

The Cleveland club is going to try the experiment of giving a trial to an amateur pitcher. He is Willard G. Taber, a young giant who twirled for an amateur team in Manchester, N. H., last year.

JONATHAN JOHNSON IS DEAD

Was One of Lowell's Oldest Citizens—Came Here in 1833

THE LATE JONATHAN JOHNSON

In the death of Jonathan Johnson, Lowell has lost one of its most valuable and oldest citizens, and the many friends of deceased will keenly feel his demise, especially will it be noticed in Masonic circles, where he was prominent, having taken his degrees in Pentucket lodge over 50 years ago. He was one of the oldest Masons in Lowell.

Mr. Johnson, who was aged 94 years and seven months, passed away late yesterday afternoon at his home, 53 Varnum avenue. He is survived by a nephew living in Norwood.

He was born in Groton, August 7, 1818, and lived on his father's farm, except for the three years which his family spent in Boston, until he was 15 years old. He was educated in the Groton schools. In 1833 he went to Leominster, where he secured employment in a carriage shop, and in 1835 he went to Fitchburg, where he learned the watchmaker's trade, which he followed from that time until his death.

He came to this city in 1840 and worked for J. K. Fellows, the jeweler, until 1842, when he went into business for himself, and he had continued in his business until he was taken ill, about a week ago. For many years he was in business in the Merrimack house block.

In 1850 he went to Demerara, South America, where he spent three months in installing telegraph apparatus and in giving instructions as to its use. On his return he had charge of the telegraph system in this city and later on had charge of the telegraph lines all through New England from Boston to Burlington, Vermont. He was not only a member of the board of aldermen and the city council, but also served several terms in the legislature. In 1855 he received his first civic office, being elected that year to the common council. In 1856 and 1857 he served on the board of aldermen. In 1856 he also received his first election to the legislature. In 1866 he again served on the common council and returned to the legislature in the years 1872 and 1876.

He was affiliated with only one secret organization, Pentucket lodge of Free Masons. He made his application to this lodge in 1849 and in January, 1850, he passed his degrees. He was a member of the First Unitarian church but of late years he had been unable to attend very regularly on account of his health.

He was married twice, his second wife dying about three years ago, and had three sons, all of whom are dead.

H. W. H. Club of St. Paul's Church

The H. W. H. Club of St. Paul's church was entertained last evening by Mrs. Gertrude Snow. There were 23 members present. After the regular business was transacted refreshments were served and a social time with music was enjoyed. The club will meet next month with Mrs. Eleanor Smith.

Constipated, and Don't Know It!

By Dr. True

It seems odd, but it is true, that you may be constipated and not know it.

You can see why it is. Take a glass and pour in water until full. If you keep on pouring in water after the glass is full, it will run over, but the glass stays full.

Just so with your bowels; they get full of waste matter, and then they pass off or expel from the body only about the same amount that goes into it in the form of food.

So you may have a movement of the bowels every day and yet there will remain waste matter that ought to be removed.

Give your bowels a gentle but thorough cleaning out and you'll feel great.

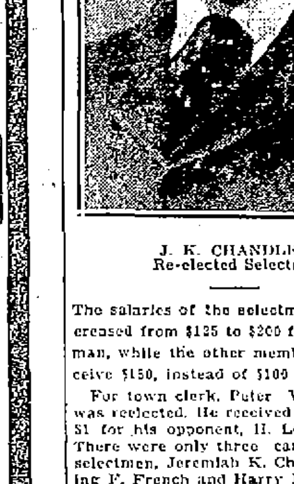

The prescription I used for this is put up and sold under the name of Dr. True's Elixir. Doctors and druggists use it in their own families. Costs but little and brings health to men, women and children. Tastes good. Works gently. Remember the name, Dr. True's Elixir. Price, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

SALARIES ARE INCREASED

Tewksbury Selectmen Will Get More Pay

The vote cast by the voters of the town of Tewksbury yesterday was extra large although there were no bitter contests. From 10 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon the voting was heavy.

The sum of $75 was appropriated for repairs in the town hall while $500 was appropriated for repairs on the town farm. The sum of $300 was also voted to wipe out the town farm debt.

J. K. CHANDLER
Re-elected Selectman

The salaries of the selectmen were increased from $125 to $200 for the chairman, while the other members will receive $150, instead of $100 as formerly.

For town clerk, Peter W. Cameron was reelected. He received 161 votes to 81 for his opponent, H. Louis Farmer. There were only three candidates for selectmen, Jeremiah K. Chandler, Irving F. French and Harry L. Shedd, and they received, respectively, 224, 220 and 219 votes. All three were elected for a second term. The same men also ran for overseers of the poor, and for the board of health, and were successful without opposition.

Buzzell King was the only candidate for assessor for 3 years. He received 218 votes. For town treasurer there were two candidates, Harold J. Patten and Eugene N. Patterson, and the latter won, 131 to 100. James W. Miller was unopposed for auditor, as were Melvin G. Rogers, for collector of taxes for one year, and Cyrus W. Parsons for highways commissioner for three years.

Mrs. Larrabee Wins

For school committee a pretty contest developed between Edith A. Forstall and May K. Larrabee, the latter winning, 157 to 113. This was the initial experience of the two contestants in politics. The term of office is three years.

Albert C. Blaisdell was elected to serve as a library trustee, while Frank H. Farmer was elected constable over George Hooper by the vote of 182 to 120. Harris M. Briggs was elected tree warden for one year.

The license vote was by special ticket and the vote stood 54 yes, and five, no.

VOTED FOR NO LICENSE

Sound Old Tyngsboro Continues to Stay Dry

The Tyngsboro citizens held their annual town meeting yesterday and the affair which was held in the town hall was largely attended. The town voted no license by a total of 76 to 24.

Jesse B. Butterfield was chosen moderator and the reports of town officers were accepted and it was voted to give the collector of taxes a two per cent. commission.

Appropriations for the year were made as follows: School, $1350; transportation, $1250; books and supplies, $175; school physician, $100; state aid, $175; Memorial day, $50; cemeteries, $75; tree warden, $50; town counsel, $100; town officers, $500; incidentals, $1000; moth extermination, $260; library, $50; electric lights, $500; roads and bridges, $200.

It was voted to devote the receipts from the dog tax to the Littlehale library. The treasurer was authorized to borrow $5500 in anticipation of taxes; the sum of $70 was appropriated for a filing cabinet for the safety vault. It was voted a buy a $600 power sprayer. There was some discussion over this item, but the debate generally favored it. The sprayer will not only be available in the moth crusade, but can be hired by the farmers when they desire to spray their trees.

The article to appropriate $50 for a game warden was indefinitely postponed. The question of purchasing a new set of scales for the town was referred to a special committee, George Danforth, William J. Collins and James Danforth.

Action was postponed on the article calling for the acceptance of a piece of road through the Felker land. It was voted to accept $200 from the Frederick Blanchard estate for the perpetual care of a cemetery lot.

The assessors, who now receive $2.50 a day for their work, were voted a bonus of $25 a year additional, and the salary of the selectmen was raised from $2.00 to $2.50 a day. The salary of the auditor was also increased from $30 to $50. Action was postponed on the request of A. A. Flint for permission to build a raceway over the highway.

The election for town officials resulted as follows: Treasurer, Charles P. Littlehale, 88; selectmen, assessor and overseer, Chester H. Queen, progressive-republican, 55, elected over Arthur B. Marshall, democrat, who received 41; collector of taxes, William E. Barry, 88; auditor, Norman R. Sherburne, republican, defeated Reuben B. Sherburne, democrat, 63 to 41; road commissioner, Leon P. Perham, 96; constables, Perry A. Flint and Fred K. Sinclair, progressive-republicans, who defeated Louis T. Braddon and Darwin M. Roberts, democrats; school committee, Fred A. Coburn and Homer A. Noble, elected without opposition; trustee of the library for three years, Charles P. Littlehale 79, Fred A. Coburn 59, Fred D. Lambert 56, the first two elected; trustee for one year, James Danforth 61, George R. Robeson 34, the former elected; cemetery commissioner for three years, Otis L. Wright defeated Louis T. Braddon, 72 to 33; commissioner for one year, Fred K. Sinclair, republican, defeated George D. Danforth democrat, and George H. Cobleigh, progressive; tree warden, Herbert F. Shipley, elected without opposition.

A BIG PIANO SALE

A Great Chance for the Public to Buy at Cut Prices

A piano sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a markdown sale. The very nature of the business here is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular piano store where they are expected to make a profit on each piano. We don't let any piano loaf around our floors; a sacrifice tag is clapped on which on the face of it reads competition defied and it is sold to the first wise man or woman for the price marked on the tag. Price doesn't mean anything at these sales. We cut and double cut prices on all makes alike; we ask no favors, we want none, and we give none. In sales like these someone's loss is your gain, the profit is all yours. The finest instruments of the world's best makers are in the sacrifice list.

SWEARS THAW IS INSANE

The Head of Matteawan Makes Affidavit

ALBANY, N. Y., March 4.—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, is still of unsound mind and his release from the Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane would be dangerous to the public peace and safety, according to a sworn affidavit made yesterday to Attorney-General Carmody by Dr. Roy L. Leak, acting superintendent of the hospital.

State's Answer

The affidavit will be used as the state's return to the writ of habeas corpus obtained last Saturday, from Justice Guy of New York, directing the state to produce Thaw before Justice Gleigerich, in New York, on Thursday, and to show cause why Thaw should not be given his freedom.

At a conference yesterday, between the attorney-general, Col. Joseph F. Scott, superintendent of state prisons, and Dr. Leake, it was decided to redraft the rules and regulations governing the inmates of Matteawan, with a view to curtailing the privileges heretofore extended to Thaw. All rules which might tend to operate in favor of Thaw will be abrogated.

Jerome Again Retained

Attorney-General Carmody has again retained William T. Jerome, former district attorney of New York county, as special counsel to represent the state in the new proceedings begun in behalf of Thaw. Mr. Jerome was allowed $10,000 for defending the action begun by Thaw before Justice Keogh of New Rochelle last year. The expenses incurred by the state at that trial, including Mr. Jerome's fee, totalled $18,765. A bill to defray these expenses was reported recently to the senate by the finance committee.

Franklin Kennedy, deputy attorney-general, who appeared with Mr. Jerome in the proceedings before Justice Keogh, has been designated to file the state's return to Thaw's new writ and has been directed to request Justice Gleigerich to transfer further proceedings to the ninth judicial district, where the Matteawan hospital is located.

Dr. Leake's affidavit points out that since Thaw was received at Matteawan, four unsuccessful attempts have been made through habeas corpus proceedings to obtain his release. The writs were sued out in May and June, 1908, June, 1909, and April, 1912.

"I am of the opinion," the affidavit concluded, "that the said Harry K. Thaw is now insane, is still of unsound mind, and that it is still dangerous to the public peace and safety to discharge him from Matteawan state hospital."

DR. M. A. LONG DEAD

Well Known Physician Passed Away

Dr. Merritt A. Long, a well known physician of this city, died this forenoon at the Lowell General hospital, where he had been confined for a week, suffering from septic pneumonia. Deceased had an office at 226 Merrimack street. He is survived by a brother, Thomas W. Long, of Manchester-by-the-Sea, and his aged mother. Services will be held in St. Anne's church at 2.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, after which the remains will be taken on the 3.57 train to Manchester, Mass., where burial services will be held Thursday.

Dr. Long was born in Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., 35 years ago, coming of a very old family of that town. He worked his way through Tufts college, overcoming many obstacles to obtain an education. After graduation, he came to Lowell where he served as interne at the Lowell General hospital for one year, and an additional ten months to finish the term of another interne. Entering general practice a few years ago, he made a fine reputation as a physician and a gentleman. Much of his time was spent in association with Dr. McGannon, who is now in Florida, and who will be greatly grieved to learn of the death of his friend.

The mother of Dr. Long, aged 77, and a brother, Thomas W. Long, both of Manchester-by-the-Sea, are the only surviving members of his family. He was a member of Kilwinning lodge of Masons. His early death will give sorrow to a large circle in this city. Those who knew of his early struggles and his aspirations for an honorable career in his profession, will feel that in his departure from among us the loss is a severe one.

WILSON INAUGURATED

dents of Princeton and Virginia fell in behind the procession. This ride to the White House was the signal for cheers all along the way, while the bands kept up their liveliest airs.

President Taft, bearing in mind the incoming president's desire for simplicity, escorted him to the East room of the White House, instead of the Blue room, which is the formal reception place of dignitaries. Here Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson chatted and Mr. Taft's well known smile was much in evidence.

Ride to Capitol Started

The stay was brief. At 10.17 the ride to the capitol began. In the first carriage were President Taft and Mr. Wilson. Mr. Taft occupying the right hand seat. With them were Senators Crane and Bacon. In the second carriage Mr. Marshall sat at Senator Overman's right. Rep. Bucker also rode there. In the third carriage came Reps. McKinley and Garrett. The party moved briskly out of the White House grounds and down Pennsylvania avenue, the mounted escorts clattering along beside and behind. The streets were packed and to roars of cheers President Taft and Mr. Wilson gave their acknowledgments.

Postmaster General Hitchcock and Secretaries MacVeagh, Fisher and Wilson were the only members of the cabinet to accompany the party to the cabinet. Secretary Hilles rode in the last carriage with three of the president's aides.

Guard Reduced

In marked contrast with the riotous scenes of yesterday, when the crowds along Pennsylvania avenue virtually mobbed the women in the suffrage pageant, the carriageway today was entirely clear and the presidential party rode along with spectators no nearer than the curbs.

At the president-elect's request the number of secret service men assigned to guard the carriage in the procession to the capitol was reduced to two. Vice President-elect Marshall's carriages followed closely and immediately behind marched the White House guards.

Galloped Up Capitol Hill

The party proceeded down Pennsylvania avenue, slowly, until it neared the capitol and then the four black horses drawing the presidential carriage broke into a trot and the troopers escorting it spurred their horses into a canter. Thus the cavalcade galloped up Capitol hill. While the crowd along the route was demonstrative it was respectful and orderly. The carriages and their escorts filed up to the main entrance of the capitol to the greeting of the massed multitudes in the stands and the less fortunate who were perched upon every point of vantage or packed into all available spaces.

President Taft and Mr. Wilson were at once escorted to the president's room, where Mr. Taft at once took up the work of signing bills. Mr. Marshall went to the vice president's room, accompanied by members of the committee and was met by President Pro-tem Gallinger. The two parties remained in these rooms until congress had done up the last bit of its work and was ready for the beginning of the scenes of inauguration of the vice president in the senate chamber.

When the president and Mr. Wilson approached the president's room Mr. Taft turned to the president-elect and said:

"Well, Mr. President, here's your room."

The two men passed inside and as they did so Mr. Taft spied Mr. Bryan outside in the corridor and invited him to enter.

"I don't know whether I can come in there or not," said Mr. Bryan, "I'm not president, you know."

"Well, I'm still president," returned Mr. Taft, "and I invite you in."

Mr. Bryan entered.

Mrs. Wilson's Dress

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters meanwhile entered the spaces reserved for them in the senate galleries and were the center of all eyes. Mrs. Wilson wore a tan cloth dress with a brown ribbed silk coat and a small hat to match. Miss Margaret Wilson wore blue silk poplin; Miss Jessie, lavender broadcloth, and Miss Eleanor a bright blue cloth dress.

Neither Mrs. Taft nor any other member of the president's family occupied the space reserved for them in the senate galleries or on the stand at the east front. Mrs. Taft and her daughter went to the home of Miss Mabel Boardman to await the coming of Mr. Taft after the inauguration ceremonies, when they all depart for Augusta, Ga.

Good-Bye to Mr. Taft

At 11.30 o'clock committees from the house and senate waited upon President Taft in the marble room and gave formal notification that congress was ready to adjourn. Meanwhile those members of the cabinet who did not ride in the procession to the capitol gathered in the president's room and said good-bye to Mr. Taft and were introduced to Mr. Wilson.

Some of the officials for whom places had been reserved in the floor of the senate chamber began filing in before the senate had adjourned. The interstate commerce commission was the first to enter and with the other commissioners was Franklin K. Lane, who will be President Wilson's secretary of the interior.

Marshall Given Seat

Mrs. Marshall Waved

Mrs. Marshall from her place in one of the galleries, waved to her husband, as he came on the senate floor but after a stay of a moment Mr. Marshall and the committee returned to the vice president's room, while Senator Fall continued his filibuster on the Indian bill.

All eyes were upon the ten chairs on the senate floor which were allotted to President Wilson's cabinet. Josephus Daniels and William G. McAdoo were the first to take seats there.

William Jennings Bryan and Franklin K. Lane held a brief reception and then each took a chair in the "cabinet row." Rep. Redfield entered the chamber a moment later and took his place with the other cabinet appointees.

Appropriation Bills

President Taft meanwhile continued to sign the appropriation bills until all had been approved with the exception of the sundry civil bill, which he had vetoed. He let it be known that he would exercise the pocket veto on the seamen's involuntary servitude bill.

The senate was not ready to adjourn at noon, the hour set for the beginning of the ceremonies of inauguration of the vice president and the clock was set back to 11.25 a. m.

Inauguration Delayed

The delay in the senate's adjournment set the inauguration of Mr. Marshall back fully a half-hour and Mr. Wilson's as much. While the senate was working on the sundry civil bill the vice-presidential party waited for the word to enter the chamber.

Senator Poindexter delayed the adjournment of the senate to make a speech calling attention to disorderly scenes which attended the suffragette parade yesterday and declaring an investigation of the Washington police should be made before any more money was appropriated for it.

While Senator Poindexter continued to talk with the evident purpose of preventing the sundry civil bill from coming to a vote, the house of representatives in a long line outside the senate door impatiently awaited entry. The diplomatic corps in full dress also stood outside. Finally with Mr. Poindexter still speaking the house was announced and filed in.

Finally Mr. Poindexter gave it up with the understanding that no attempt would be made to pass the bill and the diplomatic corps was ushered into the senate chamber while all those assembled rose.

The justices of the supreme court, headed by Chief Justice White, in their sombre robes of office, presenting a marked contrast to the brilliantly-garbed diplomats, followed.

Mr. Marshall entered the chamber for the second time at 12.30 and took his seat prepared to be called to the rostrum to take his oath. The ceremonies were now 30 minutes behind schedule.

Marshall Took Oath of Office

When all the guests were assembled Vice President Marshall stepped up to the desk and at 12.34 took the oath. Then Mr. Marshall began to deliver his inaugural address.

While Vice President Marshall was swearing in new senators and returning old ones the remainder of the company began to march to the stands on the east front where the inauguration of Mr. Wilson was to take place.

Wilson Greeted

President Taft and Mr. Wilson were greeted with loud cheers as they came out the main door.

Immediately in front of the presidential platform, Major General Wood and his general staff held a space clear. Across the open space loomed a battery of nearly a hundred cameras and motion picture machines trained on the single spot where President Taft was to pass his mantle of office to President-elect Wilson. Back of the West Point cadets stood the Essex troop, President Wilson's guard of honor and near them the Black Horse troop of Culver academy.

The troops were prepared to give way when the delivery of the inaugural address began, so that the crowd might close in to hear the new president. There was a lull in the ceremonies as the company assembled.

Mild Wind Blew

A mild wind blew over the stands and the West Point cadets and sailors ran about in little groups to relieve the waiting while the presidential party slowly assembled. The east front of the capitol sweeping down from the dome to the ground and out as far as the congressional library and neighboring apartment buildings presented a brilliant scene of color. The weather still was cloudy but there was no immediate sign of rain.

It was 1.11 before the procession to the stand had got as far as the diplomatic corps, so slowly did it move. This was because many remained behind to see new senators sworn in. President-elect Wilson and President Taft bowed to the crowd as they took their seats in the center of the platform.

Champ Clark Cheered

A burst of applause and cheers greeted Champ Clark as he passed onto the inaugural stand at the head of the line of house members.

Major General Wood directed the closing in of the troops before the guests had all been seated and the crowd gradually edged inward toward the inaugural platform.

Speaker Clark leaned toward President-elect Wilson and the two shook hands, bringing more applause from the crowd.

WHITE HOUSE GUARDED AS NEVER BEFORE—WILSON TO RETAIN SECRET SERVICE MEN

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The White House today was guarded probably as it never was before because of the great crowds in the national capital and the fear that cranks might seize upon the dying hours of the Taft administration to pay annoying visits. Chief Flynn of the secret service force early today drew around the White House grounds a cordon of guards who stopped sightseers at the gates and subjected to a close scrutiny all those who finally were passed within. None but those who actually had business at the White House or the executive officers were permitted to pass.

It was said today that the secret service men who had served both Presidents Roosevelt and Taft would be retained by President Wilson. These are James Sloan, L. C. Wheeler and R. L. Jarvis, who have traveled thousands of miles in the role of protectors of chief executives and who have experienced many thrilling adventures in that capacity.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S CABINET IS COMPLETE—NO N. E. MAN NAMED

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Wilson's cabinet is complete and it remains only to send the formal nominations to the senate.

The list is as follows:

Secretary of state—William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

Postmaster general—Representative Albert Burleson of Texas.

Secretary of the navy—Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Secretary of agriculture—David A. Houston of Missouri.

Secretary of commerce—Representative William D. Redfield of New York.

FUTURE TY COBBS WRITE

Manager Gray Getting Some Mail These Days

Manager Gray is having his troubles these days in all sorts of different forms. For instance there is not a day that goes by without some boy with the idea that he is another Ty Cobb does not either call on the Lowell manager personally or write him a very sincere and ingratiating letter. Below is a sample of what the local manager is up against in the line of correspondence:

Vermont, March 2.

Dear Sir:

I would like to know if you would give me a tryout. I am very fond of the game and hope to make a good ball player some day and I think if you would give be a good tryout that I could make good. I am quite sure my father said if I would go to school this term he would find me a job and he knows I like baseball awful well. I am trying to be a pitcher and I am left handed and need some practice. I have never handled a ball that they use in the league game so I don't know how I would make out with it. I want to get a farm pretty quick and think that I can get one much quicker by playing baseball instead of working. You see I am very ambitious.

What do you think about me as a player, manager? I know I can't get every one over the home base. Do you think I can? Well if I can't pitch I can play first base fine and know that I can play there all right if I can't pitch, so you had better try me out in both places so as to be sure and get me in the place where I will do you the most good. You see I want to tell you just what I am good at so that you won't be playing me where I will not be doing you the best work. How much would you pay me if I worked all right for you? When you write back I hope and wish that you would tell me please.

I played with the Scout league and we used to walk four miles to play some of four games when we played out of town. I played with Centerhill and we had a pretty good team. There were two teams that dropped out of the league because they couldn't win any games, so that left only six teams that played all the time. I don't think it is so much fun to play in a league with six teams as it is with eight, do you? That is why I like the New England league so well, for I don't think that any teams drop out in your league, do they? I think I would like to play with Lowell awful well and I know that you would like to have me after you see me once, and perhaps you do now. I hope if you write it will be encouraging to me. I will be looking for a letter from you the same week and feel that you will not wait long before you answer my very sincere letter. Write.

Your friend in haste,
Harold ——

Serious Fighting

MANILA, March 4.—The town of Jolo has undergone incessant attack by the Moros for the last two weeks. Details of the operations are difficult to obtain as the censorship is rigid. All the letters sent by officers and men defending the town are subject to the minutest scrutiny. That the fighting has been serious, however, is obvious from the last arrival of 20 wounded Americans, 17 of whom were suffering from serious injuries.

Bribery Charges Untrue

BOSTON, March 4.—The legislative committee on rules at the close of a continued hearing on the bribery charges made by Senator McDevitt of Quincy issued a statement embodying the conclusion that the charges were untrue. The statement follows:

"The issue as to the truth was clearly drawn between the accusation of Senator John J. McDevitt of Quincy and Representative John F. Buckley of Boston. In the absence of other evidence the committee concludes that the statements by McDevitt were so vague, so conflicting, so absolutely contradictory and inconsistent as to make all that he said seem to be without foundation and unworthy of further consideration. The committee is compelled to conclude that the statements of Senator McDevitt, both on the public platform at Quincy and before the committee were untrue."

Society Women Wash Their Own Hair

"Home shampooing among society women is rapidly gaining in popularity," says Mae Martyn, writing for the San Francisco Bee. "This is not a fad or fancy, but rather because splendid results are attained in this manner, through the use of canthrox.

"If you would have luxuriant growth of glossy hair try this easy way of shampooing: Dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacup of hot water, then pour on the scalp and rub vigorously for a few minutes, after which the hair and scalp should be rinsed carefully. When the hair is dry you will be delighted with its fluffy, glossy condition.

"While canthrox is not expensive, you should be careful to get it in an original package."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

A good sized audience was present at the Opera House last night to witness the first performance of "The Gamblers" by the Lonergan Players, under the personal direction of Lester Lonergan.

The play is a well constructed drama written by Charles Klein, and the presentation last night was thoroughly appreciated. Mr. Drew in the part of Wilbur Emerson, the chief gambler, was especially good, while Miss Booth carried out her part in an excellent manner. Mr. Charles, as well as the other members of this popular company were very pleasing to the audience.

The story of the play has to do with Wilbur Emerson, whose father is the president of the Emerson banks, and who entrusts all the money responsibilities with his son. The first scene is at the Emerson home on the eve of a party given by Wilbur Emerson's sister. Present at the party among others are three of the stockholders of the bank and James Darwin, a lawyer, and his wife. During the evening Emerson confesses to his father that he with three other men have signed notes that they are now unable to pay and tells that the federal authorities are now searching for them. "The Gamblers" believing that some one will have to go to jail decide to draw cards and the blame is to be placed on the loser. The father gets the low card but the son declares it a mis-deal and claims the low card as his, thereby taking the blame on his own shoulders. Wilbur Emerson finds out that one of the bank men has confessed all to the attorney and he also secures the information that the notes are in the home of Mr. Darwin. He goes to the Darwin home near midnight and sneaking in to the house is found in the library by Mrs. Darwin. The woman, although an old sweetheart of his, refuses to give up the papers and, in the meantime, her husband arrives. He, after finding out that Emerson was there to steal, has him sent to the police station where he is obliged to spend the night, but is released the next day. Mrs. Darwin refuses to appear against him. The next morning Mrs. Darwin returns the package of notes to Wilbur Emerson but he, in order to clear the woman from any blame, has written a confession to the attorney while his father and the other members go free. Darwin has taken out papers for a divorce while Wilbur Emerson after private conversation with Mrs. Darwin is taken by a civil service detective.

"The Gamblers" will be presented at the Opera House every afternoon and evening during the present week.

Keith's Theatre

Sixty people appear in this week's program at Keith's theatre, which is one of the best ever offered at the popular playhouse. Of this number 41 are women, while the others are members of the stronger sex. The program is one of great variety, and owing to this fact all are assured of excellent entertainment.

The feature act is one that the Lowell public is very fortunate at having an opportunity to witness. It is one that is brought here at great expense, but Manager Stevens feels that the excellent patronage accorded him since coming to Lowell is worthy of the best acts obtainable. This he endeavors to do, and that his efforts are fully appreciated is evidenced by the large and enthusiastic audiences that are attending the weekly presentations at his show house. Last night's crowd was the largest Monday night attendance in the history of the theatre, and long before the show started the "S. R. O." sign was displayed.

The reason for this sign is due to the character of the bill. The leading number is headed Rice & Dore's water carnival, one of the most expensive acts in vaudeville. The number is one that demands the services of a large and clever company, and both are well supplied. The act can be called a circus number, for rarely has such a performance been given on a theatre platform. In the act a dozen bathing girls, four male swimmers, a diving dog and diving pony appear. Each performs in an unusually clever and artistic manner. High diving is one of the features of the performance and Miss Lillian Cooley, who makes her start from the flies, drops into the tank amid a shower of water that presents a most spectacular picture. All of the sensational aquatic stunts are given by the swimmers, and each is given with a vim that keeps the spectators on edge during the entire time that the act is in progress.

George Hartzell and Bennie Potter, as clowns, go through a number of entertaining stunts. The eight nymphs then perform, going to the bottom of the tank, and for ten minutes their whereabouts are unknown. Miss Offre who tips the beam at 347, is next introduced and she dives and swims as cleverly as the little ones.

The nymphs again appear from their hiding place and proceed to entertain in remarkable water stunts. Miss Fleming gave a clever demonstration of swimming, presenting many new methods of keeping from the bottom.

The La Prairie Brothers, Indians, appear in a thrilling series of manoeuvers. They are log rollers, who have few superiors at the art. Their part of the program is greatly enjoyed. The finale consisted of diving by the entire troupe of women performers, and each gave a specialty of her own. The act is certainly a wonderful one and must be seen to be appreciated.

The other acts on the program are excellent ones. "Who said Thief?" a comedy sketch in which David Higgins and a competent company appear is a number that went well at the opening performances yesterday. The story hinges around a gay old man, who takes unto himself a wife for pecuniary gain, and like all of these matches, excitement follows. He decides that a blonde would look better on his arm, and pays frequent visits to a manicurist of this type. On his wife's birthday anniversary hubby starts out to buy presents. Unexpectedly he runs into his blonde manicurist. Thereafter follow a series of complications, with the "old man" trimming a fake policeman, and making away with jewels, etc., etc. Mr. Higgins plays the part of the gay deceiver with a naturalness to be expected from such a good actor. Rose Murray was clever as the manicurist. Others who were good were: Alma McLaren, as the wife; Alice Gilmore as "Mme. Bangsky," and Thos. H. Ward as the fake copper.

Myer and Sheldon, who sing excellently, possess good voices, and their comedy was never strained. Paul Kleist in the spectacular novelty, "The Land of Dreams," gave a mixture of pantomime, music and electrical effects. It is a funny act, with Kleist doing some remarkable stunts. Dorothy Richmond & Co., in "A Midnight Marriage," give a number about a man being married without knowing anything about it. How the man actually fell in love with the beautiful creature who caused him to consent to marriage is the wind-up of the affair. Lewis & Demont give a highly pleasing act, and Lee & Perrin appeared in fine acrobatic dancing numbers. Irene Delys has a neat and enjoyable number.

The Playhouse

The initial performance by the Drama Players last evening of "The Marriage of Kitty" was sufficient assurance that patrons of that attractive little theatre are during this present week to be as well pleased as usual with the offering which Mr. Kendall Weston, director of the company has seen fit to present for their approval. In the past it has been an unbroken rule that the plays produced by this clever organization of actors have been well up to a certain high standard set at the very beginning and "The Marriage of Kitty" is far from being an exception, on the contrary is a step forward toward, if possible, an even higher standard. If this piece does not enjoy unlimited success and large patronage throughout the week, then such lack of appreciation will be a reflection on the good taste of the theatre going people of Lowell.

The play this week is a comedy, sparkling, winsome and cleverly constructed so as to bring out to their fullest advantage, the various situations which it contains. The audience which witnessed it last evening was an unusually large one and from its outward manifestations of appreciation, it was quite evident that it was of true merit and deserved the commendation which it received.

We shall not spoil the pleasure of those who are yet to witness the piece by relating the story of it in this article. Anyway, as in the case of the other productions, this one must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated, and mere words could not do the actors justice. The Drama Players are without exception, clever, and they are given an unusual opportunity this week. Mr. J. Anthony Smythe, is quite as great a favorite as ever, in the light comic production and his ability is not confined to the heavier pieces alone. In this play he has the part of an Englishman and in this character he excelled last evening. "Kitty" is Miss Bertha Mann, who is now an established favorite with all patrons of the Playhouse, and she went even a notch higher in the esteem of those who saw her in this production. Miss Grace Young has a most difficult part and she does it full justice. Isaac Dillon, Howard Sidney and Orrin Shear furnished their large share of the amusement and all were warmly applauded for their work. Laura Tintle was pleasing as ever in the character of "Rosaline."

Never since the first production under the direction of Mr. Kendall Weston has the Playhouse to the slightest degree lowered its standard of clever acting and beautiful scenic arrangement. This latter quality has always been most remarkably well carried out in every instance and is a source of wonder to all who attend the various performances. With each succeeding week, Lowell people are realizing more and more that they have in their midst a company of actors who are severally and individually "stars," without exception. The acting is not the ordinary "stock" acting but is as patrons generally concede, really high class acting and every member of the company at the Playhouse is an artist.

It is a sign of good taste and keen appreciation of Lowell people that the audiences each week includes many new friends of the Drama Players, who are now general favorites throughout the city and surrounding towns. Lowell is favored by having with her such a company.

"The Marriage of Kitty" will be produced twice daily during the remainder of the week and should warrant large audiences.

Merrimack Square Theatre

With the departure of the Temple Players who were favorites in this city, Manager Carroll of the Merrimack Square theatre had to go some to fill the bill of this popular house in order to keep its good standard, and with the several numbers presented yesterday it may be said that he has succeeded. The audience at both performances was very large and appreciative and each number on the program was well received.

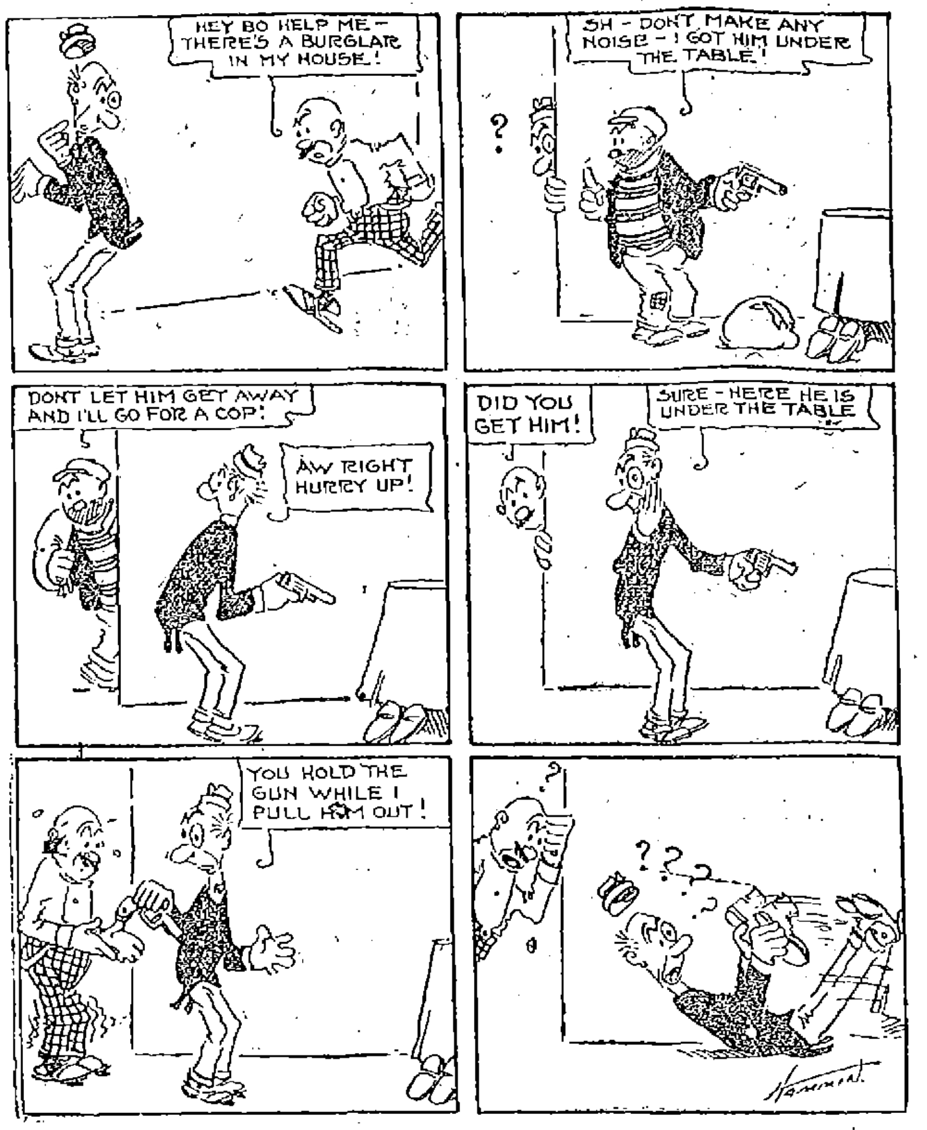

The bill is headed by a clever act entitled "A Dream of Killarney," ably presented by Anna Madigan & Co. The sketch is one of those delightful playlets of Irish life in the Emerald Isle, surrounded with all the quaint and enjoyable atmosphere characteristic of the land of the shamrock, and which never fails to strike a responsive chord in all audiences. The little story which is told, has to do with the "dream of the golden past" of Michael O'Hara, who in his younger days had fallen in love with "Kathleen," but who found, on his return from America that she had entered a convent and later died. The scene shows the convent and the graveyard nearby, where the body of "Kathleen" is buried. Michael happens along and falls asleep on the roadside and the action which follows, reflects his dreams of "the golden past." The piece is cleverly rendered and the staging is artistically done.

Valvino & LaMore are two acrobats of renown and their sketch is well worth seeing. The pair introduce new and difficult acrobatic feats and they inject just enough comedy in their sketch to make it pleasant and very entertaining.

"The Nashville Students," a trio composed of a woman and two men, are clever singers and dancers and their act is very attractive. The young men who excel in clog dancing give a very fine exhibition of this art and the applause throughout the sketch is frequent and loud.

The "Leist Musical Duo," are also very entertaining and they introduce new music which is astonishing. Their repertory includes cornet numbers, xylophone selections and some novelties that are good.

The photo-plays for the first three days of the week are, as usual, good. "The Guiding Light," a two-reel picture, of the dramatic variety, is the leader, and the others include a series of interesting views of "Blackpool," known as the Coney Island of England, "His Watch," a comedy offering, and others equally as good. These pictures are changed on Thursday and invariably line up with the best to be procured. The performances are continuous from 1.30 to 10.30 o'clock, daily.

THOMAS F. DUFFY DEAD

Well Known Business Man Died Suddenly

News of the sudden death of Thomas F. Duffy, which occurred late yesterday afternoon came as a severe shock to his numerous friends and a crushing blow to his family. He had not been in the best of health for some months past but his condition up to Sunday night was at no time serious. Even on Sunday evening he had supper with his family as usual and went to his store to bank the fires for the night. While in the store he was taken suddenly ill and was barely able to call a doctor. When the physician arrived he found Mr. Duffy in a very serious condition and ordered his removal to St. John's hospital, where he died about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Deceased had endeared himself to all his acquaintances by his devotion to friends, his high sense of honor and his readiness to aid any good cause that appealed to his sense of fairness. He had been manager for the Chas. H. Joyce company, but later entered business on his own account at Market street. In his quiet and generous spirit he had helped many men into business and had aided numerous friends in need without letting anyone know of his generosity. He is survived by a wife and six children, five boys: Francis V., Thos. F., Gerald, Edward and Joseph and one daughter, Mary; four sisters, Mrs. Ellen Cawley, Mrs. Harriet Ferrick of Boston, Miss Mary Duffy of this city and Sister Mercedes of the Franciscan order at Hopewell, N. J., two brothers, James of Ashley, Pa. and Edward of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Duffy was a member of the Central club, the Eagles, and the Lowell lodge of Elks. The body was removed to his home, 5 Varley avenue, or 667 Lakeview avenue. Mrs. Duffy and her family have the sincere sympathy of their many friends in their sad bereavement.

EAGLES, NOTICE

All members of Lowell Aerie are requested to be present at the home of our late brothers, George W. Shea, 27 Butler avenue at 7.30 o'clock, and Thomas F. Duffy, 667 Lakeview avenue at 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening March 5, 1913, where the exercises of our order will be held. Per order,

A SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" Regulates Your Stomach and Ends Indigestion in Five Minutes

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

A New Department

For the man, young in years or in spirit, who wants to have his clothes made for him by a firm who will give the latest thing in style and the best in quality that $25.00 to $35.00 will buy in a SUIT or OVERCOAT. We hvae opened a Young Men's Department at 233 Fifth Avenue, New York, within a stone's throw of hosts of fashionable clubs and hotels where may be seen the best dressed men in all the world. For Fifth Avenue is the men's fashion center of the world, and to its ideas of the "proper thing" all other conceptions must bow. And here in the midst of the best of the best, with a concern which has been making clothes for the best dressed New Yorkers for 68 years, and whose every garment is guaranteed to give the wearer satisfaction or they will refund the money, we have opened our new CASH Department for Young Men who want up-to-date clothes made for them under $35.00 for SUIT or OVERCOAT. The clothes we make here for from $35 to $65 a suit are the equal of anything you can get in Boston from $45 to $85 a suit.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS CONFIRMED

At Meeting of Municipal Council —Belle Isle Hearing Again Postponed

The following sewer assessments, the amounts to be levied on the abutters along the line of sewers built in the following named streets, were confirmed by the municipal council this afternoon: Boston road, $116.15; Dalton street, $117; Damon street, $176.10; Dana street, $98.96; Ferry Lane, Carolyn and Bolsvert, $707.61; Hawthorne street, $900; Highland avenue, $90; Holyrood avenue, $324.65; Llewellyn and Third street, $2,744.13; Middlesex street, $2551.59; Mt. Grove street, $159.78; Mt. Hope street, $91; Phoebe avenue, $97.35; Plain street, $150.73; Poplar street, $146.88; Riverside street, $1616.90; Saratoga street, $76; Tenth street, $736.27; Tenth street, $155.24; Troy, $410.16; Viola street, $602.70; West Sixth street, $261.60; West Sixth street, $136.65; Winthrop avenue, $200.50.

These are the sewers that were built in 1912 and this levy cleans up all the assessments with the exception of the Dutton street sewer which was completed a few weeks ago. The above assessments total $12,020.15.

The meeting of the council was scheduled for 2 o'clock, but it did not materialize until 2.40 o'clock. Mayor O'Donnell was absent and Ald. Barrett presided.

Belle-Isle Hearing Postponed

The first business before the body was the Belle-Isle hearing, so called, and it met with another continuance, the date set being next Tuesday afternoon.

A raft of minor petitions including street improvements, additional wire attachments, etc., were properly referred.

Ald. Brown asked if when the appropriation for the auditor's department was made the examination of the financial books of the city was considered.

Alderman Barrett said that last year's audit cost $1500 and he believed it could be done for less than $500 and that there were men in Lowell who could do the work.

Alderman Brown said that no specific appropriation had been made and he would like to have the council vote a certain sum for the work. He thought about $750 would be about the right sum. He knew, he said, it wouldn't cost as much as last year, because last year was a rather remarkable year.

Alderman Brown moved that the commissioner of finance be authorized to engage an accountant to audit the city's books at an expense not to exceed the sum of $760. Mr. Barrett said he would be opposed to so large an amount.

"Well, make a motion," said Mr. Brown.

"The chair awaits a motion," said Mr. Barrett.

No motion was made.

"Do you know what Mr. Gettemy would charge?" asked Mr. Barrett.

"About eight or nine hundred, I think," said Mr. Brown.

It was finally arranged for Mr. Brown to write to Mr. Gettemy and ascertain what he would charge for an audit of the city's books of 1912.

To Purchase Flowers

Alderman Cummings was given authority to purchase flowers to be used on graves, perpetual care lots, to an amount more than $50 and less than $500.

At 3 o'clock the council adjourned to Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

WILSON STOPS RUNAWAY

President Patted Frightened Animal

WASHINGTON, March 4.—One startling incident took place in the march back to the White House. A cavalryman's horse reared toward the president's carriage and at one time it looked as if he would plant his forefeet in it. A dozen troopers frantically rushed to grasp the bridle while President Wilson calmly leaned out of his carriage and patted the frightened horse on the neck.

At the White House reviewing stand Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bryan and practically all the Wilson cabinet and their wives took places beside the president.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS

To Hold Meeting This Evening—Hearing on Petition of Hack Drivers for More Pay Scheduled

The first application for a renewal of first class common victualler's license was registered at the office of the commission in the Market street municipal building this afternoon by Thomas E. Lennon, who will conduct his business in Market street.

For the meeting of the board of license commissioners tonight there is scheduled a hearing in the petition of the hackney coach licensees for a new schedule of rates, which they were to have drawn up in the meantime. It is expected that this new schedule will be presented before the board this evening for the approval of the members.

The period for the filing of applications for liquor licenses for the year beginning May first opened last Saturday and will close at 12 o'clock noon on Friday, March 14. Thus far twelve applications have been taken out and two have been returned.

Supt. Hugh Molloy

At an open meeting especially designed for the school teachers and the mothers of the city, Supt. Hugh Molloy will speak in the Y. W. C. A. hall Friday afternoon, March 7, on the relation of the home and the school. This is the second of the series which is held on the first Friday of the month. The speaker of last month was Dr. Martin. Mrs. Harry Graves will preside as chairman of junior work of the Y. W. C. A. and tea will be served by different committees of women.

INAUGURATED WITH IMPOSING CEREMONIES AT WASHINGTON

Exercises Attended by Largest Crowd in History of Capital---Brief Inaugural Address

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Woodrow Wilson became president of the United States today amid imposing ceremonies and tumultuous scenes of popular greeting. Standing at the historic east front of the capitol he took the constitutional oath of office and in his brief inaugural address made a fervid appeal to all patriotic men for counsel and said:

"This is not a day of triumph," he declared. "It is a day of dedication. Here muster, not the forces of party but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward looking men to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me."

Vice-President Marshall had been inaugurated in the senate chamber only shortly before and at the conclusion of President Wilson's inaugural address the party hurried back to the White House ahead of the inaugural procession, where Mr. Taft said good-bye to President Wilson and prepared to leave at once for Augusta, Ga. President Wilson shortly afterward took his place to review the procession.

ELABORATE EXERCISES ATTENDED THE INAUGERATION OF PRES. WILSON

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Inauguration day at the National Capital brought one of the largest throngs ever seen there and there was the usual curiosity at all points whenever a prominent official passed along the streets. The weather while not ideal, was mild and while the morning was threatening, the sun came out later and in the afternoon a gale blew over the city. The newspaper men were at all points watching the incoming officials but the greatest interest centered in the movements of the new president and his family.

President Wilson instructed his secretary to learn what would be the proper time to send the cabinet nominations to the senate as the president intended to send them today.

Shortly after nine o'clock William Jennings Bryan called with William F. Coombs to see Mr. Wilson. Both were greeted most cordially and went into conference with the president in the latter's room.

After this conference President Wilson met the newspaper correspondents and told them that he had been informed by the leaders of congress that the business of the extra session will be ready April first, adding that the date was subject to change.

About this time the committee in charge of the ceremonies of the day arrived to take Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall to the White House. At 9.45 Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall accompanied by the congressional committee left their hotel and began the short drive to the White House. The Essex and Culver troops cantered along as their escort, while the stu-

Reo Truck Attracts Attention

The Reo two ton truck which has been in town several times recently, attracted much attention and favorable comment. Wherever this truck has been it has made good, even under extreme overloads to the extent of three to three and three-quarters, tons, handling these overloads without difficulty. It comprises the same features of control by the single center lever, and the combination locking foot pedals that are employed in the Reo the six pleasure cars. Motor governed at 12 miles an hour and radiator sectional, meaning that an accident to that part of the car would not disable it, help to make it an up to date commercial vehicle, and Mr. White, the agent for this territory, has great hopes for the business he expects to do with it this season. The light delivery continues to give the best of satisfaction to its users and is in constant demand.

Senators Are Off

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—Immediately after the inaugural parade today the veteran players of the Washington Americans will leave for the training camp at Charlottesville, Va. In the party will be Walter Johnson, premier twirler of the American league and "Germany" Schaefer and Nick Altrock, the comedy team of the league who will assist the veterans in whipping the recruits in the camp into shape. Beginning tomorrow the team will settle down to hard work.

A GREAT BOOM FOR LOWELL

New Union Depot at Washington Park—Eight Story Factory on B. & M. Property

The most extensive railroad changes in the history of Lowell are being contemplated at the present time and Lowell is due for an unexcelled era of prosperity. The changes contemplated include the building of a magnificent union depot at the old ball grounds known as Washington park and a four track railroad system through Lowell. This will mean the elimination of the present depot, the widening of the cut near the depot, and the acquisition of a vast amount of property. It was stated today, and on the best of authority, that plans for these extensive improvements and alterations are now almost completed and will probably be passed upon by the Boston & Maine and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads within a short time.

With this report of magnificent and extensive improvements under the leadership of progressive management comes another well authenticated report of the erection, by outside interests, of an immense manufacturing establishment, eight stories in height, on territory adjacent to the old Boston & Maine train shed. It is understood that the new plant will be devoted either to the manufacture of passenger automobile, or business trucks or perhaps both. The two propositions would involve expenditures well into the millions and would be a great boom to Lowell. It remains for outsiders, it would seem, to appreciate Lowell's advantage as a place for investment and it has been confidently predicted that Lowell, within the next decade, will have a population of more than 150,000. Prospects never looked brighter for Lowell than at the present time.

Four Tracks and New Depot

Surveys and soundings for the installation of the four track system have been made by railroad engineers and unless all signs fail the work will be under way before many months have passed. After widening the cut in the vicinity of the French estate the four tracks will swing with a broad curve across and under Middlesex street and continue along through land now occupied by the St. James hotel, the Davis & Sargent lumber yard and buildings and other property in that vicinity, terminating in a great main station at Washington park. Under the new plans it would not be necessary to put the tracks across the canal and it will be quite possible to depress the tracks by a waterproof retaining wall. Beyond the old ball grounds, according to the present plans, the road would take in the Doherty foundry and other property in that vicinity.

The scheme to erect a magnificent depot at Washington park will appeal to the people of Lowell when they realize how accessible it can be made by a slight change in street railway lines and to the proposal to eliminate the old depot everybody in Lowell will say "Amen." It might appear on the surface that in order to reach the depot were it located at Washington park, it would be necessary to use the Middlesex street line, but as a matter of fact by the making of very slight changes the depot could be reached by quadruple service from the centre of the city. These changes would include the Fletcher and Dutton street lines.

Grade Crossing Bugbear

The plans as outlined by the engineers does away with the Middlesex grade crossing, the bugbear that has been with us for years. Heretofore many have thought it impossible to depress the tracks at the Middlesex street crossing because of having to cross the canal. The new plan, as already stated, does not contemplate crossing the canal and this very fact simplifies the engineering problem.

The job of widening the cut at Thorndike street, or, to be more exact, where the overhead bridge connects Appleton and Chelmsford streets, has also been considered quite an engineering problem but the new plans, it is said, wipe out practically all the little difficulties that were forever bobbing up when the grade crossing at Middlesex street was being considered.

Reaching the Mills

The mills would probably be reached by depressed tracks for freight and the scheme as contemplated would greatly enhance the value of property in Dutton street. It is a well known fact that the putting into the market of Dutton street property for stores and other purposes has been under contemplation for a number of years. With the new turn of affairs the land in Dutton street would be made very valuable and it would be but a short time when Dutton street would be superior to Middlesex street.

The proposition for a grand mill yard or terminal was made several years ago and has since been seriously considered. The scheme was to run tracks through the Gage land in School street and establish the yard back of the Ayer estate. The proposition for a general mill yard where the different mills could get their supplies, doing their own shifting with dummy engines, is said to be looked upon with favor by a majority of the mill men in Lowell and with the coming of the changes in railroads here changes that will be due to the progressive management of which President Mellen, a Lowell boy, stands at the head, it will be possible for the mills and other industries to improve their facilities and and get greater accommodation. When the new bridge was built in connection with the grade crossing work in School street one arch was left open for a single track and at that time one of the engineers was heard to remark that it would be but a short time before the bridge would have to be made all over. Asked why he thought so, he replied that it was but a question of time when the railroad would put a four track system through Lowell. "The railroads will do something other than build a grade crossing in Middlesex street," he said.

New Manufacturing Industry

It is a New York concern that is after the old Boston & Maine station at Tower's corner and it is said that the deal will be closed in a very few days. The company already has option on private property in the vicinity of the depot and extending between Hurd and Green streets to the Middlesex mills. The new company will build an eight story factory for the manufacture of automobiles and will give employment to a great many hands. They will require a lot of skilled help and though it may not be generally known, Lowell has her quota of first class mechanics.

The new company, it is understood, will use the front of the old depot building for offices and the rear for storage and shipping. It would be a most convenient point for a manufactory of this kind and it would be a very welcome addition to the city's list of industries.

It is generally conceded that Lowell has a good labor market and Lowell is a good city to live in. Rents are reasonable, board and lodging are cheap and clothing is cheaper in Lowell than in Boston. The city is well supplied with churches and schools and the young man or young woman seeking a technical training has all the opportunities that are necessary. The Lowell Textile school offers wonderful opportunity for the young man or woman who would specialize. This school has turned out skilled men who are filling important positions all over the country.

In discussing Lowell's outlook it must not be forgotten that the towns with which she joins hands are also on the threshold of a new life. It is probably safe to presage that North Billerica, within the next five or seven years, will have a population of 10,000 people and North Chelmsford's population is constantly growing.

Prosperity in Lowell means prosperity in the surrounding towns and when the towns flourish Lowell rejoices. There is one thing, however, that seems rather strange but it is not peculiar to Lowell for it said to obtain in other cities, and that is the slowness of Lowell men and women to catch on to the good things in their own city. It would seem that they prefer to sit back and allow the outsiders to pick the plums while they nibble at the investments in green hills far away.

It was stated today, by a man who ought to be very good authority, that Lowell has skilled help enough to fill probably as big a factory as is contemplated by the new concern and he gave expression to the belief that Lowell's prospects at the present time are much better than ever before in her history. The very making of the changes in tracks and the building of a union depot at Washington park, together with the erection of a new automobile factory and other buildings would mean the expenditure of vast sums of money in this city and would broaden the channels of industry as to make Lowell the busiest place on the map. Let the good work go on!

REPAIRING MEXICO RAILROADS

Government Troops Will Then Engage in Campaign Against the Rebels

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—A force of rebels has occupied the town of Yecapextla, a place of considerable importance near Cuautla in the state of Morelos. In consequence of this the war department announces its intention of dispatching a punitive expedition into the southern rebel zone. The number of federal soldiers at present in the state of Morelos amounts to only a few more more than 1000.

A construction train under a strong guard of government troops is engaged in repairing the railroad between the federal capital and Cuernavaca and it is probable that when this is completed the campaign against the rebels in the south will be pushed with much more vigor.

The capital of Alberto Fuentes D, the alleged rebellious governor of the state of Aguascalientes is regarded by the government as a big step toward ending the revolution which broke out in the north at the inauguration of Provisional President Huerta's administration.

New significance has been added to the general insurrectionary movement in the northern states lead by Venustiano Carranza, the rebel governor of the state of Coahuila, by the discovery of the presence of some adherents of Carranza far to the west in Zacatecas, where they have burned a number of railroad bridges.

Gen. Benjamin Argumendo, one of the rebel commanders, has telegraphed to the government that he has 900 men and 120 horses which he will place at the disposal of the new administration and he declared that he would pitch his headquarters at Lerdo, a suburb of Torreon last night.

Gen. Argumendo informed the government that one of his lieutenants, Robles, on Sunday with 300 men attacked and defeated the rebel chief, Juraney in northern Aguasalcientes. Argumendo expects Robles and his men to join him at Lerdo some time this week. Gen. Reche-Campos, another rebel leader with a considerable force of his men is encamped at Gomez Palacio another suburb of Torreon. Both of these generals were prominent leaders in Pascual Orozco's rebel army.

As the government has not received satisfactory advices from Gov. Maytorena of the state of Sonora plans have been drawn up at the war office to call on Pascual Orozco with 3000 men to start a campaign against him.

Two Small Disturbances

BOSTON, March 4.—Two small disturbances in the garment and shirtwaist manufacturing districts engaged the attention of the police today. Two arrests were made in front of an establishment on Bedford street.

Indictments Returned.

BOSTON, March 4.—New indictments were returned in the United States district court today against W. B. Wheeler, Stillman Shaw and G. Alden Whitmore, officers of the North American Rubber Co. of Boston, all charged with using the mails fraudulently in selling stock in the company.

Charges Against Police

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Charges that the police of Washington did not properly protect yesterday's suffrage parade were made in the house early today by Rep. Hobson of Alabama, who later declared that he purposed to ask for an investigation of the police department during the extra session of congress.

Poorly cooked oatmeal never made anyone strong.

Many people who eat oatmeal with the idea that it is doing them good are deceiving themselves, because they are eating it only partly cooked.

The principal element in oatmeal is starch, a great producer of bodily heat. The starch cells in the oats must be cooked at least two and a half hours before their walls are broken down so that the digestive juices can assimilate the starch.

H-O is the only oatmeal ready for assimilation after 20 minutes' cooking in your kitchen.

$2000 WAS APPROPRIATED FOR BETTER ROADS

FRED E. POLLARD

PERCY SMITH
Re-elected Selectman

WALTER GARLAND,
Re-elected Selectman

The good weather of yesterday brought out a large vote at the annual town meeting in Dracut and the result was a sweeping victory for the republican voters as only two democrats secured office. John W. Brennan, D., was elected town clerk while Thomas F. Carrick, D., was chosen tree warden by a good majority. The town also voted no license, this being the fourth consecutive year it has gone dry.

In spite of the tax rate of $25.30 per $1000 last year the appropriations were only about $6000 less, the amount voted this year being $63,281.83.

That Dracut will have better roads was assured yesterday afternoon when $2000 was appropriated to macadamize Pleasant street; an article calling for the sum of $6000 to repair Mammoth road was adopted; and $6300 was voted to expend on Bridge street. A sum of $398.12 was also appropriated to build a sidewalk in front of the Hildreth cemetery. The town also voted to free itself from probable future liability by discontinuing a portion of the "Old Road." Some of the articles caused considerable discussion although the meeting was "tamer" than some in the past.

The vote cast was as follows:

Town treasurer: One elected: George H. Stevens, R., 268; Nicholas Gallagher, D., 228.

JOS. ETTOR DEPORTED

BLAINE, Wash., March 4.—Joseph J. Ettor, a leader of the strike of members of the Industrial Workers of the World at Lawrence, Mass., returned to the United States yesterday, having been taken from a train at White Rock, B. C., Friday and deported on an order from Ottawa.

Ettor was kept under guard between trains by immigration officers, who reported that he refused to answer questions. He declared that he was a citizen of the United States on his way to Victoria to lecture and that he could not be detained. He refused to permit his baggage to be searched.

The order from Ottawa gave no reason for deportation except that Ettor was regarded as an agitator and as such he was not wished in the country.

Ettor, since his acquittal at Salem, Mass., on a charge of murder, has refused to desert the Industrial Workers of the World, although his family threatened to disown him.

Mysterious Case Dropped

CHICAGO, March 4.—The Evanston police today dropped the mysterious case of Mrs. Mabel Mills of San Antonio, Texas, and her "lost or stolen" $41,000.

According to Chief Shaffer of Evanston, the case never was brought to his attention officially, nor were any arrangements made with him to prosecute a search for the money.

Mrs. Mills is supposed to have departed the city. Chief Shaffer says that she was very reticent about the whole business and declined to answer leading questions.

HAPPY, LAUGHING CHILD SHORTLY.

If Cross, Feverish, Bilious and Sick Let "Syrup of Figs" Clean Its Little Waste-Clogged Bowels

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative physic should always be the first treatment given.

If your child isn't feeling well; resting nicely, eating regularly and acting naturally it is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or your little one has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, tongue coated; give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious fig taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

THE USE OF FLAVORING

How it is Abused by Some Cooks

The French say that as a nation American cooks spoil their handiwork because they don't know how to flavor their dishes properly, and this criticism is in many cases only too true.

Lemon and vanilla flavorings are both often handled very badly. Many cooks either leave them out altogether or put in a great deal too much. It is a good thing to remember that vanilla should not be used with any very sweet dish, as it is apt to make the flavor rather cloying, but in a cake or pudding which contains only a little sugar it is often a wonderful improvement.

Unless your hand is exceptionally steady you had better not pour out vanilla from the bottle, for instead of a drop or two you will get a steady stream. It is safer to pour the vanilla on a lump of sugar; then if too much comes out you can break off part of the lump and so get only the exact quantity that you want.

Use fresh lemons rather than lemon essence whenever you can get them. You can put a squeeze of lemon juice into pastry or a cake or pudding of the solid kind, but it must never be put into a milk pudding or sauce, for it would curdle the milk and make the whole thing lumpy.

Instead, you should cut a bit of thin lemon rind and simmer it gently in the milk for a few minutes, then take out the rind and go on making your pudding, or you may rub a couple of lumps of sugar on the outside of your lemon till they turn yellow and then add them to the pudding.

If you want to make a soup or stew taste of onion without actually having a piece of onion in it, cut open your vegetable and rub it on each little bit of meat, or you may fry a few slices of onions with a little dripping at the bottom of the pan which is to contain the stew and then take out the slices before putting in the other ingredients.

A little chopped onion added to greens improves their flavor in a wonderful way. It is also very nice in dried peas, lentils or beans.

A couple of cloves put into an apple tart bring out the flavor of the fruit. Many people, too, who do not care for spice in a pudding will welcome a stick of cinnamon which has been simmered in the milk with which the pudding is made.

A very delicious meat flavoring may be made by putting a few peppercorns and some chopped parsley into a small bottle of vinegar. Stand this in a gentle oven until it is thoroughly warmed through. Set it aside and leave it for a week. Then pour off the vinegar and use it as a flavoring for stews.

A mustard sauce is very nice with any kind of fish that tends to be a bit greasy, such as fried herring or mackerel. Mix a small pinch of mustard into the flour with which the sauce is made. Add a squeeze of lemon juice, smooth the flour with a little water and mix it as for a plain white sauce.

Perhaps you do not know how delicious fried apples are with sausages. Peel and core them in the usual way, cutting them into very thin slices. Then after the sausages are cooked fry up the apples quickly in the dripping which is left in the pan. When they are quite brown arrange them around the sausages and serve very hot.

There is one thing to remember in using flavorings—don't overdo them. If you are doubtful it is better to put in too little than too much.

Crepe De Chine Nighties

The crepe de chine nightgowns are so alluring that it is not surprising they have won many converts from the muslin shoulder robes. A particularly pretty one in pink crepe de chine displays a touch of hand embroidery at the neck on the center front and on the short cap sleeves. A good finish is lent by the narrow frish picot lace which edges the neck and sleeves.

PAINS, ACHES, SPRAINS, BRUISES

Page's Oil Liniment

Of Lynn

"My mother, an experienced trained nurse discovered a mixture of oil and anodynes which applied by a special method as used by her relieves pain in a manner that is almost wonderful. There are many other liniments but there is no other liniment just like her liniment, and there is no other that can be used in just the same way that hers is used for the relief of pain. I have named it after her, Page's Oil Liniment.

Pain is in most cases a matter of congestion or in other words a stopping of the blood flow through the affected part. In nine cases out of ten the relief of this congestion will stop the pain.

By a peculiar method of applying the liniment as described on each bottle, the goodness of the liniment is forced right into the muscles and flesh in such a way that the circulation is usually restored at once and the pain disappears. There is no unpleasant after-effect, no burning or blistering of the skin.

Below I publish a few testimonials and I want you to notice that they are nearly all from people right in my own town, where I live, the city of Lynn, Mass., where Page's Oil Liniment is well-known as the great pain reliever.

SCIATICA

I have much praise for Page's Oil Liniment. I suffered a great deal with sciatica in my arms and legs. I used this magic liniment and received great results. I haven't been troubled since. H. A. Southwick, 104 Newhall st., Lynn, Mass.

NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATISM

I was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism. This liniment was very highly recommended to me. It relieved me very quickly. It should be used in every home. Mrs. M. Day, Saugus, Mass.

SPRAINED ANKLE

After using Page's Oil Liniment for bad sprained ankle I got great relief. I will recommend same to all sufferers. Thomas Quigley, 16 Brendlecam st., Lynn, Mass.

"LAID AWAY MY CRUTCHES"

I can most heartily recommend Page's Oil Liniment as a wonderful cure. I have been laid up with inflammatory rheumatism in the Lynn hospital since September. Have tried all kinds of treatment without any relief. After using Page's Oil Liniment for one week I laid away my crutches and now I can walk without any cane. William Hallissey, 217 Summer st., Lynn, Mass.

I urge you to start at once using Page's Oil Liniment following the simple directions on the bottle. The price is 25c and 50c per bottle. These up-to-date stores are the only ones in Lowell where you can at present buy this new remedy:

PRESIDENT WILSON'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS A TERSE ENUNCIATION OF HIS FUTURE POLICY

President's ROOM in the CAPITOL

President Wilson in his inaugural address sets forth the significance of the present complete change in government—

Protests against the old order because of unfulfilled promises.

Outlines the policies of the democratic party and groups things most in need of reform under five main heads:—The tariff, banking and currency, trust regulation, agricultural possibilities and conservation of natural resources.

Says government should be put to the service of humanity, the betterment of the masses rather than the serving of the privileged few.

Advises reorganization rather than revolution.

Calls for the co-operation of all the people and promises if supported to fulfill all pledges.

The President's Inaugural

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The senate about to assemble will also be democratic. The offices of president and vice-president have been put into the hands of democrats. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things with which we had grown familiar, and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things, as we look frankly upon them, willing to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

We see that in many things that life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in the diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men and the limitless enterprise of groups of men. It is great, also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking forms the beauty and the energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering, and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing, and contains it in rich abundance.

But the evil has come with the good, and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come inexcusable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used, and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature, without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and impotent, scorning to be careful, shamefully prodigal as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been "Let every man look out for himself, let every generation look out for itself," while we reared giant machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves. We had not forgotten our morals. We remembered well enough that we had set up a policy which was meant to serve the humblest as well as the most powerful, with an eye single to the standards of justice and fair play, and remembered it with pride. But we were very heedless and in a hurry to be great.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation, and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all its side, financial as well as administrative, holds capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor, and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentality of science taken directly to the farm, or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; watercourses undeveloped, waste places unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mine. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy as we should either as organizers of industry, as statesmen, or as individuals.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government may be put at the service of humanity, in safeguarding the health of the nation, the health of its men and its women and its children, as well as their rights in the struggle for existence. This is no sentimental duty. The firm basis of government is justice, not pity. These are matters of justice. There can be no equality or opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control, or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not itself crush or weaken or damage its own constituent parts. The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves. Sanitary laws, pure food laws, and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency.

These are some of the things we ought to do, and not leave the others undone, the old-fashioned, never-to-be-neglected, fundamental safeguarding of property and of individual right. This is the high enterprise of the new day; to lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearthfire of every man's conscience and vision of the right. It is inconceivable that we should do this as partisans; it is inconceivable we should do it in ignorance of the facts as they are or in blind haste. We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon; and step by step we shall make it what it should be, in the spirit of those who question their own wisdom and seek counsel and knowledge, not shallow self-satisfaction or the excitement of excursions whither they cannot tell. Justice, and only justice, shall always be our motto.

And yet it will be no cool process of mere science. The nation has been deeply stirred, stirred by a solemn passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil. The feelings with which we face this new age of right and opportunity sweep across our heart-strings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. We know our task to be no mere task of politics but a task which shall search us through and through, whether we be able to understand our time and the need of our people, whether we be indeed their spokesmen and interpreters, whether we have the pure heart to comprehend and the rectified will to choose our high course of action.

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here muster, not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me!

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The Local Societies Are Very Active

Wamesit lodge still continues the activity begun at the first of the year in making new members. At every meeting applications are being received. The entertainment committee is furnishing the best that can be provided for every meeting, and only the stay-at-homes miss the good things and genial companionship of the splendid type of men who regularly attend the meetings. Chief of Staff John H. Mills is giving a fine exhibition of his work as drill master of the initiatory team. The snappy work that has made this team famous was in evidence last night when some ten young men were received into full fellowship in a manner that must have impressed them with the dignity and importance of the Manchester Unity. At the regular meeting held in Odd Fellows building last night over one hundred members were in attendance. Five applications were received and favorable action taken. A letter from Victor Bartlett in Rhode Island was read presenting the lodge with three valuable prizes to be given to the members at the next meeting. Past Provincial Grand Master Jas. Smith of this city was present and advocated the formation of a past grand's lodge and it was suggested that a meeting of all the past grand's of the Manchester Unity in this city and North Billerica be called in the near future for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming such an organization. After the business session the members adjourned to the banquet hall and enjoyed a collation prepared by the entertainment committee and in speech, song and story the members enjoyed themselves till a late hour. At the next meeting a whist party will furnish entertainment for members and their friends.

Echo Lodge, N. E. O. P.

Recently Echo Lodge, N. E. O. P., held a supper and open meeting and the affair proved highly enjoyable to the large number who attended. There was an entertainment and a peanut hunt for prizes. The winners were as follows:

First prize, Everett Mountain; second, Miss E. Morrison; third, Miss Ella McNabb.

Those who took part in the entertainment were the following: Piano solos by C. Mountain, Miss Ella McNabb, Miss Jessie Regan, and recitations by Miss Ruth Mountain, and songs by C. Mountain and Miss Ruth Anderson. Miss Jessie Regan was the accompanist. Games were also enjoyed. In bowling, the Brothers defeated the Sisters.

Evening Star Lodge

Lowell Aerie, F. O. of E.

At the regular meeting of Lowell aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, to be held tonight, the third game in the series of 45's will be played. Suitable prizes have been provided for the winners. Play is to start at 9 o'clock.

FELL THROUGH BULKHEAD

Horse Dropped 15 Feet and Was Uninjured

An accident which might have caused the death of a valuable horse occurred yesterday afternoon at Undertaker Billodeau's stable in Moody street, when the animal fell through a bulkhead. Fortunately it was uninjured, but it was some task to get it out of the cellar.

The horse is owned by Harris Deeno of the Navy Yard, and the latter had just finished unhitching it when it started out and walked right into to an open bulkhead, about 15 feet deep, leading into the cellar of the stable. At the outstart it was seen that it was almost impossible to extricate the horse without a chain, fall, and, McGovern, the furniture mover was sent for. With the assistance of five other men and pulleys, Mr. McGovern succeeded in pulling the horse to the ground.

A polite burglar gained entrance to the office of Paul Vigeant, hay and grain dealer, at the corner of Moody and Hanover streets, some time last night or early this morning, took a sum of money amounting to $1400 from the safe and left a note thanking Mr. Vigeant. The note read as follows:

"Vigeant; You are a good boy—thank you dear, good bye.

According to the story of the break as the police have it, the burglar got away with $1,400. Of this amount, $1,000 was part of the insurance money which Mr. Vigeant received upon the death of his brother, Timothee Vigeant, a short time ago. The total insurance amounted to $2,000 and Mr. Paul Vigeant was the beneficiary. He decided to have $1,000 of the money in his safe.

Edmond Cormier, who is employed by Mr. Vigeant, arrived at the place at about six o'clock this morning to begin his daily work. On entering the office he found the safe open and he immediately notified passersby and telephoned to Mr. Vigeant, who notified the police. He found the above note on a desk in the office. One of the rear windows was found to be open and it may have been that the burglar gained entrance through this. Mr. Vigeant said that he was of the opinion that he locked the safe on leaving the office last night but could not state positively whether he did so or not. The money was kept in an inner compartment and this was found to be open this morning. It is quite possible that the thief may have used a key. The police are now at work on the case.

This is the most serious of several breaks which have been reported having taken place in the heart of the city during the past week or thereabouts. In several of the others, the burglar was supposed to have hidden himself within the buildings and remained there through closing time, afterwards leaving by a door or window.

TOOK WATCH FROM NURSE

Man Fined $10 for Keeping an Unlicensed Dog—Several Other Offenders in Police Court

On a charge of stealing a watch from Joseph Carroll, John Gately, whom Inspector Walsh brought here from Boston yesterday, was arraigned in police court today and he entered a plea of guilty. Defendant, it is said, was an inmate of the Chelmsford Street hospital and Mr. Carroll is head nurse there. After the theft of the watch Gately skipped to Boston and was captured there while trying to dispose of the article. He was sent to jail for a term of four months.

Kept Unlicensed Dog

Charged with illegally keeping a dog without a license, Charles Faulcon was arraigned today and pleaded not guilty. Later he said that he did not own the animal, but kept him and fed him at his home in the absence of the owner. He was fined $10 and given one week in which to pay it.

For Drunkenness

Joseph Lamoureux was fined $6. The case of Thomas F. Dolan was continued until Saturday.

Ellerie Dubois and John White were others to contribute $5 to the court. Thomas F. Farrell was in for the third occasion. He was already in the care of the probation officer and suspension of sentence being revoked, the sentence was affirmed.

Thos. Noon pleaded guilty of drunkenness and Officer Maloney said that the man had smashed four blinds and three windows yesterday in a Fayette street building. He afterward "settled up" the damage and paid a $2 fine.

Antonio Ozarowski appeared and changed a plea of not guilty to guilty. He was fined $5. A few others got by on $2 fines.

FUNERALS

ANDREWS—The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews took place yesterday afternoon from her home, 413 Walker street. The burial was in the family lot in the Lowell cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. Guy W. Bean and under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

Grip Germs Are Everywhere

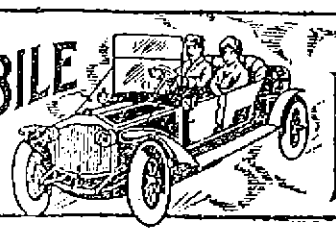

The grip needs only a few days to wreck the health. In this short time it so thoroughly poisons the blood and every tissue of the body that the victim is prostrated. Every muscle and joint of the body aches, sleep is fitful and disturbed, and there is pain back of the eyes and in the head. The grip stays in the system for years unless the blood is cleansed and built up so that it can overcome the poisons of the disease. People who do not take a good blood-building medicine after an attack of the grip are the ones who suffer for years.

Drive every trace of the grip from your system by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. W. H. Parker, of No. 96 West Union street, Newark, N. Y., who did this, says: "I was sick for two years following the grip and every one thought I was going into consumption. I trembled so that I could not sit still in a chair. My heart palpitated and I had to lie down most of the time during the entire year while I had the trembling spells. I had headaches occasionally and lost a great deal in weight. I was not able to do much work and had no ambition. I had no appetite and my stomach was out of order. After two years I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I felt that they were helping me before I had finished the first box. The trembling spells left and I was soon cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills taken in time will save you much suffering and will so tone up your system that you will enjoy the best of health.

Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for their free booklet on "Building Up the Blood." Then go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for 50 cents or better still six boxes for $2.50 or order them direct by mail.

THE LATEST ENTRY

List for Big Auto Race is Growing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind, March 4.—The latest entry for the third annual 500-mile international sweepstakes race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, comes somewhat in the nature of a birthday surprise party, for this is the manner in which the first anniversary of the Henderson car will be celebrated. The Hendersons of Indianapolis introduced the car that bears their name to the American public with a big parade and reception in the Hoosier capital during the second 500-mile event. After a period of 12 months a Henderson is going to make its debut with thirty of the fastest speed creations ever constructed, on the world's greatest race course. It will be driven by Billy Knipper.

This driver began his speed career when he raced on the Harlem course at Chicago in 1904. Knipper also raced in Europe in 1905, when he competed in the Gordon-Bennett trophy event. In 1911 Knipper was known to racing fans all over the United States as "Prince Billy," team mate of "King Bob" Burman. While teaming with Burman he drove the 200-horsepower Janetzy-Mercedes, and a 120-horsepower Penz. Knipper had the distinction of being one of the few men who could handle at that time the old Darracq, which Hemery originally built, and which, until it was scrapped, was acknowledged to be one of the fastest cars ever put on a race track. Few men could manipulate the car, as by that time the gear box was so dilapidated that to control it was difficult.

The Trophies

There has been a rearrangement of the regular Speedway trophies, and according to present plans the Remy Brassard and trophy, the Prest-O-Lite Trophy and the Wheeler Schebler cup, instead of being raced for at the one, two and three hundred mile posts of the first two, three and four hundred mile posts of the 500-mile race, will be given to the winners of the first two, three and four hundred miles.

The details of the manner in which the trophies above will be handed over to their winners are as follows: The Remy brassard goes to the winner at two hundred miles, and the Remy trophy, valued at $2500, goes to the owner of the car. If the driver uses Remy ignition, he receives in addition to the brassard a salary of $50 a week for twenty consecutive weeks after the race. The Prest-O-Lite trophy goes to the man who is ahead at three hundred miles, regardless of any equipment he may carry. No cash accompanies this award, however. The Wheeler & Schebler $10,000 cup will be given to the victor at the four-hundred mile post. If he uses a Schebler carbureter an additional cash award of $1000 is his. Otherwise he gets only the glory. All of these trophies, with the exception of the cash awards, are returnable to their donors on demand. The plan is to offer them on the speedway every year. Between races they will naturally be allowed to remain in the custody of the driver who captures them so that he may use them for exhibition and display purposes.

FOR THE MOTORCYCLISTS

Two Wheeled Vehicle Becoming Popular

In the future, as for the past two weeks, The Sun will devote a portion of its automobile page to the news of interest to motorcyclists. Of recent years, and especially this past year, motor cycle business has grown beyond all expectations and bids fair to continue to grow until it establishes a new record mark for the season of 1913. The best makes of motor cycle are sold in Lowell and many Lowell people are buying these vehicles. They will in all probability be used more this year than ever before.

Excelsior and Dayton

Prominent in the motor cycle business of this city is Mr. Mark McCann, who has the agency of those two popular machines, the Excelsior and the Dayton at his store in Gorham street. In the brief time in which Mr. McCann has been carrying on his business he has done wonderfully well and has taken many orders for both the above makes which are growing daily more the favorites. Mr. McCann recently returned from a business trip to Worcester where he visited the J. W. Grady Supply company, with a view to increasing the stock of his establishment anticipating a large business which is sure to accrue to him. He will attend the Automobile show in Boston during next week and will meet some of the prominent New England dealers there.

Indian and Pope Machines

Mr. Bachelder in Post Office avenue has the agency of those two well known makes of the motor cycle and is doing exceedingly well with them. They need no word to "boost" them in motoring circles for they are already very well known to all enthusiasts and have established a reputation for themselves that cannot be overthrown. Mr. Bachelder too, will attend the Boston show next week. His business has been increasing daily and he is about to augment his stock to a considerable degree.

For a Motor Cycle Club

Not long ago an endeavor was made to set on foot an organization of the motorcyclists of this city and form a club. Many evidenced interest in the project and met once but they gradually drifted away and as a result of their lack of continued interest and failing to band together permanently, the club failed. Such a club would, without doubt, be a great thing for the enthusiasts had they the energy and perseverance to form one. The fact that there are petty jealousies between owners of different makes of cars should prove no obstacle though it is thought to have been material in the failure of the last attempt to form a motor cycle club here. There should be friendly rivalry, it is true, but because all do not own the same type of machine should be no reason for the absence of an organizaiton. Some excellent tours and motor cycle trips could be made by a large number if they were sufficiently interested to band together and it is earnestly hoped that such an organization will be successfully formed this year.

We could give you the entire list of Alco owners but refer to cite some in this State.

Sixty-five per cent of all Alco owners are rated by Bradstreet and Dun at $1,000,000 or over. Big business houses are shrewd buyers. They seldom purchase mistakes. Nearly every one of these big business houses has bought more Alco trucks. This is a good guide for the smaller business house, for it can avoid the danger of an unwise purchase if it, too, selects the Alco.

Dealers Preparing for a Large Spring Business—Many Will Go to Boston Auto Show

With the rapid approach of the warm weather, the interest in automobiling and motor cycling is increasing rapidly; those who already are fortunate enough to be the possessors of machines are using them constantly, for to them the spring means but the continuance in the enjoyment of what is already theirs, with perhaps the added pleasure which accompanies the first signs of the budding of trees, the flowers and other effects of nature that tend to make an out of door trip all the more pleasant. But there are many prospective owners of automobiles and motorcycles who have sent in their orders for machines to be delivered in the spring, fearing that at any moment there might be an unforeseen change in the weather that would necessitate them storing the machines for a time. All in all the spring business bids fair to be a record one. And the motor vehicle will be more prominent than ever in the city of Lowell and elsewhere.

With the Local Dealers

Mr. E. E. Smith, of Market street, agent of the International motor trucks, has taken the agency for the Alco truck which is a very heavy vehicle with great capacity. The two trucks which Mr. Smith now sells are the two extremes of motor delivery machines. Both are greatly in demand and Mr. Smith reports business as being exceedingly good.

Last week Harry Pitts of the Pitts Auto Supply company sent in an order for 100 Ajax shoes. Today he received a bill of lading for 78, a little over ¾ of his order and a letter explaining that owing to the great demand for these tires, the company could not at that time send the full number required. They stated, however, that they would fill the balance of his order at an early date. It is surely evident that business with this concern is rushing and we are informed that Mr. Pitts is holding up his end right here in Lowell. Mr. Pitts has a large supply business here and it is increasing rapidly.

In the Lowell Automobile company, the sale of cars is beginning to grow even more and the two well known demonstrators, Milo Hale and Danny O'Day are kept continually busy showing prospective purchasers the merits of their cars. This company has an especially attractive show window which attracts unlimited attention and admiration on the part of many. Their machine shop and general garage and work room are spacious and business with these dealers is brisk.

Mr. Rochette of the Lowell Motor Mart, agent of the Ford cars, has made many sales during the past week for spring delivery.

Mr. Marin is busy with his establishment which has the appearance of being new, after the disastrous fire of a few weeks ago. Mr. Marin is making many sales of the Krit car of which he recently took the agency of Lowell.

The Reo car handled by Mr. George White, whose establishment is in Middlesex street is proving popular and Mr. White is confident that this coming season will be a record one for his business.

The Chauffeurs' Federation

It would be grossly neglectful not to make some mention of the Chauffeurs' federation and its activity in this city. The meeting and smoke talk of this organization held recently shows an earnestness and a progress that is a good thing for the city as well as for automobilists. The addresses which were attentively listened to by the officers and city officials were most instructive and beneficial and were of interest to the gathering. There is no doubt but that the Chauffeurs' federation in this city is destined to thrive and rightly so. "Success to them."

The Boston Auto Show

The dealers in automobiles and motorcycles will attend the Boston show on next Saturday and during the next week as will many others who are not dealers or agents, but merely enthusiasts. All in all the delegation of people from Lowell to this exhibit will be an unusually large one and the event will be a great factor in aiding some prospective purchasers to select the car which they will afterwards make their own.

Dayton Airless Tire Co.

The phenomenal growth of the business of the Dayton Airless Tire company, has made imperative their seeking larger quarters, and they have just signed a lease for the store and basement at 589 Boylston street. The ground floor, formerly occupied by the J. S. Harrington Co. will be used as a show-room and salesroom and the basement will be used for stock and torage.

Manager E. C. Newcomb says, "We have the only logical successor to the pneumatic tire. If you doubt it, ask a pneumatic man and hear him knock. The Dayton airless tire cannot blow out, a puncture will not hurt it, and our guarantee is 5000 to 8000 miles, according to weight of car. It rides as easy and looks the same as a pneumatic. Investigation of its merits will convince you. We invite the public to investigate the merits of the Dayton airless tire and to test the resiliency of the same by riding in our demonstrating car."

Auto Cars In Boston

That Boston will retain its premiership in auto shows is evidenced from the fact that even at this early date more makes of cars have been entered than in the combined shows in New York at the Madison Square Garden and Grand Central palaces.

The interest, too, seems to be on the increase. While many lines of business are affected by the moderate weather during the past winter, it has had an opposite effect on the automobile industry. People who in the past have put their cars in storage have, owing to the mild weather, run their autos practically all winter, which has benefited the traffic materially.

Upwards of 100 makes of cars will be shown in the pleasure car section which opens on Saturday evening, March 8th. Never before has such a comprehensive and varied line been shown in Boston, both from a standpoint and finish as well.

As regards the decorative standpoint it may safely be promised that no trade show in the country will have ever had such a beautiful setting as is promised for the coming one. A precedent has been established. Boston is recognized as the leading show in the country in this respect as well as in others, and Manager Campbell has been obliged to extend himself this year to live up to his slogan of "Bigger and Better." That he has succeeded will be shown when the doors are opened on Saturday evening, March 8th.

Geo. R. Dana & Son recently had orders for the "51" roadster declined by the Hudson Motor Car Co. as the product was entirely sold. This company has oversold their production every year since their organization and while this year their capacity is thousands of cars greater than in past years, a shortage is almost sure on all makes. This surely speaks well for the popularity of the car.

Mr. M. S. Feindel, who has the agency for the Oakland at his attractive salesroom in Davis square, finds the demand for that particular make of car is greatly increasing and it is certain that the coming spring will find a large number added to the list of those already owned and driven by Lowell people. In the past week or two, Mr. Feindel has made several sales and has on his list, several prospective buyers.

Recently an owner of a Stevens-Duryea "Six" when told by a friend of a compliment he had heard on the appearance of his car, remarked that he liked compliments, but that his ideas of his car's appearance were well established and that the action of the car, too, had won the greatest admiration of both himself and family.

AUCTION BIG PLANT

Public Sale of E. R. Thomas Motor Car Company Opens at Buffalo, N. Y., on March 17—Continues Five Days

From the local office of J. E. Conant & Co., auctioneers, comes the news of the unrestricted sale at public auction of the plant of the E. R. Thomas Motor Car Co., minus the real estate, at Buffalo, N. Y., beginning on Monday, March 17, and continuing for a period of five or six days. The property will be sold in lots to suit the purchasers and there are approximately 6000 of these lots. The sale is perhaps one of the greatest of its kind ever held and will include all manner of tools, machinery and miscellaneous mechanical equipment. Thus far the amount of money expended in newspaper and other forms of advertising of this sale reached about $2000.

THE RECKLESS DRIVER

Enormous List of Accidents Which Result

In an article in the current issue of Motor Print, Charles Johnson declares that most motorists lost sight of the real mission of the automobile warning signal. Describing conditions in Los Angeles and lower California—a locality selected as typical because of the large number of automobiles in use—Mr. Johnson says:

"I doubt if in ten per cent of the signaling by motorists that came under my observation there was evidence of the proper understanding of what the auto horn is for.

"Instead of giving a proper note at a crossing, I have frequently observed that the Los Angeles motorist does not sound his signal at all, but often immediately begins to sound it as soon as he passes one crossing on his way to the crossing a block beyond. Theoretically he does this to give ample warning to the individual at the farther crossing. Practically, what he should do is to sound the note a quarter of a block from the crossing, which has a dual effect; it causes the pedestrian who is about to step into the street to halt, and gives the pedestrian in the roadway ample time to get out of the way. If the horn is blown at the farther end of the block and remains silent when near the crossing, the pedestrian has no means of knowing of the immediate proximity of the machine.

"For the six months ending July 1st, 1912, there were 1135 automobile accidents in Los Angeles in which 659 persons were injured. Of these 590 were struck or run over by machines. There were 429 accidents at crossings and 124 between crossings. The city council has now passed an ordinance defining a proper warning signal as an 'abrupt note, sufficiently loud to be heard above the noise of traffic and restricting the use of this to its true function; as a warning of danger. Another ordinance is being urged which will prohibit pedestrians from crossing the street at the intersection of streets where traffic officers are stationed except under the direction of the latter.

"My own careful study of the warning signal problem leads me to the conclusion that there is only one proper method of procedure. The first step in this direction is the framing of a law which defines within limits of reasonable elasticity the sound that constitutes an adequate warning signal, the prohibition of the use of such signal other than as a warning of danger, and the prompt punishment of the noise maker who uses a danger signal as a play-toy. Such a law must not prohibit, but must regulate. The police power of no city is sufficient to enable the municipality to prohibit the use of any public safety device within reason. The city does possess the power of regulation, which enables it to prevent any article or product being transformed into a nuisance, but regulation does not carry with it the power of prohibition in such instances. Then, when a city has the proper law, the duty devolves upon the law-abiding, far-minded motorist to unite in the matter of educating themselves and others as to the proper use of the automobile warning signal. Once a right law is created, once motorists and non-motorists understand aright the significance of the warning signal, once punishment is known to follow, sure and swift, upon the misuse of the warning signal, then the accident roll will be reduced to a minimum. The same situation as that described above exists in almost every city in the United States, although in less degree than in Los Angeles where all classes use the motor car."

TWINS BORN ON TRAIN

Mother on Way to N. Y. From Northern Maine

NEW HAVEN, March 4.—While returning on a Boston express to her home in Flatbush, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, from a trip to Aroostook, Me., Mrs. Arthur B. O'Reilly gave birth to twins just as the train was rolling into this city a few minutes before noon. Mrs. O'Reilly notified her maid, who, through the porter, summoned two physicians who were traveling on the train, Dr. James B. Mansfield of Passaic, N. J., and Henry Blossom of Boston.

The car was virtually unoccupied at the time and the three other passengers went into the forward car at the physicians' request.

While the train was waiting in this city Dr. Mansfield stepped off and wired to the Roosevelt hospital in New York city for an ambulance to be ready at the Grand Central terminal, but he said he didn't believe it would be necessary.

A telegram was also sent to the twins' father, Arthur B. O'Reilly, who is a stock broker, with offices in the St. James building, 25th street and Broadway, New York, notifying him of the occurrence.

To Lead Donkey 3500 Miles

PORTLAND, Me., March 4.—Leading a donkey and intending to walk from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., B. H. Anderson, former general secretary of the Butler, Pa., chamber of commerce, will leave this city this noon on a hike across the country in fulfillment of the terms of a bet made on the presidential election.

Anderson was an admirer of Colonel Roosevelt, having been a page in the national house of representatives in 1901, and laid a wager on his election as the progressive candidate for president.

The distance he will lead the donkey is estimated at 3500 miles and he expects to complete the journey in eight months. He must call at the White House and greet the new president, also call on the governor of every state through which he passes.

HELP WANTED IN LOWELL

And Furnished By the Help of Lowell People.

Those who suffer with kidney backache, urinary ills or any little kidney or bladder disorder, want kidney help. Who can better advise than some Lowell resident, who has also suffered, but has had relief. Lowell people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's one case and there are many others.

Samuel Clark, 436 Worthen St., Lowell, Mass., says: "For over six years I have enjoyed freedom from kidney trouble, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. The pains through my back were almost unbearable and on one occasion I was laid up for two weeks. The doctor's medicine did not help me and I was led to begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. In a few days after I began taking them, I was able to return to work and three boxes cured me."

THREE POINT SUPPORT—UNIT POWER PLANT

Stevens-Duryea

THREE-POINT SUPPORT

For years we didn't realize all that the Three-Point Support accomplishes. What we knew, however, amply justified its adoption: keeps the mechanism in alignment, saves power, avoids wear and repairs, keeps the car young.

Then a man came along who saw something even more important. He said: "It dampens the lurch of your engine, and keeps it away from the passengers. Greater comfort."

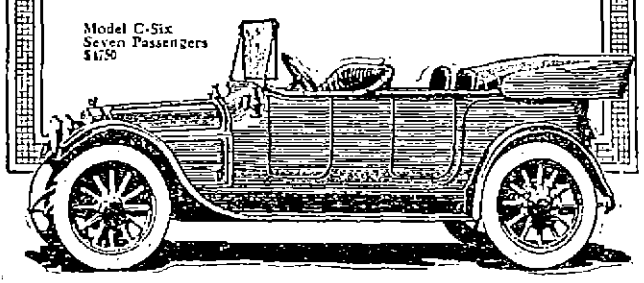

That's true, and largely accounts for the extraordinary ease of riding in a Stevens-Duryea.

MOTORCYCLES

The year 1913 will be a "large" year for motor cycles. Just as popular as was the "bike" five or six years ago, will the motorcycle become in 1913.

And why? Mainly because the EXCELSIOR GRIP CONTROL CLUTCH has eliminated from the motor cycle that one last objectionable feature—uncertainty of control. With the Excelsior you can control your machine through TRAFFIC or SLIPPERY PAVEMENT with both hands on the bars, instead of slipping the clutch with one hand and steering with the other.

This is but one feature of the EXCELSIOR that makes it the BEST MOTOR CYCLE BUILT. Our beautiful ART CATALOGUE describes them all. It is free for the asking.

THE INAUGURAL

No political speech of recent years has been of greater interest than the inaugural address of President Wilson. The complete change in national politics leading up to his election, and the momentous issues involved, give what he says at his inauguration a peculiar significance. To those who have followed him in his recent campaign speeches there is little that is new, but in the grand simplicity of this address he condenses in small compass all his theories and philosophies, and states the problems and the cure as he sees them.

In the opening of his address the president dwells on the great change that has swept over the nation, by which the entire government has become democratic. As the reason for this he points out that a spiritual reawakening has taken place in the people, and the veils of political custom having been removed, all the old idealism of the nation shines out in its former splendor. "Some old things," says President Wilson, "with which we had grown familiar and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister."

In this awakened idealism the people now see that great evils have grown up with the good, as tares among the wheat, and that "though our life contains every great thing and contains it in rich abundance," in the passing of time, "much fine gold has been corroded." He then dwells on the terrible waste by which we have squandered the bounties of nature, and gone on vaunting of our industrial prosperity, heedless of the great cost. Not only have we wasted the bounties of nature but we have also squandered the lives and energies of millions of our people in the mad rush for wealth. Well may the president say:

"The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat."

But now we have come to the sober second thought. The people now no longer heedless but aware of the cost of soulless prosperity, have determined to start a great revolution—a bloodless revolution, not of innovation but of restoration. The president is very insistent on this fact that there is to be nothing radical in his policies, but a reorganization, and a gradual but general getting back to the early constitution with its principles of justice and patriotism as shown, when the good of the nation was everywhere held above the selfish gain of the individual. These words, though brief, have prophetic significance:

"We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon; and step by step we shall make it what it should be."

Among the specific reforms advocated by President Wilson are: The tariff, which now makes the government an instrument of the private interests, a banking and currency system adequate to the needs of the times, an industrial system which will not limit the opportunities of labor or individual effort, a better development of our agricultural possibilities, and finally, conservation of our natural resources.

In summing up, the tone of the president is lofty, and tinged with a great and rare reverence and sincerity. He calls not only on his party but on all the people to support him in the great problems with which he is confronted. He declares that his election is not merely a triumph of party but a triumph of humanity. In one grand sweep he outlines the needs of the times and pleads for co-operation in these inspiring words:

"The task which we face during this new age of right and opportunity sweeps across our heart-strings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the force and the brother are one. I summon all honest men, all patriots, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me."

SWEATSHOPS

During the cap makers' strike which is still in part unsettled, the fact was brought out that a system of "home work" had been tolerated for years by which in New York city alone, seventy-five per cent. of all the manufacturing done in the garment industry is done in the wretched overcrowded homes of the toilers. What is true of New York is also true, though in a lesser degree, of all our principal cities. One of the strikers' demands was the abolition of this inherent iniquity of sweated labor.

Every little while the intolerable conditions that surround the workers in some of the New York sweatshops are brought out by a terrible conflagration or some such accident, that reveals their unsanitary, overcrowded, and dangerous condition, but though the picture is often revolting the terrible system of the home industry is still more pitiable and intolerable. Here, for the poor there is no relaxation. In the confines of stuffy tenements they are always surrounded by the litter of their labors. Being beyond the limits of legal supervision there are no regulations governing their long hours of toil or the still more terrible curse of child labor. There is nothing but monotonous work for a pittance that is often inadequate to supply their daily needs. Besides these very positive evils, the system also tends to keep down the scale of wages in the factories where, by arbitration and unity of effort they could better conditions were it not for the evils of the sweatshops.

This branch of the garment trade has also another aspect worth considering. For the welfare of the general public it is not right that the markets should be flooded with garments which, because of the conditions surrounding their manufacture may be a very great menace to health. Undoubtedly the germ laden atmosphere of the one or two foul rooms that comprise the homes of some of the workers is a hot bed of disease. It is not at all a pleasant fact to contemplate but in this age when the spreading of infection is so generally preached and understood it is well not to overlook any of the avenues of possible contagion, and here surely is a prolific source of danger.

For the mutual benefit then of the wretched toiler and the general public this pernicious system of home work should be abolished. At the machines and benches of factories and shops the law can superintend garment manufacture, and in time regulate to its advantage, but in the congested tenements the most dreadful evils may prevail, sapping the vitality of the unfortunate workers and endangering the public health. If the contractors cannot agree on means by which this branch of the industry may be eliminated, the matter should be settled by the higher authorities in such a way as to make its continuance impossible.

DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATIONS

The business of making the municipal appropriations was conducted at the recent municipal council meeting in an energetic and sensible manner that points to the advantage of the new charter in this respect. With one exception there seemed to be general harmony and satisfaction among the commissioners, and each one not only expressed satisfaction at his particular appropriation, but also showed that co-operation rather than jealous rivalry exists in that body. The commissioners seemed rather to consider how much was really needed than how much they would get.

It is evident that in such an undertaking as the complicated business of conducting the affairs of a great city, efficiency and scientific management are not the growth of a day. In the old order of things we had been so long subjected to petty politics and a disregard for economy that until the temper of the public changes it is inevitable that some influences of the former mismanagement will be felt. At the same time, there is evidenced at present a feeling of confidence in the new form of government such as has not been manifested since its adoption, and everything augurs well for an improved condition of municipal affairs.

Though a desire for economy might in some cases result in measures that would bring to a commissioner some temporary criticism and personal dislike, the general fair-mindedness of the great mass of the people may ultimately be depended upon to support all progressive measures. We may at least be grateful that the appropriations do not seem excessive when compared with the record of last year. It is now incumbent upon the commissioners to live within the amounts given them as the charter provides a penalty and even imprisonment for spending more than the amount appropriated.

If the aim of the commissioners is a desire to run the affairs of the city with the same conscientiousness with which they would manage their own private concerns, they will see many ways in which they can save money during the coming year; they will profit by former experiments and mistakes; they will demonstrate still more strongly that we have at last a form of government which has for its primary object the faithful service of all the people.

WILLIAM H. TAFT

Now when the eyes of the entire country are on the incoming president it may be well not to forget entirely some of the qualities that endeared his predecessor to the people. That President Taft is respected by the public as a whole is undoubted. Even those who differed from him in political belief and disagree with his policies have a great personal regard for him. He was recently described and with a great degree of accuracy as "the best liked and worst licked president we have ever had." It was very unfortunate for President Taft that his election savored so much of patronage and dictation from his former friend, Theodore Roosevelt. He took the reins of government at a time of great national unrest when the people were stirred up by the wild threats and promises of his predecessor, many of which were not made sincerely and which were left to President Taft for fulfillment. Roosevelt sowed the wind, and Taft reaped the whirlwind.

It cannot be denied that President Taft was animated at all times by sincerity of purpose and moderation. Neither was he lacking in courage, but by tactful conservatism he kept his head in all critical situations and so preserved the peace of the country. His judicial appointments are of a high order, and all of his administration has been very business-like. He turns over the affairs of government to his successor in far better condition than when he received them. It is probable that history will give a much higher place to President Taft as lawmaker and administrator than his recent overwhelming defeat portends. He was in a great measure the victim of circumstances.

ALICE AND MAY

Have you noticed the new styles in men's clothing, May?

Yes, Alice. Aren't they awful? I walked to work this morning, down Merrimack street, behind a young fellow, who had on the dearest little belted overcoat you ever saw, while his trousers—talk about bobble skirts,—there never was one as tight as they were. I don't see how he got into them.

I don't understand why men should ridicule women for wearing bobble skirts when they are going in for these new bean-pole effects. A bobble skirt on a thin woman is all right, but bobble trousers on thin men are perfectly,—well, there isn't any word that quite describes it.

If men's coats aren't to have any stiffening or padding, Alice, there will be some startling revelations when the men appear in their new spring suits on Easter Sunday.

Do you suppose that men are such slaves to fashion, May, that they will sacrifice their reputations for having manly shoulders and athletic builds, and come out as attenuated creatures, in clingy raiment that displays their pretty sloping shoulders and cute little waists. And while the men are planning this kind of clothes, the women are having their new dresses draped, gathered and puffed, to make themselves look as clumsy and stout as possible.

It must be that the men follow the women's fashion, but are always one season behind. It's queer, too, that men should want to be hobbled, after the rumpus they made because women adopted that style. They seemed to think that hobbles weren't at all nice, and they even said that tight skirts hurt trade, on account of the small amount of cloth it took to make them. And now the fickle creatures are going to do the same thing themselves.

It will be the women's turn to laugh now, May. Won't the skinny men look funny? When you see one of them ahead of you, you won't know whether he is the shadow of the nearest lamp-post, or not. I suppose the taller they are, the tighter their clothes will be; at least that's what the women did.

But how about the fat ones, Alice? I think they will look even worse. I thought being a tailor meant making all men look alike—square and straight up and down,—stuffing out the bony places, filling in the thin spots and toning down the excessive avoirdupois. But if men are to appear in public with their true lines and curves, as the case may be, I don't see why their wives can't make their clothes, and save the tailor's bill. Almost any woman that sews, can fit herself to perfection, and she would probably be able to make her husband look thoroughly chic and charming.

I imagine, May, that the members of the Fat Men's club, will recollect how their stout sisters looked when hobbled, and will stick to the good old reliable style, that permit a man to take a deep breath, without danger of bursting more than a button off his vest.

The overcoats worn this winter were advance bobble styles, I suppose, Alice. I don't understand why a man should want to be belted in—surely a small waist isn't a masculine social asset.

I wonder if the men will ever be interested enough in their figures, to start a contest like that Venus De Milo one, that was held in Boston.

They might do that, May. You never can tell. They would probably make it an Apollo contest, though I can't remember ever seeing any statues of those old Greek gods, that could be called skinny.

Venus was too much inclined to embonpoint, May, or in other words, she was rather stout. Won't it seem queer though, to be describing men as tall and willowy, or short and plump? The manly hero in fiction will no longer press the trembling heroine to his manly bosom, and embrace her with his manly arms. Instead, the graceful and willowy Leander will blushingly permit his Mary Ann to tenderly take his shrinking form in her strong arms, and murmur sweet nothings in his dainty ears.

That is provided, Alice, he is not a member of the new Fat Men's club.

That advertisement which says, "Nobody loves a fat man" had better be changed to "Nobody loves a thin man in a clingy suit." But look at that man—the one directly in front of us, May. Doesn't he look a sight in that new suit?

Seen and Heard

It is very strange, but very true, that the daily all-over bath is often omitted during cold weather under the impression that it is not needed except when the temperature is high. The contrary is the truth; in winter one wears thicker underclothing, as well as heavy wraps; the skin is consequently in a state of constant action and the deposit from the pores greater than in summer when perspiration and cooler clothing permits of its dissipation.

A cold bath is not an absolute necessity; on the contrary, there are many who cannot take it without injury, and the best way to find out is to make the experiment. If, after a bath, there is a feeling of chilliness, the bath has been the wrong temperature; there should be a glow all over the body and a feeling of refreshment. To make a "plunge" on a cold morning into icy water is a great strain on the heart, and that organ may resent it immediately.

An Indian guide whose services were retained by some wealthy young easterners desirous of hunting in the northwest evidently took them to be the greenest of tenderfoots, since he undertook to chat them with a recital something as follows:

"It was my first grizzly, so I was mighty proud to kill him in a hand-to-hand struggle. We started to fight about sunrise. When he finally gave up the ghost, the sun was going down."

At this point the guide paused to note the effect of his story. Not a word was said by the easterners, so the guide added very slowly, "for the second time."

"I gather, then," said one young gentleman, a dapper little Bostonian, "that it required a period of two days to enable you to dispose of that grizzly."

"Two days and a night," said the guide, with a grin. "That grizzly died mighty hard."

"Choked to death?" asked the Bostonian.

"Yes, sir," said the guide.

"Pardon me," continued the Hubbite, "but what did you try to get him to swallow?"

Provost Hawkins of Oriel college, Oxford, declares the Rt. Hon. W. G. F. Russell in "Edward King, 60th Bishop of Lincoln," was never happy unless he could find some fault in the undergraduates who came before him.

Among other things, the record of chapel attendance was always on his table, and referred to for praise or blame. One day when King, who was an Oriel man, and who seemed to have a happy combination of George Herbert and Saint Francis de Sales, was before him, the provost consulted the record.

"I observe, Mr. King," said he, "that you have never missed a single chapel, morning or evening, during the whole term."

He paused, but instead of a word of praise, which might reasonably have been expected, he continued severely.

"I must warn you, Mr. King, that even too regular attendance at chapel may degenerate into formalism."

CURFEW MUST NOT RING TONIGHT

(Published by Request)

England's sun was slowly setting o'er the hills so far away,
Filling all the land with beauty at the close of one sad day,
And the last rays kissed the foreheads of a man and maiden fair,
He with footsteps slow and weary, she with sunny floating hair,
He with bowed head, sad and thoughtful; she with lips so cold and white,
Struggling to keep back the murmur—"Curfew must not ring tonight!"

"Sexton," Bessie's white lips faltered, pointing to the prison old,
With its walls so tall and gloomy, walls so dark and damp and cold,
"I've a lover in this prison doomed this very night to die,
At the ringing of the curfew, and no earthly help is nigh!
Cromwell will not come till sunset," and her face grew strangely white
As she spoke in husky whispers—"Curfew must not ring tonight."

"Bessie," calmly spoke the sexton—every word pierced her young heart
Like the piercing of an arrow, like a deadly poisoned dart—
"Long, long years I've rung the curfew from that gloomy shadowed tower;
Every evening just at sunset, it has told the twilight hour.
I have done my duty ever, tried to do it just and right,
Now I'm old, I still must do it; curfew, it must ring tonight!"

Wild her eyes and pale her features, stern and white her thoughtful brow,
And within her secret bosom Bessie made a solemn vow.
She had listened while the judges read, without a tear or sigh,
"At the ringing of the curfew Basil Underwood must die."
And her breath came fast and faster, and her eyes grew large and bright;
In an undertone she murmured: "Curfew must not ring tonight."

She with quick steps bounded forward, sprang within the old church door.
Not a moment paused the maiden, but with eye and cheek aglow
Mounted up the gloomy tower, where the bell swung to and fro.
As she climbed the dusty ladder, on which fell no ray of light—
Up and up, her white lips saying, "Curfew must not ring tonight."

She has reached the topmost ladder; o'er her hangs the great dark bell:
Awful is the gloom beneath her, like the pathway down to hell!
Lo! the ponderous tongue is swinging, 'tis the hour of curfew now,
And the sight has chilled her bosom, stopped her breath and paled her brow.
Shall she let it ring? No, never! Her eyes flash with sudden light,
And she springs and grasps it firmly—"Curfew shall not ring tonight."

Out she swung—far out; the city seemed a speck of light below;
There 'twixt heaven and earth suspended, as the bell swung to and fro,
And the sexton at the bell rope, old and deaf, heard not the bell!
But he thought it still was ringing fair young Basil's funeral knell.
Still the maiden clung more firmly, and with trembling lips and white,
Said to hush her heart's wild beating: "Curfew shall not ring tonight!"

It was o'er; the bell ceased swaying, and the maiden stepped once more Firmly on the damp old ladder, where for hundred years before
Human foot had not been planted. The brave deed that she had done
Should be told long ages after; as the rays of setting sun
Light the sky with golden beauty, aged sires with heads of white,
Tell the children why the curfew did not ring that one sad night.

O'er the distant hills comes Cromwell, Bessie sees him and her brow,
Full of hope and full of gladness, has no anxious traces now.
At his foot she tells her story, shows her hands all bruised and torn,
And her face, so sweet and pleading, yet with sorrow, pale and worn, Touched his heart with sudden pity, lit his eye with misty light.
"Go! Your lover lives," said Cromwell; "Curfew shall not ring tonight."

Wide they flung the massive portals, led the prisoner forth to die.
All his bright young life before him, 'neath the darkening English sky.
Bessie came with flying footsteps, eyes aglow with love light sweet;
Kneeling on the turf beside him, laid his pardon at his feet.
In his brave, strong arms he clasped her, kissed her face upturned and white, Whispered: "Darling, you have saved me.

Best Known Cough Remedy

For forty-three years Dr. King's New Discovery has been known throughout the world as the most reliable cough remedy. Over three million bottles were used last year. Isn't this proof? It will get rid of your cough, or we will refund your money. J. J. Owens, of Allendale, S. C., writes the way hundreds of others have done: "After twenty years, I find that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds that I have ever used." For coughs or colds and all throat and lung troubles, it has no equal. 50c and $1.00 at A. W. Dows & Co.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

"Pardon Trust"

Governor Sulzer of New York can not push that alleged "pardon trust" too vigorously, no matter who may be involved. The offence is rank, and penitentiary sentences ought to be the fate of every grafter, professional or layman, upon whom guilt can be fastened.

Taft and the Trusts

It will be one of the satisfactions of President Taft that it was under his administration that the first successful efforts to condemn breakers of the anti-trust law to jail was accomplished. Twenty-nine officials of the National Cash Register company get a sentence of a year each in jail. The president of the company and another officer will not only spend the year behind the bars, but each will pay a fine of five thousand dollars. The defendants were found guilty for suppressing competition by unfair methods, bribing employes of their competitors and also for bribing agents of transportation companies.

It is to the credit of the Taft administration that, without any fuss or feathers, surely and steadily, the laws of the country have been vigorously prosecuted against violators, and results have been obtained. If during the next four years it is increasingly easy for convictions of violation of the anti-trust laws the country will have Taft and his advisers to thank for laying such splendid foundation for the larger results that ought and doubtless will be secured.

How Stamps Are Made

Providence Tribune: An interesting example of what this sort of modern efficiency means is a machine which prints, gums and perforates twelve thousand postage stamps a minute. Figuring on an eight-hour day this is a production of five million, seven hundred and sixty thousand two-cent stamps, worth $115,200, as a day's work for the two operators required on the machine. The stamps are shot out—there is no other way to express it—at the rate of seventy feet a minute. This means over six miles of postage stamps a day.

Change in Japan

Portland Express: Japan is burdened with debt incurred during the last war with Russia. The taxes under which the people groan are a terrible problem before the country. The land is in revolt against them. On the day of Katsura's fall there was rioting and bloodshed in the streets of Tokio. The quarrel is much more than a party brawl; it is a vital difference between the people and their governors. Japan has not been westernized in vain. Her people are beginning to assert themselves. And they are asserting themselves unmistakably for peace.

Mexico's Lesson

Woonsocket Call: The Mexican is forging ahead, but he has yet only a dim comprehension of the solemnity of finality of the ballot. He accepts its dictates with reservation. Usually he sanctions a ruler with the franchise after that individual has rendered himself impregnable by his control of the army.

The army and real republican political economy never, never, never mix. Mexico hasn't found that fact out yet. She is young in liberty. But in time she will learn.

Harmony in Color

Brockton Times: A negro woman's suffrage organization has been refused a place in the Washington parade. Evidently the colored woman, like the United States flag, didn't seem to fit well in the decorative scheme of the pageant.

City Trees

Lynn News: The improvement of a city through the medium of trees is commendable. The city without trees is sadly lacking in beauty. Every city which has a desire to add to its attractions will not disregard the importance of parks and tree growth. The city of Lynn is fortunate in having an association which has for its aim a systematic encouragement of this development. The forestry association should receive the endorsement of all the people, and this endorsement should not be perfunctory but practical.

Silence Strikes

Chicago Record-Herald: The newest weapon of labor in its contest with capital is the "silence" strike. It is amiable, inoffensive and invites, as it practices, no violence. Such a strike has been tried by 15,000 garment workers in Philadelphia who baffled the police entirely by parading mutely about the plant of the manufacturers.

Three leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World offered their services, but the strikers quietly but firmly rejected the offer. The English suffragists were urged by some of their leaders to substitute thought waves for the firebrand and much oratory. The advice was not heeded, and so it remains for the Philadelphia strikers to test the efficiency of this new method.

BEDFORD TOWN MEETING

Chief of Police Kelley's Party Wins Over Faction Headed by Rev. David C. Torrey

The voters of the town of Bedford turned out yesterday in large numbers and the result was some very close contests. Selectman Immanual Pfeiffer was reelected, defeating his opponent, David C. Cutler, by one vote, the final being 116 to 115. Pfeiffer was believed to represent Chief E. P. Kelly's party in that town, while Cutler was for the party led by Rev. David C. Torrey.

The town was thrown into the license column for the first time in 27 years, the vote being 125 yes, to 98 no. Mr. Kelly was also elected town constable by the vote of 153 to 83. There were no other contests.

The business of the town warrant will be taken up on Wednesday evening.

LOWELL CEMETERY PROPRIETORS

Held Annual Meeting and Elected Trustees for 3 Years—Tribute to Late Major Stott

At the annual meeting of the proprietors of the Lowell cemetery held last night in the banking rooms of the Middlesex Safe Deposit and Trust Co., the following were elected to serve as trustees for a term of three years, ending March, 1916: Larkin T. Trull, Albert Pindar, Harry K. Boardman and Frederic A. Fisher. The vote represented 88 lots in person or by proxy.

Hon. Charles L. Lilley, the president of the association, called the meeting to order and the first business was the reading of the records of the last meeting and the reports of the trustees and treasurer.

After the election of the trustees it was voted that they be authorized and requested to apply to the legislature as much time as might be found convenient, for an act enabling the board of trustees to make such alterations in and amendments to the corporation from time to time as the exigencies and interests of the corporation might require.

It was also voted that the proprietors should authorize the trustees to direct the treasurer to withdraw the sum of $1500 from the reservefund and apply the same to payment of the corporation note of same amount, said obligation being incurred in 1912 for the purpose of rebuilding and strengthening retaining walls and other stone work at the cemetery, and that they should authorize the trustees to direct the treasurer to withdraw from the reserve fund a sum of money annually, to be expended under direction of the trustees for the purpose of relaying, renewing, extending and improving the water service at the cemetery.

The report of the board of trustees was read by Charles L. Knapp and was, in part, as follows:

During the year past two existing vacancies on the board of trustees have been filled by the election of C. Arthur Abbott and Frank Hanchett, the terms of both extending to March, 1914.

Heretofore the exact period of the cemetery fiscal year has not been defined. As a matter of fact it has in recent years been closed about February 20th. Under the by-laws as adopted in annual meeting in 1912, the fiscal year "shall begin on the twentieth day of February." Our previous year terminated at close of February 20th, 1912, hence the period covered by this, the seventy-first annual report, is from February 21st, 1912, to February 19th, inclusive.

Large Sale of Lots

The year has been quite successful as measured by business. The total received from sale of lots is larger than for several years. The total number of new care funds for future maintenance of lots, always an indication of cooperation and interest, is 36, as against a total of 30 the year previous; the total number rather than the amount received being the real test of progress. Never in a single year has so much new monumental work been erected as during 1912. Several pieces of work underway are waiting erection the coming spring. It would seem invidious for us to specialize, hence we but state the fact that as a whole work complete and work actually under way represent an expenditure of many thousands of dollars. This we speak of more especially because it indicates no lessening of interest in the affairs of our corporation. Incidental with some of this monumental work and reconstruction of surroundings was the call upon us for labor requiring an increased working force, shown conclusively in total 1912 expenditure for labor, $9236.20, as against $8,543.14 in 1911. We will not, however, enter upon financial figures of the year, inasmuch as they are most fully set forth in our treasurer's report to the trustees and which you report to the trustees and which you are to consider part of our report. The treasurer's accounts and deductions therefrom and set forth in his report have been audited by qualified accountant as in our case is required by law. The one all-important result, you will discover from the treasurer's report, is the actual reduction of the permanent loan debt by $560, as well as a betterment in total notes and bills payable less available assets by $300, gratifying indeed to your trustees, as it should be to lot owners, accomplishing as we have an unusual amount of work without increasing our debt.

In the spring of 1912 our attention was brought to the need of replacing the retaining wall which overlooks the Concord river near the Lawrence street bridge. We entered upon the work with a view of it being perhaps a week of labor for two men, no more than that. As a matter of fact, we found the greater portion of this wall, built as it was before the Civil war, in a weakened and in places very dangerous condition. Following inspection by experts, it was made plain there was but one thing to do and that to rebuild the wall or a portion of it from its foundations. We did this. Portions not rebuilt were opened and thoroughly coated with cement. We spared no pains and believe we have made thorough work, sufficiently substantial for all time. The wonder is that a dry wall, well built though it was, with the tremendous push that was behind it and near as it was to the railroad tracks and pounding of continual passing, that no accident has occurred. We believe it is very fortunate that the condition of the wall was discovered. This work of rebuilding and strengthening with some other repairs that the stone contractor did cost us $1320. In our opinion this expense should be met by an appropriation from the reserved fund. We recommend that you vote the necessary authority at this meeting.

Cemetery Water Supply

The condition of the water supply at the cemetery is well known to many to all who are frequent visitors. The city water supply was introduced at the Lowell cemetery in 1876 at a cost of $5226.83. This has been added to from year to year, but the original pipes, the most of the present system, have been in the ground 37 years. This pipe should have been renewed years ago. Like all iron pipe of its kind lain at that early period of water works, it has become filled up and is useless and hence the inefficient service. We feel that we should delay its remedy no longer. Our plan is to do a portion of the renewing and extending each year until the supply to all parts of the cemetery is adequate. The reserved fund was created for exactly such special needs. We therefore recommend that at this meeting you vote the required authority to so use money now in reserved fund, naming a reasonable amount that shall be withdrawn and applied each year until the work is complete. We recommend that the sum of $1500 be the amount named for annual appropriation, the treasurer to withdraw such part of the amount named as the board of trustees shall direct.

One other vote we ask of you to pass at this meeting. The purpose of the same is quite clearly set forth in the official call of meeting. We would like to obtain legislation that will enable the board of trustees to change, amend or add to the by-laws of the corporation at any time. It would seem to be reasonably safe for you to take this step. As you are aware the by-laws have been revised recently. We know of no need of changes in contemplation. We believe the desired authority resting with our board of trustees would be an aid in the conduct of the corporation's future business.

The Late Major Stott

It is our duty to refer to the passing of our beloved friend and fellow trustee, "Major Stott, speaking familiarly but reverentially in our designation. We have caused the following tribute, a tribute from lot owners as well as trustees, to become a part of the records of this corporation:

"Hon. Charles A. Stott passed from this life at his home in Lowell, Mass., on Thursday, October 31st, 1912. He was elected a trustee by the proprietors of the Lowell cemetery in March, 1886. In April, 1895, he was elected president of the corporation, succeeding the late Henry H. Wilder and serving in such capacity until March 17, 1911, when, owing to infirmity, he requested that he be permitted to lay down the burden of responsibility. His resignation was received with general regret and accepted only upon his assent to remain upon the board of trustees. Thus, with death, terminates his long and valued services for the good of the Lowell cemetery, a period of nearly twenty-seven years.

"It is almost useless to try successfully to chronicle what twenty-seven years of service in behalf of a corporation means in way of giving particularly our cemetery organization. It means continual sacrifice, a gratuitous giving of the time belonging to one's business. The benefit of one's ability given without reward of any sort save the self-satisfaction of doing good to others and for others less able to do for themselves. Our late associate during his term of service has seen great changes and developments in the cemetery and he is entitled to full share of credit for what has been accomplished. The lot-owners owe him a debt of gratitude, for no one was ever more alert in their interest, no one more willing to try and surmount their individual troubles, also, no one more frequently sought when aid was needed. In our meetings of trustees shall we ever forget the ringing cheer of his voice, the sunshine in his face the atmosphere of loyal friendship that always was about him? Memory will never fail. The dear old major will live with us always.

"Sleep the sleep that knows no breaking,

Barge Ride

Last Saturday afternoon, the members of the Alpha club held a barge ride to Hart pond, South Chelmsford. On the arrival at the pond, a supper was prepared by the members and an informal reception and entertainment held. The following program was rendered:

Songs, Samuel Burt, Arthur Judd, Miss Lilla Bell, Mrs. John Buchanan and Thomas England; duet, Mrs. Clifford Grant and Mrs. George Allan; readings, Mrs. John McCord, Miss Annie Hill and James Allan, Jr.

This was followed by games of various descriptions in which all took part with a vim. The committee in charge consisted of Clifford Grant, Geo. Allan, Allan Buchanan, Samuel Burt and Ben Prescott.

Annual Meeting

There was a large attendance at the annual business meeting of the Lawrence street P. M. church, last night, in the vestry of the church. During the session it was voted to give the new pastor, Rev. J. T. Barlow, elected last night, the sum of $500 and parsonage rent. The following other officers were elected at this meeting:

Moderator, C. W. Moore; clerk, Harry Blowers; treasurer, Thomas Vennard; trustees, Robert Catherwood, Alvah Perkins, David Manning, Jacob Wallace, Arthur Bourdon.

Resolutions expressing appreciation of the efforts of Clerk E. Frank Leith and the retiring pastor, Rev. J. T. Ulsom, were unanimously passed.

BUCKLEY EXONERATED

McDevitt's Charges of Bribery Unfounded

BOSTON, March 4.—The committee on rules, after listening all day to further explanations by Senator John J. McDevitt of Quincy and many explanations about his conduct in this and other cases, exonerated Representative John H. Buckley of Dorchester, who was named by the Quincy senator as the man who had approached him with suggestions which led McDevitt to make charges of bribery.

Withdraws Charges

McDevitt withdrew his charges of bribery yesterday. He said that he did not believe Buckley tried to bribe him. He reiterated the statement that Buckley had talked about $300.

Buckley, who confronted McDevitt, declared that he had never suggested any sum of money and had never tried to bribe or to suggest bribery to McDevitt.

Feeling against the Quincy senator ran high yesterday because of his charges which were supplemented by vague and contradictory statements.

There was open talk in the rules committee, which made a statement of belief in the complete innocence of Buckley, that McDevitt ought to be expelled from the senate as being completely irresponsible.

The expulsion of McDevitt would, however, rest with the senate members. The suggestion of expulsion came from members of McDevitt's own party. It was stated last night that no action like this would be taken unless the democratic delegation in the senate were practically unanimous in favor of it.

Body in Charge of Parade March 29 Held Weekly Session—Mayor Fitz and Others to Take Part

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the parade of the Irish Catholic societies on March 29 held a largely attended meeting last evening in the reception room of Hibernian hall and discussed important matters relative to the parade. Chairman McMannon presided and Mr. Frank Kierce was chosen as secretary pro tem in the absence of Mr. Donoghue, who is attending the inauguration at Washington.

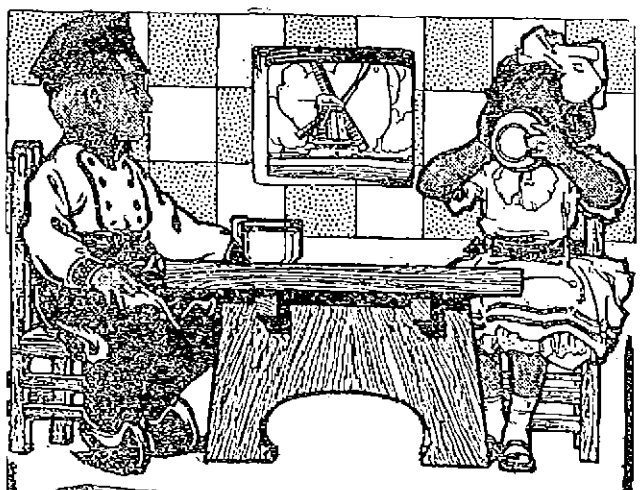

It was decided to send invitations to all the Catholic societies to take part, regardless of their nationality, in order that they might join with the others in paying their respects to the cardinal who will be present to review the procession. An invitation was also extended to the High school regiment to participate.

Mr. John H. Harrington, proprietor of the Lowell Sun, sent a donation of $100 to the committee to aid them in their work.

Letters were received and read from His Honor Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, Mayor Barry of Cambridge, and Mayor Duane of Waltham, stating that they will be present on the day of the parade.

Brother McCann reported that the A. O. H. of Manchester, N. H. will be present and the chairman reported that Andover societies and the Hibernians and the cadets of Lawrence will participate.

Confronted With Two Outstanding Annual Supply Bills—Clark in Chair Twenty Hours

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Congress, upon reassembling for its last day was confronted with only two outstanding annual supply bills, general deficiency and Indian appropriation. All the other appropriation measures, whose delay had aroused the leaders in both houses had been agreed upon in conference and put through both houses. The deficiency bill was hung up in conference. The Indian bill was marking time in the senate when the two houses, still in the fiction of the legislative day of Saturday, recessed from shortly after four this morning until 9.30 o'clock, following a continuous all day session.

The night session lacked the spectacular features of some of its predecessors in the dying hours of a congress but verbal bouquets thrown generously from the democratic and republican sides and personalities served to enliven the proceedings. Rep. Heflin of Alabama had been counted upon to drone a ramp meeting song. Tilson of Connecticut had been expected to spring an original poem on the "quack; quack of the lame ducks," but the festival of song and humor was side-tracked.

Speaker Clark had sat on the rostrum almost 20 hours continuously. Republican Leader Mann and Democratic Leader Underwood remained at their posts; Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee was continuously in conference over the supply bills or piloting them through the house. Up in the gallery there was a remnant of the crowd that had surged in during most of the night.

Requests to extend remarks in the congressional record, a time-honored privilege became so frequent that at 3 a. m. Rep. Akin of New York asked unanimous consent of the house to extend his remarks on all subjects.

There were several personal issues raised during the early hours today. Rep. Austin made an urgent plea for a $200,000 appropriation for the Knoxville exposition and exclaimed that he had to get the appropriation or his constituents would "crucify" him. Former Speaker Cannon denounced the sundry civil bill and declared the president should not approve it because of the conference acceptance of the provision exempting labor unions from the applicability of the $296,000 of funds appropriated to enforce the anti-trust laws.

Mr. Cannon contended that was class legislation.

The senate finally agreed to the conference report on the general deficiency bill, thus disposing of that measure.

The Indian appropriation bill remained the only measure to be disposed of but Senator Fall declined to allow the senate to accept the conference report.

Speaker Clark appointed a committee consisting of Reps. Underwood of Alabama, Sparkman of Florida and McCall of Massachusetts to notify the president that the house was ready to adjourn.

The house also later agreed to take up the report on the general deficiency bill, leaving the Indian bill the only measure not finally disposed of by the house.

Applause came from the crowds near the entrance of the capitol door as former Speaker Cannon emerged and swelled into a larger volume as William J. Bryan came forward with the other guests comprising the membership of President Wilson's cabinet.

Governor Fielder, successor to President-elect Wilson as governor of New Jersey, came out to the stand with Senator Martin.

Mr. Bryan, Mr. McAdoo, Mr. Redfield, Rep. Burleson, Mr. Daniels, Franklin K. Lane, Rep. Wilson, Prof. Houston and the others of the new cabinet were escorted to seats as the crowd voiced its approval by cheering.

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters took seats close to the square platform at the left. At Mrs. Wilson's request Mrs. Marshall took a seat beside her. The two women walked forward to the rail to look at the crowd. The Wilson girls joined them.

"Isn't it Wonderful?"

"Oh, isn't it wonderful," said Mrs. Wilson, as she looked out over the immense gathering that extended so far that faces were not recognizable.

At 1.29 the last restraint upon the crowd was removed and across the empty space of asphalt came a cheering mass of men and women waving hats, flags and coats upward in the direction of the president-elect. In a moment a dense mob of people touched the very edge of the inaugural stand, the military preserving their places with difficulty. Somebody in the crowd shouted: "Three cheers for Miss Nellie Wilson," and a good natured laugh went up.

"here's Teddy?"

President Taft, who had sat with a good natured smile on his face as the crowd surged about burst into a hearty laugh when some one yelled "Where's Teddy?"

It was 1.34 o'clock when Chief Justice White stepped forward. The party arose and President-elect Wilson raised his hand to take the oath of office. Cheers which greeted the rising fell to a hush as the chief justice repeated the oath to the incoming president.

Mrs. Wilson, seated on a lower level, climbed upon a chair at the edge of the platform and peered up at her husband as he repeated the oath after the chief justice at 1.35 o'clock. In a moment her daughter, Margaret, pulled another chair forward and joined her. A moment later as President Wilson began his inaugural address, Mrs. Marshall joined them and peered over the rail.

Lieut. Commander Rodgers, naval aide at the White House, placed chairs for the other women and they stood on tip toes for a near view of the proceedings.

While President Wilson was delivering his address, the first van load of the Wilson family belongings reached the White House from Princeton. There were seven trunks, 11 suitcases, 11 umbrellas and several walking sticks. There also reached the White House a large cake which graced the Wilson dinner table last evening. It was surmounted by a brown donkey and a purple elephant.

President Wilson's voice at first failed to carry into the crowd, but as he raised it he secured close attention, which he held throughout the reading of his address. Although he had memorized much of the address he adhered closely to the reading of the manuscript.

Hats Thrown Into Air

A burst of cheers greeted the president's declaration: "Our work is a work of restoration," and it swelled into cheers and hats were thrown into the air when he said: "A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the first principles of taxation, and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests."

From time to time as the president spoke the sun peeped from behind the clouds and shed a feeble light on the scene.

Justice, Only Justice

A moment later the crowd voiced its approval in cheers at his declaration that "Justice and only justice shall always be our motto."

A storm of cheers greeted the ending of his speech at 1.54.

William Jennings Bryan was the first man to shake hands with the president. He then shook hands with Mr. Taft. The party then prepared to head the procession back to the White House and this time President Wilson sat on the right hand side of the carriage. The procession to the White House started at 1.57 p. m.

Vice President Marshall returned from the inaugural stand to the senate.

Mrs. Wilson, with other members of the family party, took carriages for the White House.

President Waved Hat

President Wilson passed between cheering throngs on the way back to the White House. The cheering was so constant that he rode most of the way with his hat in his hand. Occasionally in response to a fervid outburst he waved his hat good naturedly and smiled.

At the White House Mr. Taft said good-bye to Mr. Wilson and went to join Mrs. Taft and Mr. Hilles, to leave for Augusta. The inaugural procession, following the presidential party at a slower pace, began to wind from the capitol to the White House and the procession passed in review.

WASHINGTON POLICE MADE ELABORATE PLANS TO HANDLE INAUGURAL CROWD

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Profiting by their experience of yesterday, the Washington police have made elaborate preparations to handle the inaugural parade today. In addition to the regular force there will be approximately 1500 special policemen, including members of the inaugural public order committee, who will be on hand along the route of parade. Extra wire cables roping off Pennsylvania avenue have been placed in position and it was announced today that under no circumstances would the crowd be permitted to trespass on the street.

The parade has been divided into eight sections, under the immediate charge of a captain of inspectors. Every effort was made to prevent delays in the movement of the procession.

Ambulances, patrol wagons and "first aid to the injured" squads were assigned to stations at intersecting streets ready to care for those injured either in the crush or overcome in the procession.

The Boy Scouts were assigned to stated positions along the line of march to aid in this work.

Blaze of Glory

At dawn today a little knot of men appeared on the knoll behind the White House and anxiously scanned the skies. They were the members of the fireworks committee having in charge the program for the blaze of glory which tonight, if the weather is favorable, will mark the end of President Wilson's inauguration day.

Professor Willis L. Moore, chief weather forecaster, had not given much encouragement. While he predicted that the parade would march beneath fair skies, he declined to stake his official reputation on the evening conditions. The fireworks display tonight probably will be the most elaborate ever seen in Washington.

Elaborate Set Pieces

According to the official program in addition to the discharge of bombs with many modern mechanical surprises there will be a number of "set pieces" including an elaborate reproduction of the flag as now designed.

Toward the close of the fireworks display one gigantic bomb will be flung high in the air which on exploding will show in letters of fire the name "Wilson." Almost immediately afterward a second bomb of like calibre will be sent aloft which in turn will fling out the name "Marshall."

PRICES FLUCTUATE

AT THE OPENING OF THE MARKET TODAY

Can. Dropped—London's Attitude Uncertain—Prices Again Sagged at Noon—Market Closed Weak

NEW YORK, March 4.—When the trading on the market began this morning prices of the more prominent issues fluctuated greatly. After some brisk trading in the industrials, Can. was hammered down a point and in the downward movement several other prominent issues followed.

Prices later turned definitely downwards, when bear pressure on Can. was kept up. This stock again fell, dropping two points.

In the belief that the rails had been pushed as far as was expedient at this juncture room traders sold stocks moderately today. London's attitude toward this market was rather uncertain and the stimulating effect of recent foreign buying was missed. Liquidation of New Haven added two points to its drop since publication of its unfavorable January report.

The rally expended itself at midday and prices sagged again. Reading reacted from 158 to 155 but other leaders did not give way much.

Offerings of stocks while scanty were sufficient to depress the list steadily.

The market closed weak. No attempt was made to stay the decline and the price became a little more rapid in the last hour. Traders said the short side seemed most attractive at the moment and sold round amounts of some important stocks.

ELECTIONS IN MAINE

Ten Cities Pick New City Governments

PORTLAND, Me., March 4.—The election of a progressive mayor and city government in Auburn, a republican city, was a feature of the annual municipal elections held yesterday in 10 of Maine's 20 cities. A. W. Fowles was chosen mayor by a plurality of 82 over Judge Harris L. Webber, his democratic opponent, and his board of five aldermen will consist of progressives with the exception of a lone democrat. Progressive nominations made in several other cities received very light votes.

Bath Democratic

The only other shifts were at Bath, where a democratic mayor will have a working majority of democrats instead of republicans, and at Eastport, where a republican landslide changed an evenly divided board of aldermen to one that will contain but one democrat and wrested the mayoralty from the democratic party.

All of the five mayors who were renominated, of whom four are democrats, were re-elected. They were: Mayor J. A. S. Dyer of South Portland, who was given a fourth term; Mayors Bielhen (republican) of Rockland, Pattangall of Waterville and Beane of Hallowell, who were accorded third terms, and Mayor Cunningham of Ellsworth, who has served one year.

The other cities in which elections were held were Lewiston, which went democratic as usual, and Saco, where the republicans were victorious in four of the seven wards.

Y. W. C. A. Lecture Course

The second program of the Y. W. C. A. course will be enjoyed this evening in the form of a pianola and victrola recital given by Mr. F. F. Heyward and Mr. S. L. Hiser of M. Steinert's Sons at 7.45 o'clock. The finest rolls and records that have been produced will be used and a concert of real merit will be the result. The members of the association who have not yet obtained their free tickets are urged to do so early. The course ticket will be obtainable by men and other non-members at a low rate designed merely to cover expenses. There are some men of exceptional ability who are to be heard in this course. Mr. Cy Warman, noted writer of stories and poems, will give a motion picture talk on Canada, assisted by the general film company. Rev. Willard Scott, D. D., who gave the address on "The Making of Lincoln" at the Kirk Street Lincoln service February 9, will furnish an evening of wit and humor on April 1st, under the title of "The Enchantment of the Near Future."

Bed Caught Fire

Shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon the fire department answered to a telephone alarm which called it to the house at 355 Central street, said to be the property of a Mr. Proctor. In some unknown manner a bed caught fire in one of the upper rooms. It was extinguished without difficulty and damage was confined to the bed itself.

Teamster Injured

Thomas Hayes, who resides in Quebec street, and who is employed as a teamster by the Harvard Brewing Co. had two of the finger nails from the second and ring fingers of his right hand torn off this afternoon while unloading some barrels. One of the heavy barrels fell and caused the injury. He was taken to the Emergency hospital for treatment.

FUNERAL NOTICE

FITZGERALD—The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald will take place Friday morning at 8 o'clock from her home, 125 Broadway. At 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Patrick's church. Burial in St. Patrick's cemetery. C. H. Molloy & Sons in charge.

ELECTIONS IN VERMONT

246 Cities and Towns Elect Officers

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 4.—Whether Vermont will lose the distinction of being the "political barometer" of the United States is one of the questions to be decided at elections held throughout the state today. Included in eight proposed amendments to the constitution, which the last legislature submitted to the people for decision was one to change the date of the state election from September to November. Elections in Vermont for years have been held two months earlier than in most states.

The 246 cities and towns also will elect officers, settle the license question and vote on a referendum which would permit the appropriation of $200 for school inspection.

The proposed changes to the constitution which were submitted to the voters were:

To change the date of state elections from September to November and the session of the legislature from October to January.

To require a two-thirds vote instead of a majority vote of the legislature to override a veto.

To give the legislature equal power with the governor in granting pardons.

To grant the legislature authority to pass a workingmen's compensation act.

To change the title of supreme court judges to justices.

To require a request from five members for a roll call in either branch of the legislature.

To provide for the incorporation of religious, charitable, educational and penal institutions without special act of the legislature.

To revise the constitution on the basis of the acts accepted at this year's town meetings.

Semi-industrial Work

"The old-fashioned set course with cultural aims has caused many failures, produced hundreds of misfits, and driven innumerable boys and girls to leave school as soon as the law will permit," declares Edwin L. Cauine, superintendent of schools in East Chicago, in a statement addressed to the United States commissioner of education.

East Chicago is a city of cosmopolitan character and strong democratic tendencies, according to Superintendent Canine. There is no wealthy nor especially cultured class, and extreme poverty is unknown. His problem, therefore, was probably somewhat different from that of other school men. In his efforts to solve it he emphasizes certain special features, among which "semi-industrial work," a "maximum-minimum" plan of assigning school lessons, and a method of reducing the number of daily recitations, are conspicuous.

Semi-industrial classes were formed when it was found that some children, especially in grades five, six and seven, appeared unable to carry the regular work, even after repeated trials. Special attention was given to these pupils. One-third or one-fourth of their time was spent in the manual training or domestic science department, where the work was made as practical as possible. Then the special teacher took them for about the same amount of time and coached them in the subjects of the grade in which they had failed. Under these conditions, Superintendent Canine reports, some of the boys passed not only the grade in which they had failed but the next grade as well. These semi-industrial classes are open also to children over fourteen years of age who have left school and are unemployed, and to those already at work who are permitted by foresighted employers to attend school part of the time.

The "maximum-minimum" plan of lesson assignment adopted in Superintendent Canine's system is an ingenious application of the principle "from each according to his abilities." The pupils do not all have the same amount to do. If the average pupils of the class are assigned fifteen problems in arithmetic, for instance, the slowest pupils are assigned eight, ten, or twelve typical problems, while the brightest are asked to do twenty or more. The same principle is applied to geography and history, and to some extent to English.

Believing that the energies of the pupils are unnecessarily divided and dissipated by the constantly increasing number of school subjects, Superintendent Canine has devised a plan of reducing the number of studies. In the four lower grades literature, history, and nature study, instead of forming separate subjects in the curriculum, are combined in "language work." Other similar combinations are made throughout the course.

As in many American cities, the school work in East Chicago is by no means confined to the period of the conventional school term. The principals and industrial teachers are engaged for the full school year, so that they may carry on the summer work. In the summer session pupils may make up deficiencies; an exceptionally bright student may gain a grade; the industrial work is kept going (especially the home garden); and playground activities, under the supervision of trained directors, are at their height.

F.P.Forster's Affairs Are Badly Tangled

NEW YORK, March 4.—Investigation yesterday into the affairs of Frederick Prentiss Forster, lawyer and Harvard graduate, who is alleged to be ill of paresis in his country place at Milton, Mass., and who was charged on Saturday with converting over $373,000 of cash and securities belonging to Mrs Caroline P. Frame while acting as her attorney, brought out, as her attorneys now representing estates formerly handled by Forster, claim, that there is a shortage of nearly $1,000,000 in the estate formerly under his care.

"And the most surprising thing of all," said one of the attorneys, "is that we cannot account for the expenditure by him of over $100,000 during the period of the shortage. Forster was a man who always preached economy and lived in a somewhat frugal way for a man of his income. He ate in quick lunch places for the effect it had on his clients, and boasted that he never used an automobile."

It developed yesterday that Forster's brother, H. Waldo Forster, who is now in California, claims that the lawyer has converted $300,000 worth of property belonging to him, but attorneys who have been trying to straighten out Forster's affairs in behalf of former clients, thought that this claim might have been advanced for the effect it would have on property that has been assigned by Frederick Forster to his brother.

One claim about which the lawyers said there was no doubt is made by Mrs. Susannah H. Felz of 1395 Washington avenue, widow of Frederick Felz. An account submitted to Mrs. Felz by an expert who worked on books of Mr. Forster's firm of Forster & Forster reported that the amount due was $225,000.

The accountant found that the only stock owned by the Felz estate was 75 shares of Germania bank stock, and this had been hypothecated for a loan so large that there was not sufficient assets remaining in the Felz estate to redeem the stock. It was said that there are several estates which are short $10,000 or $15,000.

An attachment against Forster's property was obtained yesterday from Justice Davis in the Frame suit, on the ground that he is a non-resident, and the order was served on the Lawyer's Title Insurance company to tie up any funds that may be due out of the sale of 463 lots near Yonkers.

Killed Wife Who Hid Children

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 4.—William E. Webber of Rankin, Ill., is under arrest here charged with killing his wife. The Webbers had not lived together for several months. Sunday Webber came to Grand Rapids, where his wife had preceded him, and asked to see his children. The request was refused, it is alleged, and the murder followed.

V. V. V. Class Met

The V. V. V. class of the Paige Street Baptist church held an interesting meeting recently with a large attendance. At the close of the business session a social and entertainment was enjoyed. The program was as follows: Reading, Ralph Smith; tableaux, members of the club; including "The Red Cross in the Balkan War," "Winter at Valley Forge," "Marching Through Georgia," and "Life at West Point." Afterwards refreshments were served. The meeting and social was a very pleasant affair throughout.

EX-MAYOR WINKLEY DEAD

Passed Away at Home Where He Was Born

NEWBURYPORT, March 4.—Job Otis Winkley died at his home, where he was born 69 years ago, on Parker street yesterday, following an illness of about four weeks of erysipelas. Mr. Winkley was a farmer. He never married, but lived with his sister on the old homestead.

He took a great deal of interest in city affairs, serving as mayor in 1887. Previously he served three years, 1874, 1875 and 1876 in the common council. He was a member of the board of aldermen in 1882 and 1883 and served six years on the board of assessors, being first elected in 1892.

He leaves a brother, Alderman Paul T. Winkley, who represents ward 5; three sisters, Mrs Abbie A. Fearing, Mrs. Geo. H. Plummer and Miss Viola F. Winkley. He was a member of Quasecunquen lodge of Odd Fellows, and Canton Harmony, Patriarchs Militant.

Indict Three for Mill Thefts

NEWPORT, R. I., March 4.—Indictments for stealing cotton and cotton waste from the Shove mills at Tiverton were returned yesterday by the Newport county grand jury against James Holland, a manufacturer of cotton materials, John H. Richardson, an official of the Shove mills, now dead, and J. William Dacey, a teamster, all of Fall River.

Holden, Dacey and Felix Breault, the latter a boss-carder in the mill, are now under bail on similar charges, to which they have pleaded not guilty. Mill officials have said that $20,000 worth of material is involved.

Department of Labor Created

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Taft signed the bill creating the department of labor, with a cabinet portfolio. President Wilson's nomination for this position will be William B. Wilson, now a retiring representative in congress from Pennsylvania.

Among the first bills President Taft signed were the rivers and harbors, public buildings, agriculture and general deficiency.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Late Dispatches in Condensed Form

CONCORD, N. H., March 4.—Henry M. Hollis, democrat, lacked five of the 210 votes needed to be elected United States senator in the New Hampshire legislature today.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Unless congress interferes the organization of the customs service will be revolutionized beginning July 1.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 4.—Frank J. Ham of this city, a former republican sheriff of Kennebec county, was nominated for warden of the state prison by Gov. Haines today.

BOSTON, March 4.—The legislature was asked through one of its committee's today to approve a boxing law drawn on lines similar to that now in force in New York.

BOSTON, March 4.—An indictment was returned today by the federal grand jury against the Oceanic Steam Navigation Co., alleging violation of the immigration laws.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Taft just before he went out of office reappointed Judge George Gray of the United States circuit court of Delaware a commissioner at The Hague and appointed John Bassett Moore another commissioner to fill an existing vacancy.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Before Woodrow Wilson has been president many hours he will have placed in his hands by the incensed suffragettes, who yesterday were mobbed while conducting their parade, a copy of the vigorous resolution of denunciation they adopted at their mass meeting last night following their parade along Pennsylvania avenue.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 4.—A second skirmish occurred today between the Ninth cavalry troops and Mexican federal soldiers from Agua Prieta across the international border one and one half miles southwest of Douglas. Mexicans to the number of 50 fired on the border patrol and wounded several.

On next Saturday night the high school track team will meet English high of Boston in a dual meet at the armex. Howe, the husky colored sprinter is captain of the Hub outfit and is an athlete in the first division. It was Howe who defeated Perchener of Exeter, the favorite, in the 300 yard dash at Mechanics hall, Saturday. If the Lowell captain gets the first bank on the colored iller Howe will have all he can do to brush home a winner.

Jake Moakley is having tough luck with his Cornell track team. The faculty has declared that a half dozen of Jake's most promising athletes are ineligible to compete on account of rush of bone to the head. Fritz, the best pole vaulter in college, is suffering from this complaint, as well as Wallace, the quarter-miler. Moakley allows that he will coach and train a track team but balks at tutoring them in their flunked subjects.

The national championships will take place in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on Thursday night. This meet is the real blue ribbon meet of America on the board track. Athletes from all over the world have been sent invitations to the meet months ago, so that they would have ample time to prepare for the various championship events.

It looks as though Drew, the Springfield negro, would clean up the seventy-five yard dash although Meyers, Rice, Clark and Stephenson are good men.

The 600 yard race should prove the feature of the evening with Meredith, Halpin, Sheppard and Davenport entered. It looks to be anybody's race, but the peerless "Mel" is a foxy man on an indoor track.

The Salem A. A. opened under very auspicious conditions last night when Ray Wood and Tommy O'Keefe fought a draw before over fifteen hundred fans. The mayor and the chief of police were present and allowed that the show was all right and that there was no reason why the state police should interfere. With these men in favor of the glove game there is no doubt about the club being a success.

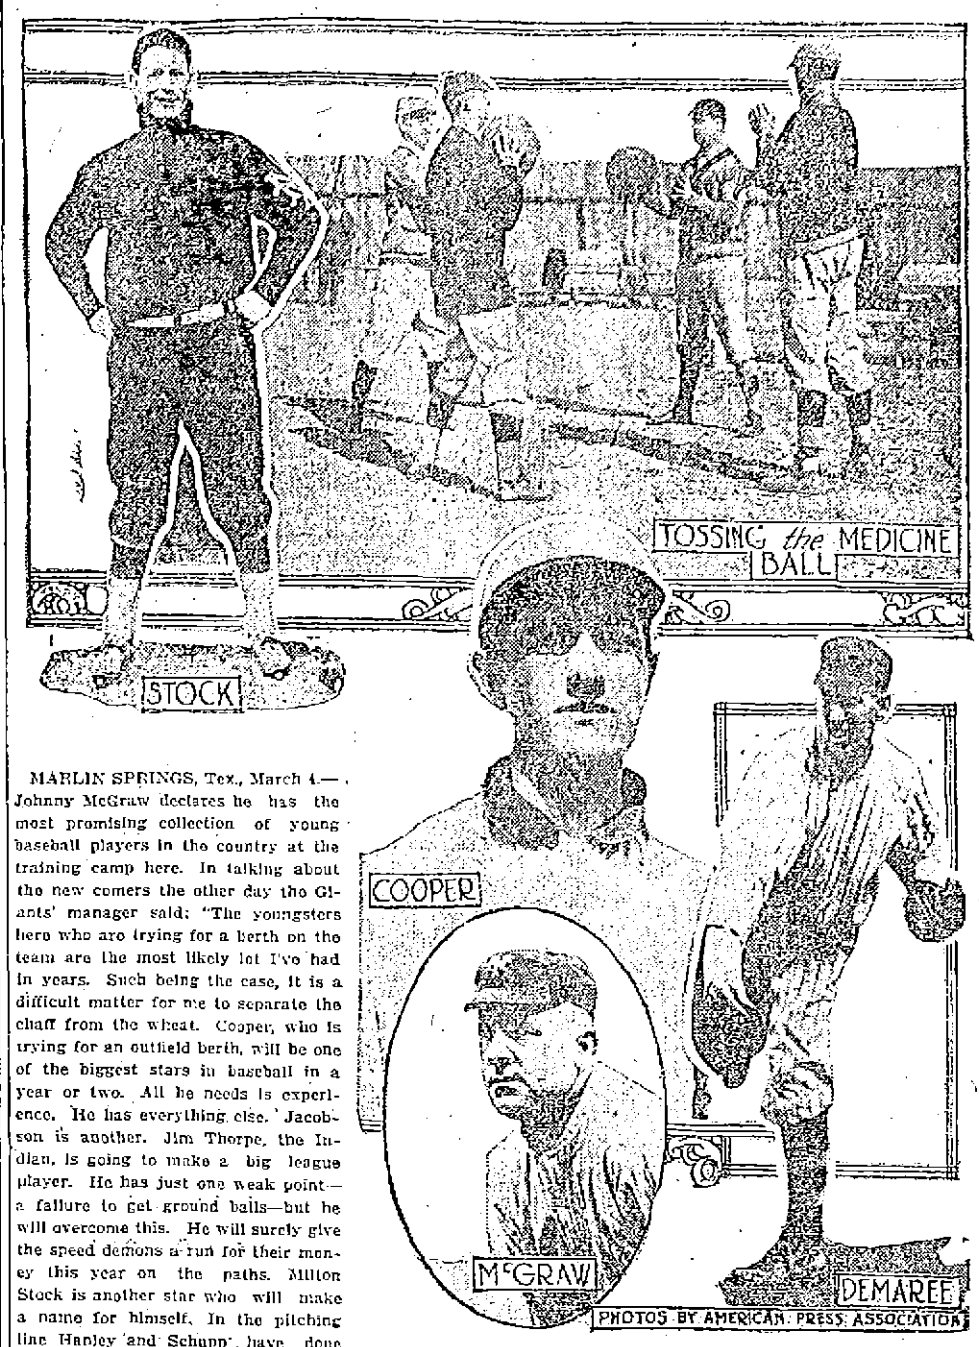

There was some time at the Whitman A. A. last night when Referee Quill of Brockton awarded the decision of a ten round bout to a fellow townsman by the name of Timmy Ricardon over Sy Goodwin of Boston. There was a goodly gathering of Plymouth fans present and their sympathies were all with the Boston boy. When the decision was handed out the visitors considered it a steal and proceeded to make a strenuous demonstration to that effect. After tearing up the ring and breaking up what furniture they could lay their hands on they were finally appeased by having the decision reversed. If the club management intends to keep on running shows they had better run them right and provide officials who know their business and who will not be coerced by a crowd of rowdies.

JOHNNY M'GRAW HAS A FINE COLLECTION OF YOUNGSTERS AT THE TRAINING CAMP

MARLIN SPRINGS, Tex., March 4.—Johnny McGraw declares he has the most promising collection of young baseball players in the country at the training camp here. In talking about the new comers the other day the Giants' manager said: "The youngsters here who are trying for a berth on the team are the most likely lot I've had in years. Such being the case, it is a difficult matter for me to separate the chaff from the wheat. Cooper, who is trying for an outfield berth, will be one of the biggest stars in baseball in a year or two. All he needs is experience. He has everything else. Jacobson is another. Jim Thorpe, the Indian, is going to make a big league player. He has just one weak point—a failure to get ground balls—but he will overcome this. He will surely give the speed demons a run for their money this year on the paths. Milton Stock is another star who will make a name for himself. In the pitching line Hanley and Schupp have done fairly well, but need more experience." McGraw states that he is not sure whether he will make any changes in last year's lineup or not, but it is hinted that he is contemplating a change in the outfield positions. The older members of the team here are in good shape. Judging by the present state of affairs the Giants should be off to a good start. Rube Marquard and Fred Snodgrass will join their comrades here March 10.

COMPANY K WON OUT

BLUE AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Hamilton Tells How She Finally Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Warren, Ind.—"I was bothered terribly with female weakness. I had pains and was not regular, my head ached all the time, I had bearing down pains and my back hurt me the biggest part of the time, I was dizzy and had weak feelings when I would stoop over, it hurt me to walk any distance and I felt blue and discouraged.

"I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now in good health. If it had not been for that medicine I would have been in my grave a long time ago."—Mrs. ARTIE E. HAMILTON, R.F.D. No. 6, Warren, Ind.

Another Case.

Esmond, R. I.—"I write to tell you how much good your medicine has done me and to let other women know that there is help for them. I suffered with bearing down pains, headache, was irregular and felt blue and depressed all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commenced to gain in a short time and I am a well woman today. I am on my feet from early morning until late at night running a boarding house and do all my own work. I hope that many suffering women will try your medicine. It makes happier wives and mothers."—Mrs. ANNA HANSEN, Esmond, Rhode Island.

THE STATE'S SHARE

Lowell Textile School Got a Little More Than Half What Was Requested

The legislative committee on education has voted to recommend legislation authorizing the payment of a total of $50,000 to cover the state's portion of maintaining the Lowell Textile school until July 1, 1914, a period of 15 months. This is slightly more than half what the school asked for this year.

GOOD SCORES PUT UP

Bowlers in Good Form Last Night

There were more games bowled on the local alleys last night than have been played for some time and several good scores were the result. The Martins won from the Agawams in a very exciting finish in one of the fastest games that has been rolled here this year. Dickey was the high man in the matched game scores last night with a mark of 317. The scores of the various games and their summaries:

Talk Bill to Death

WASHINGTON, March 4.—To avoid a filibuster in the senate by the Nevada senators who early today gave notice of talking the legislative appropriation bill to death the senate and house conferees agreed to continue the assay offices for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914. Salaries at the offices were reduced. The conference report was adopted by the senate.

At 4.05 the senate took a recess until 9.30 to allow the senate chamber to be prepared for the inauguration ceremonies later in the day.

JOHNNY DOHAN POPULAR

New York Boxer Has Many Friends Here

The mere announcement that Johnny Dohan, the popular Brooklyn, N. Y., lightweight, would again appear before a Lowell audience was cause for vociferous applause. Dohan has promised to be on hand next Friday night well prepared for his 12-round contest with Young McDonough. The latter was selected mainly for the reason that he expressed much dissatisfaction in the result of his last meeting with the aggressive New Yorker.

Since appearing here Dohan has scored a knockout victory over Jack Lundy, one of New York's best 135-pound boxers at New York last Saturday night. The Dutch baker boy fighter in a letter to some friends in this city asserts that he will surely accomplish a similar result when he faces McDonough. The match is creating unusual attention and those members who were fortunate enough to witness the last encounter between this pair will hardly care to miss Friday night's match, which gives promise of resulting in a red letter contest. Kid Lee and Young Morgan will appear in the semi-final bout of eight rounds. Lee has not appeared in Lowell since he boxed Al Delmont and he wants to redeem himself in the eyes of the Lowell fans and feels confident that he will by removing Morgan from his victorious path. Young Calhan and Kid Hamilton will meet in one of the preliminaries and Young Cooney and Kid George will furnish the opener.

DIAMOND NOTES

Joe Jackson declares that he will give up playing baseball as soon as he pays for his farm in South Carolina. Cleveland fans don't wish Joe any harm, but they will be satisfied if he doesn't get the mortgages on the homestead lifted for about 10 years.

Connie Mack, when asked if he had made a reported offer of Catcher Schang for Pitcher Green of the Highlanders, answered: "I might trade Schang for Ford. Fifteen out of sixteen big league clubs were after Schang last year and it isn't likely that I'd want to trade off a man for whom there was a big demand as that without giving him a trial."

Manager Callahan of the White Sox has emulated Clark Griffith by signing Kid Gleason and Jack Doyle as coaches. Neither Gleason nor Doyle will do any comedy stunts, as do Schaefer and Altrock. They will be used for the purpose of disconcerting rival players by means of a lot of select language, of which they make a specialty.

The Cleveland club is going to try the experiment of giving a trial to an amateur pitcher. He is Willard G. Taber, a young giant who twirled for an amateur team in Manchester, N. H., last year.

JONATHAN JOHNSON IS DEAD

Was One of Lowell's Oldest Citizens—Came Here in 1833

THE LATE JONATHAN JOHNSON

In the death of Jonathan Johnson, Lowell has lost one of its most valuable and oldest citizens and the many friends of deceased will keenly feel his demise, especially will it be noticed in Masonic circles, where he was prominent, having taken his degrees in Pentucket lodge over 60 years ago. He was one of the oldest Masons in Lowell.

Mr. Johnson, who was aged 94 years and seven months, passed away late yesterday afternoon at his home, in Varnum avenue. He is survived by a nephew living in Norwood.

He was born in Groton, August 7, 1818, and lived on his father's farm, except for the three years which his family spent in Boston, until he was 15 years old. He was educated in the Groton schools. In 1833 he went to Leominster, where he secured employment in a carriage shop, and in 1835 he went to Fitchburg, where he learned the watchmaker's trade, which he followed from that time until his death.

He came to this city in 1840 and worked for J. K. Fellows, the jeweler, until 1842, when he went into business for himself, and he had continued in his business until he was taken ill, about a week ago. For many years he was in business in the Merrimack house block.

In 1850 he went to Demerara, South America, where he spent three months in installing telegraph apparatus and in giving instructions as to its use. On his return he had charge of the telegraph system in this city and later on had charge of the telegraph lines all through New England from Boston to Burlington, Vermont. He was not only a member of the board of aldermen and the city council, but also served several terms in the legislature. In 1855 he received his first civic office, being elected that year to the common council. In 1856 and 1857 he served on the board of aldermen. In 1856 he also received his first election to the legislature. In 1866 he again served on the common council and returned to the legislature in the years 1872 and 1876.

He was affiliated with only one secret organization, Pentucket lodge of Free Masons. He made his application to this lodge in 1849 and in January, 1850, he passed his degrees. He was a member of the First Unitarian church but of late years he had been unable to attend very regularly on account of his health.

He was married twice, his second wife dying about three years ago, and had three sons, all of whom are dead.

H. W. H. Club of St. Paul's Church

The H. W. H. Club of St. Paul's church was entertained last evening by Mrs. Gertrude Snow. There were 23 members present. After the regular business was transacted refreshments were served and a social time with music was enjoyed. The club will meet next month with Mrs. Eleanor Smith.

Constipated, and Don't Know It!

By Dr. True

It seems odd, but it is true, that you may be constipated and not know it.

You can see why it is. Take a glass and pour in water until full. If you keep on pouring in water after the glass is full, it will run over, but the glass stays full.

Just so with your bowels; they get full of waste matter, and then they pass off or expel from the body only about the same amount that goes into it in the form of food.

So you may have a movement of the bowels every day and yet there will remain waste matter that ought to be removed.

Give your bowels a gentle but thorough cleaning out and you'll feel great.

The prescription I used for this is put up and sold under the name of Dr. True's Elixir. Doctors and druggists use it in their own families. Costs but little and brings health to men, women and children. Tastes good. Works gently. Remember the name, Dr. True's Elixir. Price, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

SALARIES ARE INCREASED

Tewksbury Selectmen Will Get More Pay

The vote cast by the voters of the town of Tewksbury yesterday was extra large although there were no bitter contests. From 10 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon the voting was heavy.

The sum of $75 was appropriated for repairs in the town hall while $500 was appropriated for repairs on the town farm. The sum of $300 was also voted to wipe out the town farm debt.

J. K. CHANDLER
Re-elected Selectman

The salaries of the selectmen were increased from $125 to $200 for the chairman, while the other members will receive $150, instead of $100 as formerly.

For town clerk, Peter W. Cameron was reelected. He received 161 votes to 61 for his opponent, H. Louis Farmer. There were only three candidates for selectmen, Jeremiah K. Chandler, Irving F. French and Harry L. Shedd, and they received, respectively, 224, 220 and 215 votes. All three were elected for a second term. The same men also ran for overseers of the poor, and for the board of health, and were successful without opposition.

Buzzell King was the only candidate for assessor for 3 years. He received 215 votes. For town treasurer there were two candidates, Harold J. Patten and Eugene N. Patterson, and the latter won, 131 to 100. James W. Miller was unopposed for auditor, as were Melvin G. Rogers, for collector of taxes for one year, and Cyrus W. Parsons for highways commissioner for three years.

Mrs. Larrabee Wins

For school committee a pretty contest developed between Edith A. Forstall and May K. Larrabee, the latter winning, 157 to 113. This was the initial experience of the two contestants in politics. The term of office is three years.

Albert C. Blaisdell was elected to serve as a library trustee, while Frank H. Farmer was elected constable over George Hooper by the vote of 152 to 120. Harris M. Briggs was elected tree warden for one year.

The license vote was by special ticket and the vote stood 64 yes, and five, no.

VOTED FOR NO LICENSE

Sound Old Tyngsboro Continues to Stay Dry

The Tyngsboro citizens held their annual town meeting yesterday and the affair which was held in the town hall was largely attended. The town voted no license by a total of 76 to 24.

Jesse B. Butterfield was chosen moderator and the reports of town officers were accepted and it was voted to give the collector of taxes a two per cent. commission.

Appropriations for the year were made as follows: School, $1350; transportation, $1250; books and supplies, $175; school physician, $100; state aid, $175; Memorial day, $50; cemeteries, $75; tree warden, $50; town counsel, $100; town officers, $500; incidentals, $1000; moth extermination, $260; library, $50; electric lights, $500; roads and bridges, $200.

It was voted to devote the receipts from the dog tax to the Littlehale library. The treasurer was authorized to borrow $5500 in anticipation of taxes; the sum of $70 was appropriated for a filing cabinet for the safety vault.

It was voted a buy a $600 power sprayer. There was some discussion over this item, but the debate generally favored it. The sprayer will not only be available in the moth crusade, but can be hired by the farmers when they desire to spray their trees.

The article to appropriate $50 for a game warden was indefinitely postponed. The question of purchasing a new set of scales for the town was referred to a special committee, George Danforth, William J. Collins and James Danforth.

Action was postponed on the article calling for the acceptance of a piece of road through the Felker land. It was voted to accept $200 from the Frederick Blanchard estate for the perpetual care of a cemetery lot.

The assessors, who now receive $2.50 a day for their work, were voted a bonus of $25 a year additional, and the salary of the selectmen was raised from $2.00 to $2.50 a day. The salary of the auditor was also increased from $30 to $35. Action was postponed on the request of A. A. Flint for permission to build a raceway over the highway.

The election for town officials resulted as follows: Treasurer, Charles P. Littlehale, 88; selectmen, assessor and overseer, Chester H. Queen, progressive-republican, 65, elected over Arthur E. Marshall, democrat, who received 41; collector of taxes, William E. Barry, 85; auditor, Norman R. Sherburne, republican, defeated Reuben B. Sherburne, democrat, 63 to 41; road commissioner, Leon P. Perham, 96; constables, Perry A. Flint and Fred K. Sinclair, progressive-republicans, who defeated Louis T. Braddon and Darwin M. Roberts, democrats; school committee, Fred A. Coburn and Homer A. Noble, elected without opposition; trustee of the library for three years, Charles P. Littlehale 79, Fred A. Coburn 59, Fred D. Lambert 56, the first two elected; trustee for one year, James Danforth 61, George R. Robeson 34, the former elected; cemetery commissioner for three years, Otis L. Wright defeated Louis T. Braddon, 72 to 33; commissioner for one year, Fred K. Sinclair, republican, defeated George D. Danforth, democrat, and George H. Cobleigh, progressive; tree warden, Herbert F. Shipley, elected without opposition.

A BIG PIANO SALE

A Great Chance for the Public to Buy at Cut Prices

A piano sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a markdown sale. The very nature of the business here is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular piano store where they are expected to make a profit on each piano. We don't let any piano loaf around our floors; a sacrifice tag is clapped on which on the face of it reads competition defied and it is sold to the first wise man or woman for the price marked on the tag. Price doesn't mean anything at these sales. We cut and double cut prices on all makes alike; we ask no favors, we want none, and we give none. In sales like these someone's loss is your gain, the profit is all yours. The finest instruments of the world's best makers are in the sacrifice list.

SWEARS THAW IS INSANE

The Head of Matteawan Makes Affidavit

ALBANY, N. Y., March 4.—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, is still of unsound mind and his release from the Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane would be dangerous to the public peace and safety, according to a sworn affidavit made yesterday to Attorney-General Carmody by Dr. Roy L. Leak, acting superintendent of the hospital.

State's Answer

The affidavit will be used as the state's return to the writ of habeas corpus obtained last Saturday, from Justice Guy of New York, directing the state to produce Thaw before Justice Glegerich, in New York, on Thursday, and to show cause why Thaw should not be given his freedom.

At a conference yesterday, between the attorney-general, Col. Joseph F. Scott, superintendent of state prisons, and Dr. Leake, it was decided to redraft the rules and regulations governing the inmates of Matteawan, with a view to curtailing the privileges heretofore extended to Thaw. All rules which might tend to operate in favor of Thaw will be abrogated.

Jerome Again Retained

Attorney-General Carmody has again retained William T. Jerome, former district attorney of New York county, as special counsel to represent the state in the new proceedings begun in behalf of Thaw. Mr. Jerome was allowed $10,000 for defending the action begun by Thaw before Justice Keogh of New Rochelle last year. The expenses incurred by the state at that trial, including Mr. Jerome's fee, totalled $18,765. A bill to defray these expenses was reported recently to the senate by the finance committee.

Franklin Kennedy, deputy attorney-general, who appeared with Mr. Jerome in the proceedings before Justice Keogh, has been designated to file the state's return to Thaw's new writ and has been directed to request Justice Glegerich to transfer further proceedings to the ninth judicial district, where the Matteawan hospital is located.

Dr. Leake's affidavit points out that since Thaw was received at Matteawan, four unsuccessful attempts have been made through habeas corpus proceedings to obtain his release. The writs were sued out in May and June, 1908, June, 1909, and April, 1912.

"I am of the opinion," the affidavit concluded, "that the said Harry K. Thaw is now insane, is still of unsound mind, and that it is still dangerous to the public peace and safety to discharge him from Matteawan state hospital."

DR. M. A. LONG DEAD

Well Known Physician Passed Away

Dr. Merritt A. Long, a well known physician of this city, died this forenoon at the Lowell General hospital, where he had been confined for a week, suffering from septic pneumonia. Deceased had an office at 226 Merrimack street. He is survived by a brother, Thomas W. Long, of Manchester-by-the-Sea, and his aged mother. Services will be held in St. Anne's church at 2.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, after which the remains will be taken on the 3.57 train to Manchester, Mass., where burial services will be held Thursday.

Dr. Long was born in Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., 55 years ago, coming of a very old family of that town. He worked his way through Tufts college, overcoming many obstacles to obtain an education. After graduation, he came to Lowell where he served as interne at the Lowell General hospital for one year, and an additional ten months to finish the term of another interne. Entering general practice a few years ago, he made a fine reputation as a physician and a gentleman. Much of his time was spent in association with Dr. McGannon, who is now in Florida, and who will be greatly grieved to learn of the death of his friend.

The mother of Dr. Long, aged 77, and a brother, Thomas W. Long, both of Manchester-by-the-Sea, are the only surviving members of his family. He was a member of Kilwinning lodge of Masons. His early death will give sorrow to a large circle in this city. Those who knew of his early struggles and his aspirations for an honorable career in his profession, will feel that in his departure from among us the loss is a severe one.

dents of Princeton and Virginia fell in behind the procession. This ride to the White House was the signal for cheers all along the way, while the bands kept up their liveliest airs.

President Taft, bearing in mind the incoming president's desire for simplicity, escorted him to the East room of the White House, instead of the Blue room, which is the formal reception place of dignitaries. Here Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson chatted and Mr. Taft's well known smile was much in evidence.

Ride to Capitol Started

The stay was brief. At 10.17 the ride to the capitol began. In the first carriage were President Taft and Mr. Wilson, Mr. Taft occupying the right hand seat. With them were Senators Crane and Bacon. In the second carriage Mr. Marshall sat at Senator Overman's right. Rep. Rucker also rode there. In the third carriage came Reps. McKinley and Garrett. The party moved briskly out of the White House grounds and down Pennsylvania avenue, the mounted escorts clattering along beside and behind. The streets were packed and to roars of cheers President Taft and Mr. Wilson gave their acknowledgments.

Postmaster General Hitchcock and Secretaries MacVeagh, Fisher and Wilson were the only members of the cabinet to accompany the party to the cabinet. Secretary Hilles rode in the last carriage with three of the president's aides.

Guard Reduced

In marked contrast with the riotous scenes of yesterday, when the crowds along Pennsylvania avenue virtually mobbed the women in the suffrage pageant, the carriageway today was entirely clear and the presidential party rode along with spectators no nearer than the curbs.

At the president-elect's request the number of secret service men assigned to guard the carriage in the procession to the capitol was reduced to two. Vice President-elect Marshall's carriages followed closely and immediately behind marched the White House guards.

Galloped Up Capitol Hill

The party proceeded down Pennsylvania avenue, slowly, until it neared the capitol and then the four black horses drawing the presidential carriage broke into a trot and the troopers escorting it spurred their horses into a canter. Thus the cavalcade galloped up Capitol hill. While the crowd along the route was demonstrative it was respectful and orderly. The carriages and their escorts filed up to the main entrance of the capitol to the greeting of the massed multitudes in the stands and the less fortunate who were perched upon every point of vantage or packed into all available spaces.

President Taft and Mr. Wilson were at once escorted to the president's room, where Mr. Taft at once took up the work of signing bills. Mr. Marshall went to the vice president's room, accompanied by members of the committee and was met by President Pro-tem Gallinger. The two parties remained in these rooms until congress had done up the last bit of its work and was ready for the beginning of the scenes of inauguration of the vice president in the senate chamber.

When the president and Mr. Wilson approached the president's room Mr. Taft turned to the president-elect and said:

"Well, Mr. President, here's your room."

The two men passed inside and as they did so Mr. Taft spied Mr. Bryan outside in the corridor and invited him to enter.

"I don't know whether I can come in there or not," said Mr. Bryan, "I'm not president, you know."

"Well, I'm still president," returned Mr. Taft, "and I invite you in."

Mr. Bryan entered.

Mrs. Wilson's Dress

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters meanwhile entered the spaces reserved for them in the senate galleries and were the center of all eyes. Mrs. Wilson wore a tan cloth dress with a brown ribbed silk coat and a small hat to match. Miss Margaret Wilson wore blue silk poplin; Miss Jessie, lavender broadcloth, and Miss Eleanor a bright blue cloth dress.

Neither Mrs. Taft nor any other member of the president's family occupied the space reserved for them in the senate galleries or on the stand at the east front. Mrs. Taft and her daughter went to the home of Miss Mabel Boardman to await the coming of Mr. Taft after the inauguration ceremonies, when they all depart for Augusta, Ga.

Good-Bye to Mr. Taft

At 11.30 o'clock committees from the house and senate waited upon President Taft in the marble room and gave formal notification that congress was ready to adjourn. Meanwhile those members of the cabinet who did not ride in the procession to the capital gathered in the president's room and said good-bye to Mr. Taft and were introduced to Mr. Wilson.

Some of the officials for whom places had been reserved in the floor of the senate chamber began filing in before the senate had adjourned. The interstate commerce commission was the first to enter and with the other commissioners was Franklin K. Lane, who will be President Wilson's secretary of the interior.

Marshall Given Seat

Mrs. Marshall Waved

Mrs. Marshall from her place in one of the galleries, waved to her husband, as he came on the senate floor but after a stay of a moment Mr. Marshall and the committee returned to the vice president's room, while Senator Fall continued his filibuster on the Indian bill.

All eyes were upon the ten chairs on the senate floor which were allotted to President Wilson's cabinet. Josephus Daniels and William G. McAdoo were the first to take seats there.

William Jennings Bryan and Franklin K. Lane held a brief reception and then each took a chair in the "cabinet row." Rep. Redfield entered the chamber a moment later and took his place with the other cabinet appointees.

Appropriation Bills

President Taft meanwhile continued to sign the appropriation bills until all had been approved with the exception of the sundry civil bill, which he had vetoed. He let it be known that he would exercise the pocket veto on the seamen's involuntary servitude bill.

The senate was not ready to adjourn at noon, the hour set for the beginning of the ceremonies of inauguration of the vice president and the clock was set back to 11.25 a. m.

Inauguration Delayed

The delay in the senate's adjournment set the inauguration of Mr. Marshall back fully a half-hour and Mr. Wilson's as much. While the senate was working on the sundry civil bill the vice-presidential party waited for the word to enter the chamber.

Senator Poindexter delayed the adjournment of the senate to make a speech calling attention to disorderly scenes which attended the suffragette parade yesterday and declaring an investigation of the Washington police should be made before any more money was appropriated for it.

While Senator Poindexter continued to talk with the evident purpose of preventing the sundry civil bill from coming to a vote, the house of representatives in a long line outside the senate door impatiently awaited entry. The diplomatic corps in full dress also stood outside. Finally with Mr. Poindexter still speaking the house was announced and filed in.

Finally Mr. Poindexter gave it up with the understanding that no attempt would be made to pass the bill and the diplomatic corps was ushered into the senate chamber while all those assembled rose.

The justices of the supreme court, headed by Chief Justice White, in their sombre robes of office, presenting a marked contrast to the brilliantly-garbed diplomats, followed.

Mr. Marshall entered the chamber for the second time at 12.30 and took his seat prepared to be called to the rostrum to take his oath. The ceremonies were now 30 minutes behind schedule.

Marshall Took Oath of Office

When all the guests were assembled Vice President Marshall stepped up to the desk and at 12.34 took the oath. Then Mr. Marshall began to deliver his inaugural address.

While Vice President Marshall was swearing in new senators and returning old ones the remainder of the company began to march to the stands on the east front where the inauguration of Mr. Wilson was to take place.

Wilson Greeted

President Taft and Mr. Wilson were greeted with loud cheers as they came out the main door.

Immediately in front of the presidential platform, Major General Wood and his general staff held a space clear. Across the open space loomed a battery of nearly a hundred cameras and motion picture machines trained on the single spot where President Taft was to pass his mantle of office to President-elect Wilson. Back of the West Point cadets stood the Essex troop. President Wilson's guard of honor and near them the Black Horse troop of Culver academy.

The troops were prepared to give way when the delivery of the inaugural address began, so that the crowd might close in to hear the new president. There was a lull in the ceremonies as the company assembled.

Mild Wind Blew

A mild wind blew over the stands and the West Point cadets and sailors ran about in little groups to relieve the waiting while the presidential party slowly assembled. The east front of the capitol sweeping down from the dome to the ground and out as far as the congressional library and neighboring apartment buildings presented a brilliant scene of color. The weather still was cloudy but there was no immediate sign of rain.

It was 1.11 before the procession to the stand had got as far as the diplomatic corps, so slowly did it move. This was because many remained behind to see new senators sworn in. President-elect Wilson and President Taft bowed to the crowd as they took their seats in the center of the platform.

Champ Clark Cheered

A burst of applause and cheers greeted Champ Clark as he passed onto the inaugural stand at the head of the line of house members.

Major General Wood directed the closing in of the troops before the guests had all been seated and the crowd gradually edged inward toward the inaugural platform.

Speaker Clark leaned toward President-elect Wilson and the two shook hands, bringing more applause from the crowd.

WHITE HOUSE GUARDED AS NEVER BEFORE—WILSON TO RETAIN SECRET SERVICE MEN

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The White House today was guarded probably as it never was before because of the great crowds in the national capital and the fear that cranks might seize upon the dying hours of the Taft administration to pay annoying visits. Chief Flynn of the secret service force early today drew around the White House grounds a cordon of guards who stopped sightseers at the gates and subjected to a close scrutiny all those who finally were passed within. None but those who actually had business at the White House or the executive offices were permitted to pass.

It was said today that the secret service men who had served both Presidents Roosevelt and Taft would be retained by President Wilson. These are James Sloan, L. C. Wheeler and R. L. Jarvis, who have traveled thousands of miles in the role of protectors of chief executives and who have experienced many thrilling adventures in that capacity.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S CABINET IS COMPLETE—NO N. E. MAN NAMED

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Wilson's cabinet is complete and it remains only to send the formal nominations to the senate.

The list is as follows:

Secretary of state—William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

Secretary of treasury—William G. McAdoo of New York.

Postmaster general—Representative Albert Burleson of Texas.

Secretary of the navy—Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Secretary of the interior—Franklin K. Lane of California.

Secretary of agriculture—David A. Houston of Missouri.

Secretary of commerce—Representative William D. Redfield of New York.

Manager Gray Getting Some Mail These Days

Manager Gray is having his troubles these days in all sorts of different forms. For instance there is not a day that goes by without some boy with the idea that he is another Ty Cobb does not either call on the Lowell manager personally or write him a very sincere and ingratiating letter. Below is a sample of what the local manager is up against in the line of correspondence:

Vermont, March 2.

Dear Sir:

I would like to know if you would give me a tryout. I am very fond of the game and hope to make a good ball player some day and I think if you would give be a good tryout that I could make good. I am quite sure my father said if I would go to school this term he would find me a job and he knows I like baseball awful well. I am trying to be a pitcher and I am left handed and need some practice. I have never handled a ball that they use in the league game so I don't know how I would make out with it. I wight to get a farm pretty quick and think that I can get one much quicker by playing baseball instead of working. You see I am very ambitious.

What do you think about me as a player, manager? I know I can't get every one over the home base. Do you think I can? Well if I can't pitch I can play first base fine and know that I can play there all right if I can't pitch, so you had better try me out in both places so as to be sure and get me in the place where I will do you the most good. You see I want to tell you just what I am good at so that you won't be playing me where I will not be doing you the best work. How much would you pay me if I worked all right for you? When you write back I hope and wish that you would tell me please.

I played with the Scout league and we used to walk four miles to play some of four games when we played out of town. I played with Centerhill and we had a pretty good team. There were two teams that dropped out of the league because they couldn't win any games, so that left only six teams that played all the time. I don't think it is so much fun to play in a league with six teams as it is with eight, do you? That is why I like the New England league so well, for I don't think that any teams drop out in your league, do they? I think I would like to play with Lowell awful well and I know that you would like to have me after you see me once, and perhaps you do now. I hope if you write it will be encouraging to me. I will be looking for a letter from you the same week and feel that you will not wait long before you answer my very sincere letter. Write.

Your friend in haste,
Harold ——.

Serious Fighting

MANILA, March 4.—The town of Jolo has undergone incessant attack by the Moros for the last two weeks. Details of the operations are difficult to obtain as the censorship is rigid. All the letters sent by officers and men defending the town are subject to the minutest scrutiny. That the fighting has been serious, however, is obvious from the last arrival of 29 wounded Americans, 17 of whom were suffering from serious injuries.

Bribery Charges Untrue

BOSTON, March 4.—The legislative committee on rules at the close of a continued hearing on the bribery charges made by Senator McIlevitt of Quincy issued a statement embodying the conclusion that the charges were untrue. The statement follows:

"The issue as to the truth was clearly drawn between the accusation of Senator John J. McDevitt of Quincy and Representative John F. Buckley of Boston. In the absence of other evidence the committee concludes that the statements by McDevitt were so vague, so conflicting, so absolutely contradictory and inconsistent as to make all that he said seem to be without foundation and unworthy of further consideration. The committee is compelled to conclude that the statements of Senator McDevitt, both on the public platform at Quincy and before the committee were untrue."

Society Women Wash Their Own Hair

"Home shampooing among society women is rapidly gaining in popularity," says Mae Martyn, writing for the San Francisco Bee. "This is not a fad or fancy, but rather because splendid results are attained in this manner, through the use of canthrox.

"If you would have luxuriant growth of glossy hair try this easy way of shampooing: Dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacup of hot water, then pour on the scalp and rub vigorously for a few minutes, after which the hair and scalp should be rinsed carefully. When the hair is dry you will be delighted with its fluffy, glossy condition.

"While canthrox is not expensive, you should be careful to get it in an original package."

Cable Broke and Elevator Dropped Fifty Feet

FRANKLIN, N. H., March 4.—A pile of yarn saved two men from instant death today when a cable broke and dropped a freight elevator from the third floor of the Franklin mills to the basement 50 feet below. Everist Fish and Fred Murray, who were riding on top of the yarn pile on the elevator, were somewhat injured but both will recover.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

A good sized audience was present at the Opera House last night to witness the first performance of "The Gamblers" by the Lonergan Players, under the personal direction of Lester Lonergan.

The play is a well constructed drama written by Charles Klein, and the presentation last night was thoroughly appreciated. Mr. Grew in the part of Wilbur Emerson, the chief gambler, was especially good, while Miss Booth carried out her part in an excellent manner. Mr. Charles, as well as the other members of this popular company were very pleasing to the audience.

The story of the play has to do with Wilbur Emerson, whose father is the president of the Emerson banks, and who entrusts all the money responsibilities with his son. The first scene is at the Emerson home on the eve of a party given by Wilbur Emerson's sister. Present at the party among others are three of the stockholders of the bank and James Darwin, a lawyer, and his wife. During the evening Emerson confesses to his father that he with three other men have signed notes that they are now unable to pay and tells that the federal authorities are now searching for them. "The Gamblers" believing that some one will have to go to jail decide to draw cards and the blame is to be placed on the loser. The father gets the low card but the son declares it a mis-deal and claims the low card as his, thereby taking the blame on his own shoulders. Wilbur Emerson finds out that one of the bank men has confessed all to the attorney and he also secures the information that the notes are in the home of Mr. Darwin. He goes to the Darwin home near midnight and sneaking in to the house is found in the library by Mrs. Darwin. The woman, although an old sweetheart of his refuses to give up the papers and, in the meantime, her husband arrives. He, after finding out that Emerson was there to steal, has him sent to the police station where he is obliged to spend the night, but is released the next day. Mrs. Darwin refuses to appear against him. The next morning Mrs. Darwin returns the package of notes to Wilbur Emerson but he, in order to clear the woman from any blame, has written a confession to the attorney while his father and the other members go free. Darwin has taken out papers for a divorce while Wilbur Emerson after private conversation with Mrs. Darwin is taken by a civil service detective.

"The Gamblers" will be presented at the Opera House every afternoon and evening during the present week.

Keith's Theatre

Sixty people appear in this week's program at Keith's theatre, which is one of the best ever offered at the popular playhouse. Of this number 41 are women, while the others are members of the stronger sex. The program is one of great variety, and owing to this fact all are assured of excellent entertainment.

The feature act is one that the Lowell public is very fortunate at having an opportunity to witness. It is one that is brought here at great expense, but Manager Stevens feels that the excellent patronage accorded him since coming to Lowell is worthy of the best acts obtainable. This he endeavors to do, and that his efforts are fully appreciated is evidenced by the large and enthusiastic audiences that are attending the weekly presentations at his show house. Last night's crowd was the largest Monday night attendance in the history of the theatre, and long before the show started the "S. R. O." sign was displayed.

The reason for this sign is due to the character of the bill. The leading number is headed Rice & Dore's water carnival, one of the most expensive acts in vaudeville. The number is one that demands the services of a large and clever company, and both are well supplied. The act can be called a circus number, for rarely has such a performance been given on a theatre platform. In the act a dozen bathing girls, four male swimmers, a diving dog and diving pony appear. Each performs in an unusually clever and artistic manner. High diving is one of the features of the performance and Miss Lillian Cooley, who makes her start from the flies, drops into the tank, amid a shower of water that presents a most spectacular picture. All of the sensational aquatic stunts are given by the swimmers, and each is given with a vim that keeps the spectators on edge during the entire time that the act is in progress.

George Harizell and Bennie Potter, as clowns, go through a number of entertaining stunts. The eight nymphs then perform, going to the bottom of the tank, and for ten minutes their whereabouts are unknown. Miss Offre who tips the beam at 341, is next introduced and she dives and swims as cleverly as the little ones.

The nymphs again appear from their hiding place and proceed to entertain in remarkable water stunts. Miss Fleming gave a clever demonstration of swimming, presenting many new methods of keeping from the bottom.

The La Prairie Brothers, Indians, appear in a thrilling series of manoeuvers. They are log rollers, who have few superiors at the art. Their part of the program is greatly enjoyed. The finale consisted of diving by the entire troupe of women performers, and each gave a specialty of her own. The act is certainly a wonderful one and must be seen to be appreciated.

The other acts on the program are excellent ones. "Who said Thief?" a comedy sketch in which David Higgins and a competent company appear is a number that went well at the opening performances yesterday. The story hinges around a gay old man, who takes unto himself a wife for pecuniary gain, and like all of these matches, excitement follows. He decides that a blonde would look better on his arm, and pays frequent visits to a manicurist of this type. On his wife's birthday anniversary hubby starts out to buy presents. Unexpectedly he runs into his blonde manicurist. Thereafter follow a series of complications, with the "old man" trimming a fake policeman, and making away with jewels, etc., etc. Mr. Higgins plays the part of the gay deceiver with a naturalness to be expected from such a good actor. Rose Murray was clever as the manicurist. Others who were good were: Alma McLaren, as the wife; Alice Gillmore as "Mme. Bangsky," and Thos. H. Ward as the fake copper.

Myer and Sheldon, who sing excellently, possess good voices, and their comedy was never strained. Paul Kleist in the spectacular novelty, "The Land of Dreams," gave a mixture of pantomime, music and electrical effects. It is a funny act, with Kleist doing some remarkable stunts. Dorothy Richmond & Co., in "A Midnight Marriage," give a number about a man being married without knowing anything about it. How the man actually fell in love with the beautiful creature who caused him to consent to marriage is the wind-up of the affair. Lewis & Demont give a highly pleasing act, and Lee & Perrin appeared in fine acrobatic dancing numbers. Irene Delys has a neat and enjoyable number.

The Playhouse

The initial performance by the Drama Players last evening of "The Marriage of Kitty" was sufficient assurance that patrons of that attractive little theatre are during this present week to be as well pleased as usual with the offering which Mr. Kendall Weston, director of the company has seen fit to present for their approval. In the past it has been an unbroken rule that the plays produced by this clever organization of actors have been well up to a certain high standard set at the very beginning and "The Marriage of Kitty" is far from being an exception, on the contrary is a step forward toward, if possible, an even higher standard. If this piece does not enjoy unlimited success and large patronage throughout the week, then such lack of appreciation will be a reflection on the good taste of the theatre going people of Lowell.

The play this week is a comedy, sparkling, winsome and cleverly constructed so as to bring out to their fullest advantage, the various situations which it contains. The audience which witnessed it last evening was an unusually large one and from its outward manifestations of appreciation, it was quite evident that it was of true merit and deserved the commendation which it received.

We shall not spoil the pleasure of those who are yet to witness the piece by relating the story of it in this article. Anyway, as in the case of the other productions, this one must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated, and mere words could not do the actors justice. The Drama Players are without exception, clever, and they are given an unusual opportunity this week.

Mr. J. Anthony Smythe, is quite as great a favorite as ever, in the light comic production and his ability is not confined to the heavier pieces alone. In this play he has the part of an Englishman and in this character he excelled last evening. "Kitty" is Miss Bertha Mann, who is now an established favorite with all patrons of the Playhouse, and she went even a notch higher in the esteem of those who saw her in this production. Miss Grace Young has a most difficult part and she does it full justice. Isaac Dillon, Howard Sidney and Orrin Shear furnished their large share of the amusement and all were warmly applauded for their work. Laura Tintle was pleasing as ever in the character of "Rosaline."

Never since the first production under the direction of Mr. Kendall Weston has the Playhouse to the slightest degree lowered its standard of clever acting and beautiful scenic arrangement. This latter quality has always been most remarkably well carried out in every instance and is a source of wonder to all who attend the various performances. With each succeeding week, Lowell people are realizing more and more that they have in their midst a company of actors who are severally and individually "stars," without exception. The acting is not the ordinary "stock" acting but is as patrons generally concede, really high class acting and every member of the company at the Playhouse is an artist.

It is a sign of good taste and keen appreciation of Lowell people that the audiences each week includes many new friends of the Drama Players, who are now general favorites throughout the city and surrounding towns. Lowell is favored by having with her such a company.

"The Marriage of Kitty" will be produced twice daily during the remainder of the week and should warrant large audiences.

Merrimack Square Theatre

With the departure of the Temple Players who were favorites in this city, Manager Carroll of the Merrimack Square theatre had to go some to fill the bill of this popular house in order to keep its good standard, and with the several numbers presented yesterday it may be said that he has succeeded. The audience at both performances was very large and appreciative and each number on the program was well received.

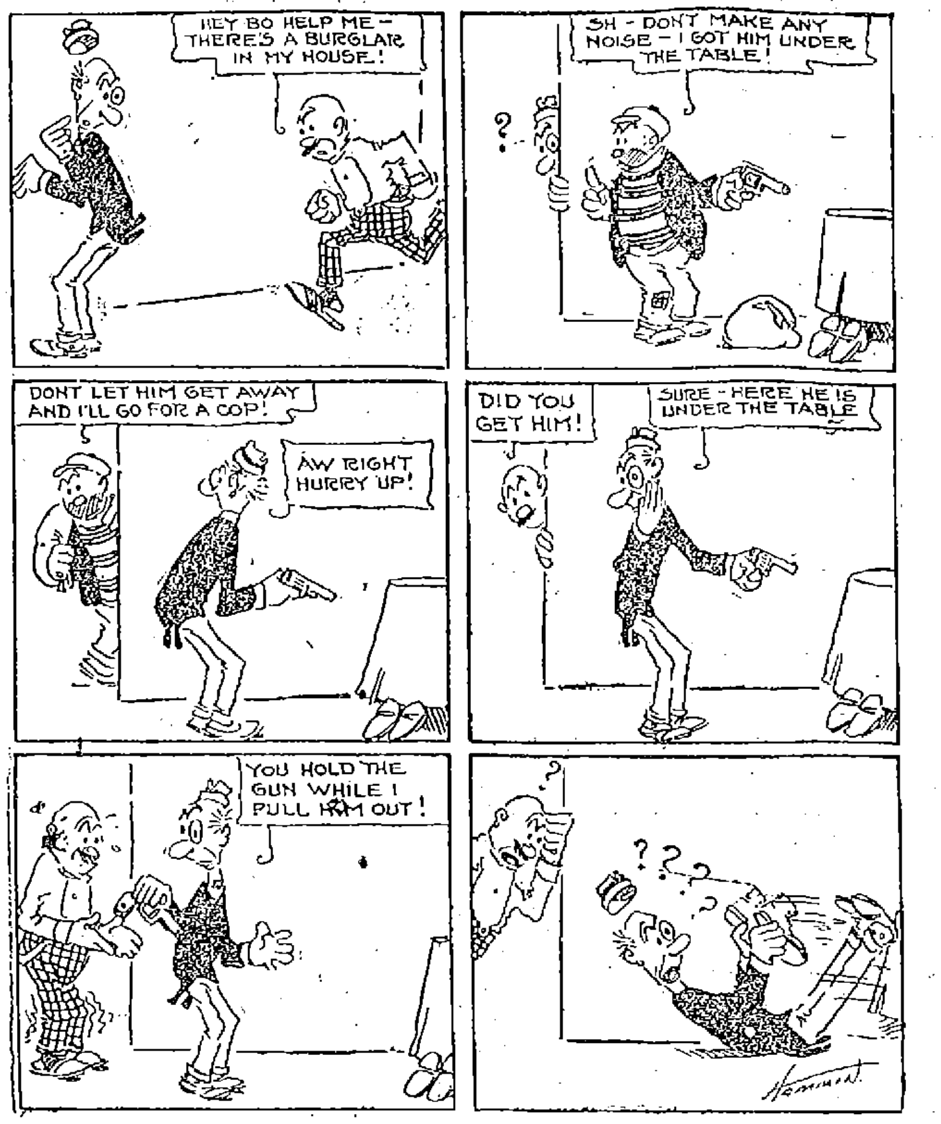

The bill is headed by a clever act entitled "A Dream of Killarney," ably presented by Anna Madigan & Co. The sketch is one of those delightful playlets of Irish life in the Emerald Isle, surrounded with all the quaint and enjoyable atmosphere characteristic of the land of the shamrock, and which never fails to strike a responsive chord in all audiences. The little story which is told, has to do with the "dream of the golden past" of Michael O'Hara, who in his younger days had fallen in love with "Kathleen," but who found, on his return from America that she had entered a convent and later died. The scene shows the convent and the graveyard nearby, where the body of "Kathleen" is buried. Michael happens along and falls asleep on the roadside and the action which follows, reflects his dreams of "the golden past." The piece is cleverly rendered and the staging is artistically done.

Valvino & LaMore are two acrobats of renown and their sketch is well worth seeing. The pair introduce new and difficult acrobatic feats and they inject just enough comedy in their sketch to make it pleasant and very entertaining.

"The Nashville Students," a trio composed of a woman and two men, are clever singers and dancers and their act is very attractive. The young men who excel in clog dancing give a very fine exhibition of this art and the applause throughout the sketch is frequent and loud.

The "Leist Musical Duo," are also very entertaining and they introduce new music which is astonishing. Their repertory includes cornet numbers, xylophone selections and some novelties that are good.

Well Known Business Man Died Suddenly

News of the sudden death of Thomas F. Duffy, which occurred late yesterday afternoon came as a severe shock to his numerous friends and a crushing blow to his family. He had not been in the best of health for some months past but his condition up till Sunday night was at no time serious. Even on Sunday evening he had supper with his family as usual and went to his store to bank the fires for the night. While in the store he was taken suddenly ill and was barely able to call a doctor. When the physician arrived he found Mr. Duffy in a very serious condition and ordered his removal to St. John's hospital, where he died about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Deceased had endeared himself to all his acquaintances by his devotion to his friends, his high sense of honor and his readiness to aid any good cause that appealed to his sense of fairness. He had been manager for the Charles H. Joyce company, but later entered business on his own account at 19 Market street. In his quiet and generous spirit he had helped many men into business and had aided numerous friends in need without letting any one know of his generosity. He is survived by a wife and six children; five boys; Francis V., Thos. F., Gerald, Edward and Joseph and one daughter, Mary; four sisters, Mrs. Ellen Cawley, Mrs. Harriet Ferrick of Boston, Miss Mary Duffy of this city and Sister Mercedes of the Franciscan order at Hopewell, N. J., two brothers, James of Ashley, Pa. and Edward of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Duffy was a member of the Central club, the Eagles, and the Lowell lodge of Elks. The body was removed to his home, 5 Varley avenue, or 667 Lakeview avenue. Mrs. Duffy and her family have the sincere sympathy of their many friends in their sad bereavement.

EAGLES, NOTICE

All members of Lowell Aerie are requested to be present at the home of our late brothers, George W. Shea, 27 Butler avenue at 7.30 o'clock, and Thomas F. Duffy, 667 Lakeview avenue at 5 o'clock, Wednesday evening, March 5, 1913, where the exercises of our order will be held. Per order.

"Pape's Diapepsin" Regulates Your Stomach and Ends Indigestion in Five Minutes

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

A New Department

For the man, young in years or in spirit, who wants to have his clothes made for him by a firm who will give the latest thing in style and the best in quality that $25.00 to $35.00 will buy in a SUIT or OVERCOAT. We hvae opened a Young Men's Department at 238 Fifth Avenue, New York, within a stone's throw of hosts of fashionable clubs and hotels where may be seen the best dressed men in all the world. For Fifth Avenue is the men's fashion center of the world, and to its ideas of the "proper thing" all other conceptions must bow. And here in the midst of the best of the best, with a concern which has been making clothes for the best dressed New Yorkers for 68 years, and whose every garment is guaranteed to give the wearer satisfaction or they will refund the money, we have opened our new CASH Department for Young Men who want up-to-date clothes made for them under $35.00 for SUIT or OVERCOAT. The clothes we make here for from $35 to $65 a suit are the equal of anything you can get in Boston from $45 to $85 a suit.
